ARBUCKLE BAIL IS FIXED AT $5000 CASH

PROBE STARTS IN BAIL BOND OPERATIONS

That the federal investigation of alleged bail bond activities of Charles D. Meyers, owner of apartment houses and former saloonist, may include other bail bond men in this city and reveal what is said to be a war between them for the cream of the "bootlegging business," is an intimation given out today. United State Commissioner Albert M. Hardie of Oakland has presented all of the evidence he has to Assistant United States Attorney Ben F. Geis and Federal Judge Maurice T. Dooling.

"It is possible," Hardie said today, "that I will be asked to make a complaint in the Federal court or that one of the witnesses will swear to the charge. I am not certain as to what can be done in the matter, but I am certain that it is time some action were taken to clear this office of the suspicion that has been aroused. Complaints have been made to me that Meyers has told various men arrested on bootlegging charges that he has influence with me and that he could secure their release. So long as such a situation obtains this office is being attacked."

"PETTY JEALOUSY," MEYERS' STATEMENT.

Meyers gave out the hint today of the differences in the bail bond ranks.

"This is all brought about by petty jealousies," he said, "and nothing will come of it. I never accepted money from any accused man except for bonds or for attorney fees."

Further than this Meyers would not discuss the case, maintaining the same silence and attitude that was his in 1917 when the grand jury investigated his alleged activities in the county jail.

"I do not know how many men will be brought into the case or where the angles will lie," said Hardie today. "But I am hoping that a thorough investigation will follow. There are a large number of others in Oakland and San Francisco who may be subject to investigation."

That the sheriff's and probation officer's offices may be called upon to supply testimony was another development of the day. It was pointed out that on November 6, 1917, F. H. Brokaw, accused of fleecing wealthy persons, charged that Meyers offered to "get him out of jail" for $1250.

PROMISES MADE TO FREE PRISONERS.

This accusation of Brokaw's brought on a grand jury investigation of conditions obtaining at the jail and of the Brokaw charges. When the grand jury found that because Meyers was not an officer of the county it could not indict him, it issued a statement in which it said:

"There is no doubt in the minds of the grand jury that Charles Meyers used his friendship with Sheriff Barnet as a lever to enable him to have access to the county jail. This was done without the knowledge of the sheriff. There is also no doubt that he sought to secure money from prisoners upon the promise that he would secure their release upon either probation or parole. This action was likewise without the knowledge of the sheriff or of the probation officer, Leonard Compton."

The jury recommended that no one, other than officials, be allowed to loiter in the jail and the rule, the sheriff's office says, has been applied strictly.

OFFER TO "SQUARE" THINGS ALLEGED.

Hardie says that the evidence he supplied the federal court is partly obtained direct from Meyers, "who made no bones over it," and partly hearsay. Two Oakland waiters, says Hardie, were arrested for violating the Volstead act. Hardie says that Meyers went to the proprietor of the restaurant and offered to "square things" for the men for $200. It is also alleged by Hardie that when he was United States attorney in San Francisco, Meyers secured $200 from a defendant whose case was about to be dismissed.

John Kesovia, Martin Saulovich and Steve Garbutt, charged at various times with violating the prohibition act, are among those who have supplied evidence to Hardie, according to the commissioner.

"If Meyers is not guilty," said Hardie, "he should have no trouble in vindicating himself and should be given the opportunity. The stories of his alleged activities continue to come into the office and in most of them is the statement that he had told prospective clients that he had influence with me. I can do no more than put the matter before the federal court, but I believe that an investigation is certain to follow."

Parcel Post Service To Russia Resumed

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Parcel post service is now open to Russia, as well as the regular mail service, the postoffice department announced today. This service was discontinued during and immediately after the war because of the unsettled conditions in Russia.

Unregistered parcels can be sent to Russia in Europe and Russia in Asia, except the Ukraine and Turkestan, by way of England.

Noted Couple Separate

MRS. SAMUEL J. HUME, who today admits separation from her husband, and (lower), PROFESSOR HUME of the University of California, now in Detroit on a theatrical venture.

Professor Hume And Wife Agree To Separation

Director of Greek Theater Goes East; Will Not Oppose Divorce Suit.

That the matrimonial bark of Professor Samuel J. Hume, director of the Greek Theater at the University of California and leader in artistic circles about the bay, and his equally talented wife, has struck stormy seas and that the couple have agreed to a divorce was disclosed today.

With Hume at present in Detroit directing a dramatic season, Mrs. Hume at her home in Berkeley refuses to discuss details of the separation which has become known to college circles.

That there is a separation Mrs. Hume admits. So also does her attorney, Ernest L. Brune, associate of Gavin McNab, who has been retained by Mrs. Hume to prepare a divorce suit which will be instituted at some future time.

HUME AGREED NOT TO OPPOSE ACTION.

Furthermore it is admitted by all concerned that prior to his departure for Detroit early in the summer Hume entered into an agreement with his wife whereby he promised to voice no objections to any divorce action which Mrs. Hume would bring at the end of a year's time. The formal charge of desertion, without any earmarks of scandal, is declared to be the basis on which action will be started by Mrs. Hume.

Back of the divorce action, which is contemplated by Mrs. Hume and which she admits as a certainty of the future, is declared by college friends of the couple to be a series of episodes in the lives of the well known couple which caused friends to look for a breach in their affairs for some months.

SAYS HUSBAND IS VERY CLEVER MAN.

"In Mr. Hume's absence I can discuss nothing," Mrs. Hume said today. "I can only refer you to my attorney, Mr. Hume is a very clever man. There is no reason why he should not continue his successful career whether I am associated with him in any way or not."

"There does exist a written agreement for separation between Mr. and Mrs. Hume," admitted Brune today. "Its provisions are, obviously, of personal concern only to those who drew it and I could not even intimate what they are. I can only confirm the story that the agreement exists and that the Humes are living separately."

Of recent months the Humes have been residing at 2313 Durant avenue, where they have entertained visiting celebrities and other leading artists of the bay region. Shortly after coming to Berkeley several years ago, Mrs. Hume opened a fashionable gift shop within a stone's throw of

Government to Run Wells in Strike District

Oil Properties Endangered by Shutdown; Will Be Protested.

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 15.—The United States government probably will operate wells which would be damaged by being shut down, on properties now worked by oil operators under leases from the government if the operators are unable to work them, according to a telegraphic communication from Washington, D. C., to the Bakersfield Californian quoting information secured at the United States land office in Washington. The statement from the land office said that the government will grant time extensions on the leases and that the operators will be given relief.

A large acreage in some of the richest producing fields of Kern county is operated under leases from the government. A number of companies hold such leases, under the terms of which the government receives royalties ranging as high as 25 per cent of the petroleum produced.

Among these companies is the Pan-American Petroleum company, controlled by E. L. Doheny. If the present shut down continues, many of the wells will be damaged by water, according to oil experts.

HARDING ACTS TO END STRIKE.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 15.—Two developments placed new aspects on the oil strike situation in the state late last night, according to Walter J. Yarrow, district council adviser to the oil unions, speaking from Coalinga to a representative of the Bakersfield Echo.

One is a duplicate telegram, signed by President Harding and Hugh Kerwin, head of the department of conciliation, department of labor, and the other a vote taken by the Coalinga union to return to work "at the first intimation of a conference participated in by the oil operators." Coalinga's vote to return to work was accompanied with a proviso that all discharged men be taken back, or "we will starve to death" rather than go back, was the wording of the vote taken, according to Yarrow. The telegram from Kerwin is as follows:

"Your telegram of last evening received. Very much regret strike called. Federal board and departmental officials using every possible influence and we are very hopeful that ultimate result will be acceptable to all concerned. Further extension of the strike ordered will only retard our very honest efforts. Important meeting now being arranged. Secretary of labor, as well as President in touch with every angle of the situation. We would recommend that very careful handling is necessary."

The exact wording of President Harding's telegram to Yarrow was not made public, as Yarrow said that he did not have it available, but said that it was practically the same as that of Kerwin's message.

WORKERS RETURN TO OIL FIELDS.

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 15. — Thirty-one producing oil companies have signed the contract offered by the oil workers' union and fifteen hundred men in the San Joaquin valley fields have returned since last Monday, W. J. Yarrow, chairman district council of the union announced at a strikers' mass meeting held here.

SOVEREIGNTY FOR IRELAND IS DEMANDED

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(By Associated Press.)—Premier Lloyd George has replied to the latest communication of Eamonn de Valera on the question of an Irish settlement, it was announced late today. The reply it was said would be made public tonight.

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

DUBLIN, Sept. 15.—Ireland will negotiate as a free state. The reply of President de Valera to Premier Lloyd George's invitation to a conference at Inverness, which was issued here today, contained this definite statement.

The British prime minister had insisted tht Ireland's remaining a part of the empire must be accepted by Sinn Fein before the conference could take place. De Valera's note today pointed out that Ireland had already declared her independence. It stated that Sinn Fein had no objection to entering a conference to discuss the association of Ireland with the British empire, but that Ireland would negotiate as a sovereign state.

SOVEREIGN STATE, IS IRELAND'S CLAIM.

DUBLIN, Sept. 15—(By Associated Press.)—The text of the reply of Eamonn de Valera to Premier Lloyd George's latest communication is as follows:

"We are unhesitating in declaring our willingness to enter a conference to ascertain how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire can best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations.

"Our readiness to contemplate such an association was indicated in our letter of August 20. We have accordingly summoned the dail, that we may submit to it for ratification the names of the representatives it is our intention to propose. We hope that these representatives will find it possible to be at Inverness by the date you suggest, Sept. 26.

"In this final note we deem it our duty to reaffirm that our position is and can only be as we have defined it throughout this correspondence. Our nation has formally declared its independence and recognizes itself as a sovereign state. It is only as representative of that state and as its chasen guardians that we have authority or powers to act on behalf of our people.

"As regards the principle of government by consent of the governed, by the very nature of thinhgs it must be the basis of any agreement that will achieve the purpose we have at heart—that is the final reconciliation of our nation with yours.

PREMIER'S WORDS CITED IN REPLY.

"We have suggested no interpretation of that principle save in every day interpretation, the sense, for example, in which it was understood by the plain men and women of the world when on Jan. 5, 1918, you said: 'The sentiment of Europe must be based on such grounds of reason and justice as will give some promise of stability. Therefore it is that we feel that government with the consent of the governed must be the basis of any territorial settlement in this war.'

"These words are th true answer to the criticism of our position which your last letter puts forward. The principle was understood then to mean the right of nations that had been annexed to empires against their will to free themselves from the grappling hook. That is the sense in which we understand it. In reality, it is your government when it seeks to rend our ancient nation and to partition its territory that would give to the principle an interpretation that would undermine the fabric of every democratic state and drive the civilized world back into tribalism.

"I am, sir, faithfully yours,

"EAMONN DE VALERA."

BREAK IN PEACE NOTES IS POSSIBILITY.

Continuance of negotiations with the British government with a view to establishing a basis for peace in Ireland was believed here today to depend largely upon the report submitted to Eamonn de Valera and his colleagues by Harry Boland and Joseph McGrath, the couriers sent to Gairloch on Monday to confere with Prime Minister Lloyd George. The two were expected to lay before Irish Republican leaders the explanations given by the prime minister of his latest note to Dublin.

There was a possibility, however, that the report of Boland and McGrath would be such that there might be a break, at least for a time, in the conversations that have been going on for the past two months.

Arthur Griffith, Robert C. Barton, Eamonn D. Dunn and George Gavin Duffy, three of the plenipotentiaries appointed yesterday to take part in the "possible conference with representatives of the British government," might, it was indicated, take the Sinn Fein reply to Inverness. Michael Collins, finance minister in the Dail Eirrann cabinet and the fourth plenipotentiary, is announced to address a meeting at Charleville, County Cork, next Sunday, and it was stated today that he expected to fulfill the engagement. This, it was pointed out, would make it virtually impossible for him to arrive at Inverness, Scotland.

ULSTER UNIONISTS KEPT FROM PARLEY.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Ulster Unionists have requested representation at the proposed Irish peace conference at Inverness, but were refused by Premier Lloyd George, it was learned this afternoon. The refusal was based on the premier's contention that the conference with the Sinn Feiners is but a preliminary meeting, and that later a general parley will be held when all Irish factions will be represented.

TWO WOMEN SHOT DURING BELFAST RIOT.

BELFAST, Sept. 15.—Two women were shot during a violent outbreak of rioting here today. The fighting centered in Vere street. Revolvers were fired and stones and brickbats thrown.

The police were powerless to disperse the mobs and soldiers with machine guns were summoned.

Many Are Killed in Hurricane in West Indies

(By Associated Press)

BRIDGETOWN, Barbadoes, Sept. 15.—The schooner Majestic, commanded by Captain Barnes, with 32 passengers and crew from Demerara for Barbadoes, is believed to have been lost in the hurricane which swept over this region September 8.

Four boatmen were drowned here during the storm, but only slight damage was caused to the sea front.

The tropical storm Sunday at San Pedro Macoris, Santo Domingo, caused 22 deaths and great material damage there, according to Captain Tremdack of the steamer Marina, which arrived here from Santo Domingo today. Many coastal craft in the harbor were wrecked, he said.

Gardner Seen On Mainland, Is Latest Report

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SEATTLE, Sept. 15.—Members of a construction gang at Summit Lake, 16 miles west of Shelton, Washington, saw a man in convict's uniform running through the woods, according to a report received by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Peace officers are investigating the possibility that it may have been Roy Gardner, the mail bandit, who escaped from McNeil Island federal prison last week.

McNEIL ISLAND, Wash., Sept. 15.—A special search was being conducted here today to find a woman whose house, according to belated reports reaching Warden Thomas Maloney, was entered last Friday by Roy Gardner, escaped convict, who forced the woman to feed him.

Gardner enforced silence on the woman by threatening her with death, it is said, but eventually the story got out and reached the prison authorities.

The general search is still going on with nearly sixty armed men participating. Most of these men are employing still hunting tactics. Scattered about the island through the brush they remain quietly under cover, waiting for the fugitive train robber to show himself, either in a quest of food or in an attempt to leave the island.

Anti-Red Troops Meet With Defeat

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

RIGA, Sept. 15.—According to a radio despatch from Moscow, a detachment which raised the Imperatorskaya at Vladivostok captured all the officers of the anti-Bolshevik Merkulof government also the convoy cruiser Lieutenant Davidoff.

A despatch from Nibolsk reports the defeat of bands of followers of General Semenoff, the anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, in the vicinity of Grokodovoka.

Another despach says the Far Eastern government has appealed to the Kappel troops, offering them amnesty if they surrender within a month.

Radio reports from the east Gallician frontiers, says a despatch from Moscow, contain alarming information concerning the movement of the troops of the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevik leader, General Petlura. They declare, however, that rumors of an approaching war between Russia and Rumania are being circulated with ulterior motives.

Ruth Hits Homer 55 And Smashes Record

The Yankee slugger knocked the ball out of the park with one man on base for his 55th homer of the year. Ruth's long wallop today established a world's record for modern baseball. Bayne was pitching for St. Louis.

BIG PACKERS LAUNCH OPEN SHOP REGIME

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—"Open shop" was established today by four of the nation's largest packers.

Officials of the union butchers were notified by the packers that in the future only employees and not union officials would be dealt with.

The agreement under which Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler acted as arbitrator in disputes between packers and union employees expired today and in its place the "American shop representation plan" was established.

MEN FAVOR PLAN, COMPANIES CLAIM.

The packers announced that more than 90 per cent of their 75,000 employees in the country have voted in favor of the plan. In all the large packing concerns, the companies have formed their employees into organizations, representatives of which treat with company officials in matters of working conditions and wages.

The packers that have thrown their companies into open shops are: Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company. No announcement has been made by Morris & Co. of a shop representation plan.

With the announcement of the open shop came the statement that there would be no immediate readjustment of wages or working conditions, both of which remain the same as under the Alschuler agreement.

Pending conferences among union officials, no statements were forthcoming.

UNION OFFICIALS ARE TURNED AWAY.

Charles Hays, president of the union; Patrick Gorman, vice-president, and Dennis Lane, business agent, called on the packers today and asked for a continuance for another year of the same wage scales and working rules as provided in the Alschuler war time agreement. At the Armour, Swift and Morris plants they were told that only their own employees would be dealt with in the future.

All men and women are eligible to employment whether members of outside unions or not.

No persons may represent employees in adjustment of grievances who is not an employee of the company.

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The big packers will follow their adoption of the so-called American plan of employee organizations with wage cuts, despite present agreements, Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, said today.

The national labor organizations will back the International Butchers' union and other organizations of packer employees in their fight against the open shop, Morrison said.

Two Plans Open for Nations' Association

By A. L. BRADFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are without a plan to develop an "association of nations" out of the forthcoming Washington disarmament and Pacific conference, according to information in authoritative quarters here today.

The administration now is believed to have the choice of one of two main courses to follow in meeting the "association of nations" issue.

1.—To accept any agreement for limitation of armaments that may be worked out in the conference, as an effective fulfillment of the "association of nation" pledge.

2.—Or to make an effort in the conference, or as a result of it, to reach an agreement with the powers on some organized method of settling justiceable questions, which, with an agreement of limitation of armament could take the place of the League of Nations, at least for this country.

Disarming Session to Dodge Immigration

TOKYO, Sept. 15 (By the Associated Press).—Belief that immigration problems will not be included in the agenda of the conference on the limitation of armament and Far Eastern questions at Washington is held in this city. It is declared that this question will not be discussed at the conference because both Japan and the United States hope for a direct settlement.

Argentina Drops Plan For $50,000,000 Loan

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—Negotiations between the Argentine government and American banking institutions for a loan of $50,000,000, have been suspended, it is learned in authoritative quarters here.

COERCION OF JURY IN FILM STAR'S BEHALF RUMORED; PROBE ON

Police and Inquisitors Assert That Reports of Intimidation Are Baseless; Woman Is Being Sought

INDICTMENT FORMALLY FILED

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 15.—Bail for Roscoe Arbuckle, who was formally indicted today by the county grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for the alleged killing of Virginia Rappe, moving picture actress, was fixed at $10,000 bonds or $5000 cash, which Attorney Frank Dominguez announced was satisfactory.

The indictment charges Arbuckle as follows:

"That the said Roscoe Arbuckle on or about the 9th day of September did then and there willfully, unlawfully and feloniously and without malice kill one Virginia Rappe, a human being."

The names of the following witnesses were appended: Bambina Maude Delmont, Al Semnacher, Zey Pyvron Prevost, Jean Jamison, Dr. William Ophuls, Rose Reiss, Jack Reiss, Ira Fortlouis, Roscoe Arbuckle, Alice Blake and Grace Halston.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—After a lengthy and thorough investigation, Clifford Curtis, foreman of the grand jury, which today formally returned an indictment charging Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle with manslaughter for the killing of Virginia Rappe, officially announced that reports that members of the jury were being intimidated by friends of the defendant were without foundation. Curtis made this announcement shortly before court convened before Judge Shortall.

"We have investigated these reports with great care and precision," Curtis declared, "and have failed to find any basis for them. I stand convinced that they have been circulated out of malice."

The reports that members of the jury were in danger of being broached by a "mysterious person" said to be closely connected with the defense, were whispered the day after the first grand jury session in the case. They reached the ears of Foreman Curtis, who immediately informed District Attorney Brady and Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson, and a thorough probe was begun. All of the jurymen were kept under surveillance and an effort was made to trace down the authors of the rumor. The police, with Curtis, said today they were perfectly satisfied that the reports were without basis.

First intimation that he may disregard his policy announced yesterday, and make public today the exact charge which he will prefer against Arbuckle for his prosecution in the death of Virginia Rappe, was given by District Attorney Brady upon his arrival at his office today.

He declined to intimate what the decision would be and said it depended upon conferences planned for this afternoon.

He went into conference with Captain of Detectives Matheson immediately.

He announced, however, that he might decide later in the day on what charge—murder in the first degree, or manslaughter—Arbuckle would be tried.

Following the conference Matheson said there were no new developments.

ARBUCKLE MAY STAY IN JAIL ANOTHER NIGHT.

Brady later announced that he would definitely decide what charge to put against the film star late today. He declared, however, that he did not know whether he would make public his decision or not.

If Brady does make public his decision and decides to prosecute Arbuckle on the charge of manslaughter, the film actor will not be able to gain freedom on bail until the charge of first degree murder is formally dismissed by the court tomorrow, so in any event Arbuckle will probably remain in jail another night.

The case took a new aspect today following a conference between the district attorney and Police Chief Daniel O'Brien when the chief put his own special detective, Sergeant Frank McConnell, on the matter. Both Brady and O'Brien declined to divulge the reason for assigning McConnell, or what was expected to be accomplished.

MISSING WOMAN BEING SOUGHT IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Despite the fact that Mrs. Mae Taube, reported as another guest at the "party," is supposed to be in Los Angeles, a local search was begun for her today. Brady declaring that he had information to the effect that she was in San Francisco.

Coincident with the formal return of the indictment a letter, believed by police to have been written by a crank, was received by Harry Kelly, secretary of the grand jury, threatening the life of Arbuckle if justice were not done. The writer describes himself in the letter as a relative of the Rappe girl. The message was sent by special delivery. It was delivered this morning shortly before the court session, at which the comedian was not present.

The note said in part:

"I am related to this girl, whom he is no doubt responsible for the death of, and if Mr. Arbuckle successfully cheats the law and justice with his money and able attorney, I will say here and now he cannot succeed. He cannot cheat me. I will shoot him down if it is the last act of my life. I will take time and wait with patience for justice and if it cannot be weighed out justly then Mr. Arbuckle will answer to me. My only hope and prayer is that the law shall find its course."

$100,000 AVAILABLE TO BAIL ARBUCKLE.

Formal return of the indictment was expected to mark the opening of a determined effort on the part of the defense to obtain the release of the famous film comedian on bail. Judge Shortall was expected to set the amount of bail and reports were current that the defense had prepared for any contingency by having available a bail bond of $100,000.

Names of many well known movie actors and actresses are likely to be brought into the case when Arbuckle goes to trial on the charge of assaulting and fatally injuring Miss Rappe in his hotel rooms Labor Day. They will be called by the prosecution and the defense to testify to Arbuckle's previous character.

COMPLETE EXPOSURE OF NIGHT LIFE EXPECTED.

This line of investigation will also bring into court testimony with regard to "wild parties" of the fast set in the Los Angeles movie colony, in which Arbuckle is alleged to have participated. A complete expose of this night life is expected.

Mrs. Alice Blake and Miss Zey Pyvron, important witnesses, have been placed in seclusion under police surveillance and steps taken to safeguard other witnesses from outside influence, it was announced.

The Women's Vigilance Committee, an organization formed during the gangster trials here, appointed a committee of twenty to give the women witnesses in the case moral support and to look after their welfare.

PROHIBITION OFFICERS PROBE LIQUOR PARTY.

There was conjecture today as to the effect of the entrance of the federal government into the case through action by Special Attorney General Robert H. McCormack looking toward a sweeping investigation into the source of liquor at Arbuckle's gay party and whether similar affairs are prevalent. Prohibition officials were considering seizing Arbuckle's $25,000 automobile on suspicion that liquor was transported in it from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

"I intend to go after him, and any man or woman who attempts to evade or misrepresent the details of the Arbuckle party insofar as the liquor end of it is concerned will be prosecuted on charges of perjury," was the statement of McCormack.

Officials frankly were more con-earned today over charges and rumors of witness tampering than they were in reaching a decision on what charge Arbuckle will be prosecuted.

"If the witnesses in this case are being tampered with all the machinery of the district attorney's office will be used to run the guilty party down," District Attorney Brady declared. "I am more interested in seeing that money does not influence anyone connected with the case than I am in convicting Arbuckle. A crime has been committed and Arbuckle stands charged with the commission of that crime. He is to be tried on the merits of the case and I do not propose that money shall be allowed to influence a single person connected with the case. The matter will be investigated thoroughly."

Demand was made by the coroner's jury in its verdict charging Arbuckle with manslaughter that steps be taken by all officials concerned to prevent recurrence in San Francisco of such affairs as that staged by Arbuckle which had a fatal ending.

ANNETTE ADAMS ONE OF WOMEN SPEAKERS.

The same sentiment was expressed at a meeting of the Women's Vigilance Committee. One of the speakers there was former Assistant Attorney-General Annette Adams, who has just returned from Washington, where her work had to do with enforcement of the prohibition amendment.

"There is by far too great a tendency to flout the law, and its infractions are being regarded with entirely too much toleration and complacence by those not directly affected," said Mrs. Adams. "Let us make up our minds that, once a law is written upon our statute books, it is there to be enforced. And its enforcement must be demanded against every violator. It is unfortunate that we should have to wait for some such tragedy as this Arbuckle case before being roused to action."

"The Arbuckle case," said Miss A. Miller, prominent social worker, "is illustrative of conditions not alone in San Francisco, but in other communities as well, where a small coterie of persons of 'influence' may have reason to believe themselves immune from the moral and legal codes. We stand for respect for and obedience of the law by all the people. There is too much tendency on the part of some of our so-called 'best citizens' to look tolerantly upon infractions."

COMMITTEE OF TWENTY WILL WATCH CASE.

The committee of twenty appointed by this organization will watch the proceedings throughout the case and sit through the trial in order to personally assure themselves that justice is done.

"While there will be no let-up in their investigation in order that no angles may be overlooked, the detectives working in conjunction with the district attorney's office believe the case against Arbuckle is practically complete. Following a conference with Chief of Detectives Duncan Matheson today, at which the latter made a complete report, District Attorney Brady said:

"Every known guest at the party, with the possible exception of Mrs. Mae Taube, has been interrogated and every angle of the case has been investigated. I think it has been covered thoroughly. With the exception of Arbuckle all the known witnesses have told what they know, and I feel that the case has been thoroughly investigated. Sufficient evidence has been secured and presented to justify the charge against Arbuckle."

SIX WOMEN PROVIDE EVIDENCE FOR STATE.

Mrs. Taube has been found in Los Angeles and is being questioned there today. She is not thought to have attended the party of Monday, September 5, but was a caller on Arbuckle on the day before, according to information in the hands of Brady. He desires to know what went on in Arbuckle's rooms that day.

Here are the six women witnesses in the case upon whom the district attorney must depend for evidence:

Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, Virginia Rappe's friend; main witness for the prosecution, who brought the murder charge.

Zey Prevon-Prevost who, according to Captain Matheson, was approached by an unidentified person and advised to "keep her mouth shut."

Mrs. Alice Blake, formerly of Oakland, cafe singer, third star witness; missing for two days but later found.

GIRL LATE ARRIVAL MAY AID DEFENSE.

Henry Lehrman, said to have been the fiance of Miss Rappe, today telegraphed instructions for Miss Rappe's body to be shipped to Los Angeles, where elaborate funeral arrangements were being made.

Lehrman also telegraphed District Attorney Mathew Brady thanking him for pressing the prosecution of Arbuckle.

Mayor "Larry" Hodgson of St. Paul sent a similar telegram.

"If Arbuckle is not punished the moving picture is done, for decent people are tired of the eccentricities of genius," Mayor Hodgson said. "Go the limit and win the praise of all good people."

"Assure you and good people of St. Paul that in spite of Arbuckle's money and influence, the case will be prosecuted most vigorously." Brady answered.

ARBUCKLE RECEIVES TWENTY TELEGRAMS.

Brady admitted today he was deeply interested in the report on alleged orgies in the Hollywood motion picture colony which J. H. Pelletier, chairman of the Los Angeles Morals Efficiency Committee, announced he was preparing for him.

Two Los Angeles firms have filed attachments against Arbuckle's $100,000 mansion. One attachment is for an interior decorator's bill of $11,000; the other for an unpaid furniture bill of $6,500—less than "Fatty" earns in two weeks under contract.

CORONER'S JURY ACCUSES ARBUCKLE.

The majority verdict returned by the coroner's jury and approved by Coroner's T. B. W. Leland, follows:

We find that the said Virginia Rappe, female, white, aged about 25 years, single, residence Los Angeles, Cal., nativity unknown, occupation unknown, came to her death on September 8, 1921, at the Wakefield sanatorium, from rupture of the bladder; contributory cause, acute peritonitis.

And we further find that said Virginia Rappe came to her death from peritonitis caused by a rupture. * * Said rupture was caused by the application of some force, which from the evidence submitted we believe was applied by one Roscoe Arbuckle, and the undersigned jurors therefore charge the said Roscoe Arbuckle with the crime of manslaughter.

We, the jury, recommend that the district attorney of the city and county of San Francisco, in conjunction with the grand jury, the chief of police and the federal prohibition officials, take steps to prevent the recurrence of affairs similar to the one in which the young woman lost her life, so that San Francisco shall not be made the rendezvous of the debauchee and gangster.

ONE JUROR FILES DISSENTING VERDICT.

The majority verdict was signed by Colbert Caldwell, foreman; W. Garner Smith, A. T. Hunter, James Kling, Eugene L. Immons, W. E. MacPherson, R. J. Goff and Alfred D. Martin.

Ben Boas, over his signature, returned the following minority verdict:

"I, the undersigned juror, find that the said Virginia Rappe came to her death from peritonitis caused by a rupture of the bladder. Said rupture was caused by the application of some force, and from the evidence submitted I am unable to determine who was responsible for the application of said force."

It took the jury three and a half hours to reach its verdict, the responsibility for the death of the girl. One after another of the undecided jurors swung over to the side of the majority, with the exception of Boas, who stood firm in his position that sufficient evidence to connect Arbuckle with the crime was lacking.

ARBUCKLE SPIRIT SHOWS SIGN OF SLUMP.

That the finding of the coroner's jury were phrased in much more direct and forceful words than had been expected by Arbuckle's array of counsel was plainly manifest. Only Charles Brennan of the legal staff was present when the verdict was read and he made a hasty copy which he rushed off to present to Frank Dominguez.

Arbuckle personally showed signs of a heavy slump of spirit. During the long period of waiting he has been buoyed by his attorneys. Yet when the jurymen filed into the inquest room he leaned forward nervously, and while the document was being read by the coroner, and his name was announced as causing Miss Rappe's death, the comedian's lips twitched nervously and his full face took on a sallow, sickened hue.

With the words, "debauchee and gangster" ringing in his ears, Arbuckle was led back to his cell in the city prison by his guard of detectives.

Actor's Career Ended, Opinion of Film Writer

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle's career as a movie comedian is ended, is the opinion of Frank E. Woods of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, who is also president of the Screen Writers' Guild.

"In your opinion will producers use Roscoe Arbuckle in the pictures again if he should be acquitted?"

Woods replied:

"No, not unless there should be complete vindication. I think his day is over. I do not think he will ever appear in pictures again, and it is right that it should be so."

EVILS OF DRY LAW SEEN IN ARBUCKLE AFFAIR BY PARIS

French Press Draws Lesson of Sobriety From the Fatal Result of Party.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The French press today used the case of Fatty Arbuckle, which it continued to feature as the principal news, as an object lesson of the evils of American prohibition.

Editorially, many papers urge that the United States should profit by the lesson and restore light wines and beer.

The Paris Midi says: "Americans are racially too inflammable. They persist in drinking hard liquor. If Fatty had drunk wine, Miss Rappe would still be alive. Whisky renders men brutal and bestial."

Even the sedate Journal des Bats features Fatty and says: "So there is liquor in America after all. The states are only dry for strangers who don't 'know the system.' The systems must be more perfect there than here, judging by results."

La Liberte was incredulous. "Could that great big comic one be an assassin?" it asked.

Another paper says: "That (the Arbuckle affair) shows how Americans drink. They rush over here to drink, some of them not leaving the bar during the entire voyage."

All papers carry every available scrap of copy about Arbuckle, whose troubles were the main topic in clubs, restaurants and cafes.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—This city was completely darkened by heavy clouds for several minutes shortly after 9 o'clock today.

Barbers Contest For Privilege of Shaving "Fatty"

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle played lead in a new one-reel comedy today, entitled: "Who Shall Shave Fatty?" The scenario follows:

Time—7:30 a. m.

Place—City Prison, Hall of Justice.

Characters—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, James Gallagher, regular jail barber, and Harry Held, a barber with a shop across the street, who has been in the habit of shaving Arbuckle.

Gallagher arrives at the jail first and takes possession of the only barber chair.

Gallagher to Arbuckle: "Shave this morning, sir?"

"Fatty": "You're not my barber. I'll wait for him."

Gallagher (aside): "Ah, ah! You may have a long wait."

(Enter Held to shave "Fatty." He attempts to gain possession of the chair, which is held by Gallagher, without success, and after arguing to no avail for several minutes, makes an abrupt and haughty exit).

Gallagher (to Arbuckle): "Now will you have a shave, sir?"

"Fatty" (laughing): "I guess I'll have to. My usual barber couldn't get your chair." (Climbs into barber chair). "Give me everything you've got."

President Harding In Effort to Put End to Oil Strike

ATTEMPTS TO WRECK TRAIN REPORTED.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15. — One man was injured near Fellows, in the San Joaquin valley oil fields, in what was alleged to be an attempt by a crowd of men to wreck trains running into the oil fields, according to an announcement last night by the Chamber of Mines and Oils here, representing the oil operators. * * *

"Reports to railroad officers from the Summit Railway, a line owned jointly by the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe and serving the Sunset-Midway fields in the San Joaquin valley," said the statement, "showed that malicious attempts were made to wreck trains in an effort to prevent guards from reaching the properties of the oil companies for the purpose of protection.

"Report to Assistant General Manager Williams of the Southern Pacific shows that three cars were run off the end of the house track at Taft, one car going over the derail and blocking the main line, the switch locks being broken. Spikes were pulled at the switch connection at Pentland, with the result that an engine was derailed. The strikers at that point refused to let the section men repair the track until the train was turned back to Bakersfield carrying the guards destined to the fields.

"West of Fellows a railroad switch was so thrown as to divert movements to spur tracks from the main line with the result that a motor-car was derailed and one of the employees on board slightly injured through being thrown from the motor.

STRIKERS INSPECT INCOMING TRAINS.

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 15.—Fearing a repetition of the attempt made Tuesday to send 250 alleged armed guards into the oil fields of Kern county, striking union members have strengthened their forces at the railroad station and highway approaches to Bakersfield and nearby towns to prevent outside workers from leaving the trains.

Large numbers of oil workers swarmed the platform at the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific railroad stations, inspecting all cars that arrived.

ARBUCKLE SEEMS DEPRESSED AFTER INQUEST VERDICT

Actor Appears More Discouraged; Has Light Breakfast in His Cell.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Seemingly more discouraged and depressed than at any time since his arrest and confinement, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, the fat funny man of the films, rose in his cell in the hall of justice this morning and ordered a light breakfast. Despite the fact that it is generally understood that the movie star will be at liberty by nightfall on bail, "Fatty" appeared sullen and morose.

It is believed thta he was disappointed that the coroner's jury did not exonerate him from any blame in Virginia Rappe's death.

The movie actor did not sleep well last night, according to jail authorities and his cell mates.

This morning he bade farewell to Dave Bender, who recently walked out of an eastern penitentiary and was arrested here. Bender is being returned today to Baltimore and before he left he shook Fatty's hand and wished him luck.

BOUQUET IN CELL.

"Well, goodbye, Fatty, old man," said Bender. "I wish you all kinds of luck and hope you get out all right. I've been in jail a long time myself and know the ropes, so I know what you're up against. I hope you get out of this jam all right, for you're a good guy and we're all for you. I'll tell 'em the kind of a guy you are in Baltimore."

Arbuckle will not be present in Judge Shortall's court this morning when the grand jury returns the manslaughter indictment.

A large bouquet today graced his cell, the gift of an elderly man who said he was an old admirer of the film comedian's screen antics.

A card signed "J. J. Kelly—from No. 70," accompanied the flowers, but the donor refused to further identify himself.

"Just a mark of appreciation for the many hours of amusement Arbuckle has afforded me," the man said.

LOSES SELF-CONTROL.

For the one brief instant while the coroner's jury filed out one by one to cast their verdict on the death of Virginia Rappe, did Roscoe Arbuckle forget his part and miss his cue. Throughout the inquest he had assumed the star role of the "man of unreadable emotion."

Visibly the comedian trembled as he watched the jury go under lock and key. So perceptibly did his hands shake during the first attempts to light a cigarette that he was forced to abandon his intentions and wait for better self control.

Brennan admitted that, owing to the pressure of "business," counsel for the defense had known but four hours' sleep in the preceding 48.

OTHERS TO BE QUIZZED.

Experts were assigned to diagram the three rooms at the St. Francis used by Arbuckle for his party. Complete measurements were to be made and photographs taken of all the furnishings, etc.

Photographs have already been made by Police Sergeant Dolan of the door Arbuckle is alleged to have locked behind him showing several small scars which Dolan describes as having been made "by the toe of a woman."

With the exception of one or two pieces, all of the clothing of Miss Rappe has been recovered and officially identified as "exhibits."

It is also understood that before the trial the federal authorities will turn over to the police as "exhibits" two whisky bottles found in the Arbuckle rooms. These are being held by the federal authorities as evidence in their investigation of the source of the liquor at the party.

Captain Matheson said also that he expected to question "several persons" known to have been at the Arbuckle rooms Sunday and Monday, but not in attendance at the party.

FOURTEEN TO AID ACTOR'S DEFENSE, ATTORNEYS CLAIM

By JAMES H. RICHARDSON,
Special Correspondent International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—"Fatty" will be home again in Los Angeles Sunday night.

"They'll have to dismiss the murder charge against him and release him on bail."

With that prediction as a preface Attorneys Frank Dominguez and Milton Cohen, representing Roscoe Arbuckle, today gave this correspondent their first detailed interview concerning Arbuckle's case.

In summing up the case from all angles, Dominguez and Cohen made the startling announcement that at least fourteen witnesses—all of whom visited Arbuckle's suite at the St. Francis hotel during the wild party that was followed by the death of Virginia Rappe—are ready to testify for the defense when Arbuckle goes on trial.

FOURTEEN WITNESSES.

"The names of all the men and women who visited Arbuckle that afternoon have never been made public," Dominguez said.

"We have at least fourteen witnesses who are ready to testify that 'Fatty' was not in the condition the prosecution claims he was and who will shatter the already conflicting stories of the three witnesses District Attorney Brady is relying upon.

"When a number of these fourteen witnesses are called to the stand there will be a sensation. They are mighty prominent people and they're not all motion picture folks, either.

"You mark my words, when these witnesses are called the prosecution's case will fall to pieces."

The three prosecution witnesses to whom Dominguez referred were Alice Blake, Zey Prevost and Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont.

AGAINST ARBUCKLE.

"In the first place," said Dominguez, "the murder charge against Arbuckle was entirely unwarranted. I believe Brady realizes that now. Brady must know he hasn't sufficient evidence to support a charge of murder.

"Brady wants to keep the testimony of the Blake girl and the Prevost girl secret to give out the impression their stories really amount to something. They don't and I know it.

"That's what makes us feel certain that the murder charge will be dropped."

Dominguez and Cohen readily admitted that 75 per cent of the people of San Francisco are against Arbuckle. Arbuckle himself is very much frightened. "Scared" would be a better word. He never smiles now.

Denver Bars Movie Of Virginia Rappe

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 15.—A motion picture showing Miss Virginia Rappe in a leading role which was to have been shown here today at a theater, was barred by Frank Downer, manager of safety and excise. Downer barred the picture because of the "Fatty" Arbuckle case in San Francisco, which has followed the death of Miss Rappe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Minta Durfee Arbuckle, wife of the famous movie comedian indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of pretty Virginia Rappe, arrived here this afternoon on her way to San Francisco to aid her husband. She again expressed her firm belief in "Fatty's" innocence and said she was not at all worried over the outcome of the case.

MRS. HUME WILL STUDY IN NEW YORK.

Mrs. Hume, it was disclosed, is preparing to leave shortly for New York to rest for a time and later to spend some months continuing her studies in interior decorating. She is planning her departure, it is understood, to precede Hume's return to Berkeley to resume his work at the university.

First as a student at the University of California, where he was a member of the class of 1908 and yell leader of his class, and of recent months as a member of the faculty Hume has occupied a prominent place in college circles for some years. He obtained his master's degree in Harvard in 1913 and the following year he was married to Miss Maude Crawford Izett Dick, well-known as an artist and student.

Since his graduation from the university Hume has been prominently identified with the newer theater movement, both in this country and abroad. Previous to coming to Berkeley Hume managed the Arts and Crafts Theater in Detroit, and following the death of Professor William Dallam Armes was called to Berkeley to assume charge of the Greek Theater. Since his arrival in Berkeley, Hume has sponsored many noteworthy productions, both of local and visiting artists. He is a member of the Bohemian Club of San Francisco, the Players' Club of Detroit, and is also editor of the Theater Arts Magazine.

SEMNACHER, WHO ATTENDED PARTY, SEEKING DIVORCE

Manager of Virginia Rappe in Films Says "Other Man" Dried His Dishes.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Alfred Semnacher, who was manager for Virginia Rappe, film actress for whose death Roscoe Arbuckle is being held in San Francisco, objected to his wife, Lucille Semnacher, permitting another man to help her wash the dishes and wind the clock, according to his suit for divorce, which was scheduled to be tried late today before Judge Summerfield.

Semnacher alleged he was caused mental anguish by his wife's "undue attentions" to other men.

MARRIED TWICE.

It developed from the complaint that the Semnachers were married twice and divorced once.

There are three children, Alfred, 15; Carroll, 12, and Gordon, 9. Semnacher asked for the custody of all three.

It was while the Semnachers were living in Windsor boulevard last October that the wife "hugged, kissed and caressed" C. D. Fleming, who was said to have been a visitor in the Semnacher home, according to the complaint.

HELPED WITH DISHES.

Semnacher also alleged Fleming was permitted to assume many of the prerogatives of the head of the house and assisted Mrs. Semnacher with the housework, including washing the dishes, turning out the lights and night and winding the clock."

On October 27 the Semnachers prepared to move to a new home in Lankershim, the complaint recited, and Semnacher declared he told his wife that after they had moved, Fleming could no longer reside with them. On his presenting this ultimatum, Mrs. Semnacher refused to go to the Lankershim home, the husband alleged, but moved instead to another Los Angeles address, where she was declared to have continued her associations with Fleming. Semnacher moved to the Lankershim home.

They forget Henry the Eighths and the Stillmans, but they treasure all our misdeeds."

LEAGUE SEEKS TO BREAK DEADLOCK ON DEPUTY JUDGE

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—(By Associated Press)—Efforts to break the deadlock between the Council of the League of Nations and the Assembly of the league over the election of the fourth deputy judge of the international court of justice were begun at the opening of today's session of the Assembly. A conference committee was named to meet a similar body from the Council, and it was expected that the one remaining deputy judge to be chosen would be decided upon.

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—Proposal that the League of Nations should co-operate with the Far East and disarmament conference was made in the league assembly meeting today by Dr. Lange of the Norwegian delegation.

"The League of Nations should not abandon its disarmament plans on account of the Washington conference," said Dr. Lange. "The league should try to co-ordinate its dealings, particularly in regard to Ireland and disarmament, while the conference at Washington discusses naval disarmament. The world is weary of war. It longs for peace and the blessings of tranquility. There should be co-operation on this important question."

Norway was not among the nations invited by President Harding to the Washington conference. The president of the assembly has appointed three lawyers—all members of the assembly—to determine whether the league is competent to consider Bolivia's demand for reconsideration of the Bolivian-Chilean treaty of 1904.

The Bolivian delegates were in a conciliatory mood, and it was expected that they would withdraw their demand for revision of the Chilean treaty.

TANGLE OF RED TAPE INVOLVES CARE OF BABY

Carmelita Carrdollo, two months old, who was left on the steps of St. Mary's school on Monday, is in the Baby Hospital, where careful attention is being given her. When her health is assured, Baby Carrdollo will find herself in a tangle of red tape. Although her mother is alleged to have left the child on the doorstep, she cannot be accepted as legally abandoned until a year has elapsed. Moreover, a child must be in a household three months before adoption proceedings may be completed. The sisters at St. Mary's find themselves unable to look out after the infant.

The Associated Charities is working on the case with two avenues open to the workers—to board the baby until the year has elapsed and it is legally abandoned, or to find the mother and have her petition for assistance.

Santa Fe Bars All Hoboes From Trains

Whoever it was—conductor, brakeman or station agent—that gave out the misinformation on September 2 that "nights of the road," known also as "bindlestiffs," or plain tramps, could ride on Santa Fe freight trains for $1 is going to lose his job if officials of the company can find him.

The newspapers on September 2 carried a story to the effect that tramps were riding on Santa Fe freight trains from Martinez to points north for $1. G. W. Lupton, superintendent of the San Francisco division of the Santa Fe, says that if such was the case there was no authorization for the collecting of $1 from tramps who sought to ride in the "side door Pullmans."

"No hobo is allowed to ride on our trains," says Lupton. "These men are dangerous people and our watchmen are instructed to keep them off our property."

Runaway Wife To Get Divorce, Marry Soldier

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Mrs Emily Knowles Spiker, runaway English wife of Guy Spiker, says she is very happy away from the Spikers in her new romance with William Charles Fox, a private at Camp Holabird.

Located in a West Baltimore apartment by a reporter who has known her since she arrived in Baltimore, the young woman told for the first time of her flight from the Spiker home and her plans for the future.

Central figure in the international romance, forgiven by the wife of the man who was the father of her baby and then married to the brother of this man, Mrs Spiker yesterday declared she never was happy after her arrival in Baltimore until she had run away from the Spikers.

"It was all a terrible mistake," she confided. "Perley and my husband, although on the surface the best friends I had, never treated me with the love and respect that I believed I was entitled to.

"As well as I could I shielded the home from public gaze and pretended that I was happy, but I did not love Guy and was never happy during the whole affair.

"Today I am the happiest woman in the world because I have found the one man I really care for.

"As long as it has become public through the press—the fact that I left home with a man from Camp Holabird. I am not ashamed to say that this man is William Charles Fox, private first class and post dispatcher at the camp.

"Mr. Fox knows everything and has declared his intentions to marry me as soon as I can get a divorce and make this possible."

Refugees Decimated by Epidemic and Without Food, Says Relief Head.

LONDON Sept. 15.—Reverend Ernest Yarrow, head of the American relief in Transcaucasia, has telegraphed the American relief committee at Constantinople, according to a dispatch to the London Times, that epidemics threaten to destroy many of the hundreds of thousands of refugees who abandoned their homes during the Turkish invasion last autumn. They have no means of support, the Turks having looted the entire area, which they occupied and destroyed 10 small towns and villages in order to prevent the peasants from sowing corn last spring.

The death rate among the refugees, says Dr. Yarrow is very high, and cholera is raging. The Armenian government, he continues, is a difficult position, owing to the Persian government's refusal to permit the export of cereals.

According to information from other sources, the Armenian government will accept any form of control of supplies if these can be sent sent by America to the western powers.

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 15.—Robbery of Texas Pacific train No 11 was frustrated early today when two of the four bandits were shot and killed. They were "Bill" Edwards, a former engineer of the road, and a man known as "Indian Charlie," according to the police.

"Indian Charlie" boarded the train at Fort Worth. A few miles from the city he entered the mail car, stuck up the mail clerk and threw three pouches of mail from the moving train.

Police and Federal officers were hidden in the car and shot the Indian as he was bending over the safe. In the meantime, Edwards picked up the three mail sacks and attempted to make his escape. He was shot and killed by other members of the posse who had been lying in wait for him.

Two other members of the gang, in an automobile nearby, escaped, leaving the machine behind.

The mail sacks were recovered.

EDITORIAL.

No gift of moderate cost could possibly be more appreciated than a photographic enlargement of some event of interest to the recipient.

If, during the summer, you have enjoyed an outing with any of your friends, you will doubtless find among the snap shots taken some films containing features of great interest to some one.

Remember, you can have any portion of a film enlarged you desire.

These enlargements are very inexpensive, and with a little shopping you can purchase a frame to fit them at small cost.

If you can conceive of a gift that is more generally acceptable than an interesting photographic enlargement we cannot imagine what it can be.

TWO SPLENDID COUGH SYRUPS

Especially for Children

There are a great many people, especially children, who are going around coughing. Colds are always prevalent this time of the year.

We have two of the best cold syrups for children we have ever heard of. Neither of these syrups contain any narcotics or poison of any kind. One is called Pine and Tar Special, and the other remedy is called F. B. Cough Syrup.

In our opinion there is no particular preference in either of the two and they most certainly are safer to use than the ordinary cough syrup containing narcotics and made for the use of adults.

These cough syrups each sell for 25c and are both highly recommended by all of our stores.

Bring your Fountain Pen troubles to us. We are Waterman agents.

PUT THOSE VACATION SNAP SHOTS IN ALBUMS

We Have All Kinds—Get An Album Now and Save Your Pictures

This is the time to get your vacation pictures arranged so that they will not be lost or destroyed. The best plan is to purchase a photo album and paste them in with proper descriptions so that in after years you can go back and enjoy a pictorial review of the 1921 outing.

We have these photo albums with detachable leaves so that you can add extra leaves at any time you desire.

The covers come in paper, cloth, imitation leather, and real leather. They come in all sizes up to the big 11x14 kind which hold four 3A prints to the page.

Our prices range from 15c to $10.

This would be a good time by the way to put some of your old snapshots in an album. Remember that every year these old pictures grow more valuable and if you leave them laying around loose they not only get soiled and messed up but are likely to be lost or destroyed. Every picture that is worth taking is worth preserving. Our present stock of albums is one of the largest and most desirable that we have ever carried.

LAXATIVE FOR CHILDREN

Ask for Bowman's Laxative Triangles. These little Triangles come 40 in a box and sell for 25c.

The children like them and they have been giving such general satisfaction since we started making them two or three years ago, that today we sell more of them than of any other laxative we carry.

FRESH CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

Do you know that we make Citrate of Magnesia fresh practically every day. We do this because it should be always fresh. No doubt you can buy it elsewhere for less than you pay at Bowman's, but it's worth the difference to get it fresh in clean bottles. We charge 30c a bottle. 25c and 50c.

HAVE YOU SEEN OUR VANITY CASES?

We Have a Splendid Assortment

Never before have we sold a better or more attractive assortment of vanity cases than you will find right now at our handbag counter.

We have them in every size and shape and style that fashion decrees. We have some very attractive ones for as little as $3.45 and some exceedingly beautiful ones for as high as $17.50. We have them at almost any price between these two extremes that you wish to pay.

These vanity cases are made by high grade manufacturers who turn out the best goods and you can, therefore, depend upon the quality of any vanity case we offer to sell you. Insomuch as these cases are generally given hard usage it is a good plan to consider the quality in making your selection.

IMPORTED FACE POWDER—50¢

Have you ever tried our imported French face powder which we sell in large size boxes at 50c? This powder is called Preceda Face Powder and it is imported from France, in bulk and boxed in America. By putting it up in this manner we save duty, freight and European boxing charges, and although you may not receive quite so elaborate a package you get a quality that compares favorably with the best imported powder at less than half the price of equal grades boxed in Europe.

A GREAT FACE LOTION

Have you ever used Benzoin Cream as a face preparation? It is not only soothing to the skin after coming in from a hard drive or out of doors trip or after shaving, but it is also a splendid preventative of chap and tan.

In our estimation Benzoin Cream has more friends who come in and buy bottle after bottle than any other one article sold in any of our stores. It certainly must give satisfaction or it would not be so continuously used by practically everyone who tries it. 25c and 50c.

Hills Club Arranges For Two Affairs

Two events are announced by the Contra Costa Hills club for this coming week-end, a social swim on Saturday afternoon and a hike over the highlands of the peninsula. Cottage Baths, on the Alameda marina will be the scene of their surf party, which will be followed by a basket supper and an impromptu dance in a pavilion. Miss Wilhelmina Ham will have charge of this affair.

A 10-mile tramp through the Trossach-like lake region of the Spring Valley Water company will be led by J. F. Holroyd, a director of the organization. The party will leave Oakland at 8:00 a. m. and Fifth and Market streets at 9:00 o'clock on Sunday morning on an electric train for Millbrae. They will be conducted through the famous D. O. Mills estate on the way to Lake San Andreas as invited guests.

A delegation will also attend the Dipsea race in which Wm. Howden, chairman of the club's outing committee, is to be a runner.

Europe Prosperous, S. F. Rotarian Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Harry B. Blatchly, artist, Bohemian and Rotarian, returned last night from Europe, where he attended the international convention of Rotary clubs. Blatchley is the first delegate from the bay district to return.

Blatchley visited England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Switzerland and Germany. He said:

"We were surprised to see the degree of prosperity in the countries that suffered most during the war. We saw no signs that the people of Europe are impoverished. They appear to have made a determined effort to put the war behind them."

Oakland Woman Made Historian for Family

Mrs. Mary Bosworth Clarke, 4131 Randolph street, was elected historian for the Bosworth family at the annual reunion of all the members which has been in session in Hingham, Mass. The branches, which are widely scattered, celebrate festivities once a year. Those elected besides the Oakland member were: President, A. H. Withington, Newton; vice-president, Edward I. Bosworth, Oberlin, Ohio; secretary, Tasker B. Bosworth, Marietta, Ohio; treasurer, Charles A. Bosworth, Cincinnati, O.

Ancestors of the Bosworth family settled in Hingham, Mass., where the reunion is held, in Cushing House in 1634. A reception, dinner, business session and pilgrimage to the historical places were featured during the days the members of the branches assembled.

SLAYER REPEATS GUILT WHILE HIS MOTHER LISTENS

Criticism of Plan to Hide Body Is Chicago Woman's Only Comment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Harvey W. Church, confessed slayer of Bernard Daugherty and Carl Ausmus, automobile salesmen, early today was brought face to face with his mother for the first time since his arrest and in her presence he repeated the details of the two crimes.

He reverted largely to the first of his many confessions and indicated, officials declared, that he planned and executed the murders without assistance.

Neither Clarence Wilder nor Milton Walker, named by Church as accomplices, officials said they had been convinced had any part whatever in the crimes. Even the confession of Leon Parks that he was Church's accomplice is open to doubt, the authorities say.

Mrs. Church, who collapsed when informed of Church's first confession several days ago, sat apparently unmoved today throughout her son's recital of the details of the murders. At the close of his story she shook her head when asked if she had anything to say.

Later she remarked:

"I cannot understand why Harvey buried the man (Carl Ausmus) in the garage. There is a vacant lot next door where all the dead cats and dogs in the neighborhood are buried. Why did not he bury him there? Then they never would have found him."

Prefers Prison to Russia Deportation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 15.—Miss Mollie Stiemer emphasized that she prefers the Missouri penitentiary to deportation to Russia. It was announced in Washington yesterday that Attorney General Daugherty might recommend her released from prison, where she is serving a term for violating the espionage law, if she would consent to deportation to Russia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—At the Commonwealth club luncheon meeting at the Palace hotel tomorrow, Eduardo Ruiz, the new consul general of Mexico, will speak on "Mexico Today." On account of the Dahlia show, which occupied the Palace hotel ball room, the meeting will be held in the concert room. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p. m. Speaking will begin about 12:45 and adjournment will be had at 1:30.

COOTIE ORDER FORMED.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—The military Order of the Cootie of the United States of America was incorporated here in the office of Secretary of State Martin today by ex-service men of Hoboken and vicinity. The object of the order is to foster ties of comradeship formed during the world war among men who saw service on foreign soil.

NORWAY LIMITS BOOZE.

CHRISTIANA, Sept. 15.—The upper house adopted the prohibition bill which forbids the importation of liquors or wine containing more than 14 per cent of alcohol. The vote was 18 to 14. The measure now becomes a law. The lower house adopted the bill a few days ago.

LABOR CHIEF SLAIN.

NIGHT SCHOOL IS DECLARED FOE OF BOLSHEVISM

Fred Anderson Tells of Work of Educating Aliens for Citizenship.

There are 30,000 aliens in Oakland, of which number 4000 are Asiatics and not entitled to citizenship, and but 3000 of those who are eligible to citizenship are attending classes provided for them in the Oakland public schools, according to J. Fred Anderson, head of the citizenship department of the Oakland school department, who spoke yesterday before the Progressive Business Men of Oakland.

"The day is coming when the entire community is going to become aroused over this situation," said Anderson, "and unified action will be demanded."

Anderson declared that foreign-born persons who are coming to our shores must, first of all, be headed toward citizenship before anything else is done for their welfare.

MUST BE REGULATION.

"These people come to our country with the belief that they can do just as they please. They can do as they please just so long as they do not prevent other people from doing as they please. There must be a regulation, even though this is a free country, as we say.

"The I. W. W. and kindred organizations made great progress in spreading their teachings before the war. They played on the great mass of immigrants that were flowing into the country by gathering them in the moment said immigrant showed signs of taking notice of the fellow who was treading on his toes. We practically allowed the foreign-born persons that came to our shores to be subjected to a condition whereby the teaching of radical leaders were allowed to seep in easiest. That was before we had our schools for the foreign born.

PREVENT BOLSHEVISM.

"Today the evening schools are the greatest factors for the prevention of Bolshevism and radicalism in this country. Men and women who have attended our Oakland schools and who have received ample education to permit them to become citizens without further study have actually become so interested in their work that hundreds of them have remained even after their courses were finished, in order that they might learn more.

"We need to induce more of these people to attend our schools. The present classes can be doubled in no time if the proper agents are put to work. To bring about this desirable situation it is necessary for every organization in the city and county to co-operate with us."

Former Official of Hayward Divorced

Joseph Avellar, former superintendent of streets in Hayward, has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Mrs. Mary Avellar, whom he accused of infidelity, naming Joseph Daken, former town marshal of Hayward, as co-respondent. Mrs. Avellar's brother, Charles Brannon, testified against her. Avellar charged his wife had been intimate with Daken for several months and that she held clandestine meetings with him in the jail yard at Hayward. Avellar's charges caused a political shakeup in Hayward and resulted in Daken's resignation.

Superior Judge James Quinn, who granted Avellar's petition, ordered him to pay $55 a month to Mrs. Avellar for the support of their two children, who were given into the custody of the mother. Mrs. Avellar, in a cross complaint, charged Avellar with being cruel to her and to the children, who are aged 4 and 7.

U. S. Aviator Sets Air Gunnery Record

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 15. — Lieutenant L. T. Kittredge of the Pacific air force made a remarkable record with a Lewis machine gun yesterday while traveling 85 miles an hour in a Vought plane, with Lieutenant P. P. McKeller as pilot. He put 194 shots into a sleeve target towed by a de Haviland airplane, without a single miss. The scoring was not done in one continuous burst, but in various periods while the de Haviland was twisting and dodging in the air at an altitude of about 2000 feet.

News of the Theaters

FULTON

Rollicking, smashing farce of the merriest type imaginable is to be the offering of the Fulton theater next Sunday afternoon, when "Mrs. Jimmy Thompson," one of the late New York successes, is to be presented for the first time on an Oakland stage. Nana Bryant will be "Mrs. Jimmy Thompson." Around her will revolve a dozen interesting and amusing characters, all inmates of a typical New York boarding house.

"Mrs. Jimmy Thompson" yearns to be married, and finally accomplishes it. Her marriage creates a sensation. The change in the attitude of almost everybody in the place toward her, men and women, is remarkable. People who had not thought much of her begin to court her at once—especially the men.

But, by and by the ball of yarn gets so tightly tangled around "Mrs. Jimmy Thompson" that several things begin to occur.

This week "Seven Keys to Baldpate," George M. Cohan's greatest play, is playing to capacity houses.

ORPHEUM

"The Queen of Sheba" at the Oakland Orpheum has taken the Eastbay cities by storm and has proved the most fascinating and spectacular film shown here in many months.

It deals with the ancient land of Sheba in the time of Solomon and recreates the love story of the queen and Solomon. Betty Blythe has the title role and there are 5,000 people in the cast.

The chariot race between 28 thoroughbreds, with Sheba and Vashti as the leading drivers, and with 5,000 persons in costume cheering them on to victory, is undoubtedly one of the greatest scenes in the history of the film drama.

"The Queen of Sheba" will continue for a brief engagement with a matinee each day.

T. & D.

Embracing twenty minutes of the opera "Faust," in which soloist, organ and orchestra are combined under the direction of Fred F. Forman, the current bill at the T. & D. theater is fairly wealthy in attractiveness.

Tom Mix will appear in "The Night Horseman," as the screen headliner, up to and including Saturday, to be followed Sunday by "The Sky Pilot" and Nazimova in "Billions."

"The Night Horseman" is Max Brand's sequel to "The Untamed," but all precedents for thrills and "stunts" are eclipsed by the inimitable Mix in the current production.

AMERICAN

"The Old Nest," Rupert Hughes' enthralling drama of home life, is the principal attraction of the current double program at the American. It is the story of a mother, from youth to the grave. She rears her children, amid her little tragedies and comedies, until they grow to manhood and womanhood—win success, marry, and leave her to embark on their own little tragedies and comedies, repeating the story of parenthood and life in a new generation while she is left in her old age—alone.

On the same bill is seen "Snowbound in Yosemite," showing the famous California valley in the splendor of its snows.

PANTAGES

Charlie Murray, one of the merriest comedians of the stage or screen, has been lured from his film activities long enough to make a tour of the Pantages circuit. The arrangements were made personally by Alexander Pantages. For nine years Murray has devoted his art to the silver sheet; for nine years the speaking stage has been robbed of the clever funster in the types that Murray created more than 20 years ago when he was one of the theatrical firm of Murray and Mack and star of "Finnegan's Ball." Billed as "The Famous Mack Sennett Comedian," Charlie Murray will appear at the Pantages theater soon and will offer a monologue, which he calls "Movieland Gossip."

LOEW'S STATE

At the top of the list of attractions at Loew's State theater is the big Manheim & Mazor fashion pageant, in which thirty beautiful models display the latest creations in feminine wearing apparel. The fair folk of Oakland are raving with interest over the attractiveness of the garments for the coming season. Many novelties are mingled with the gown display, including the presentation of "The Kiss Waltz" by the originators, a song and dance by Miss Maureen Sullivan, popular in Eastbay social circles, and other unique specialties.

CENTURY

Will King, the favorite funster, enters his fourth triumphant week next Sunday at the Century theater, formerly Ye Liberty, with a new musical comedy revue, entitled "Oh, Look." This will take the place of the amusing frivolity, "Pretty Peggy," now holding the boards.

King will continue to assume his famous character of Ikey, he of fickle heart and amusing nature. Will Hayes is to be given another good character bit, as will be handed Honora Hamilton, Bessie Hill, Jackie Brunea, Reece Gardner, Dorothy Neville and the Golden Gate Four will sing, dance and make merry.

The screen presents Earle Williams in "The Silver Car."

There will be a continuous performance on Saturday of each week.

BROADWAY

"Lahoma" will be shown for the first time in Oakland at the New Broadway theater today. It is a story of Oklahoma before the oil boom days and depicts the hazards, hardships, feud and romances of a sturdy people. "Lahoma" is a fascinating historical document, yet it teems with the romance and suspense.

"Sherlock Holmes Jr.," a Booth Tarkington story with the inimitable Edgar in his usual role, is an added attraction.

"Miracles of the Jungle" follows Saturday. "Wet Gold" will be shown Sunday.

CHIMES

Byron Morgan, who wrote the story and scenario for "Too Much Speed," is famous for his delightful automobile race stories. Frank Urson is responsible for the excellent directing.

LEGALITY OF CLAIMS COURT TO BE TESTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Legality of the new small claims court was questioned yesterday in an action, foreshadowing a test case, in which Jacob S. Meyer, of a bill collection agency, attempted to represent William B. Barbe, general manager of the Lincoln Hospital Association. The case was brought in Judge James G. Conlan's court, with Miss Lena Lang, a widow, of 1205 Gough street, suing for $30 she claims due to her for solicitor's services. Judge Conlan informed Meyer that parties in small claims courts could not be represented by counsel. Meyer says the law is unconstitutional and announced proceedings to test its validity.

Dying Man Says He Was Holdup Victim

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—R. H. Howly of 1483 Sixteenth street, Los Angeles, who was found last Tuesday night near Holy Cross cemetery with three gunshot wounds in his body, died yesterday. Before he died he told the doctors at the South San Francisco General Hospital that he was held up by a bandit, who had poked a gun against his body and asked for money. He told the robber that he did not have any, and then, he says, he must have lapsed into unconsciousness, as he could remember no details.

Several of the freshmen also lost their mustaches in part or in toto.

She said Miss Clark alleged that her money was in a Boston bank, and that it would take some time to have it transferred. REVOLUTIONARY PLOT IN GERMANY HAS WIDE SCOPE

Persons Behind Organization Held Responsible for Killing of Erzberger.

By FRANK E. MASON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—A revolutionary organization with national ramification involving military interests and monarchists who were pledged to "remove" objectionable republicans and work against the republican government, has been discovered by the police, it was revealed here today.

The persons behind the organization are said by the police to have been responsible for the assassination of Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Centrum party.

Many arrests have been made, especially in Bavaria, which now is said by the Berlin government officials to be a hotbed of royalist agitation. Some of the prisoners were former soldiers and participants in the van Kapp revolution in March, 1920. Others were formerly naval officers.

"The Erzberger assassination put us on the trail of the organization and we already know that radical members of the Nationalist party are involved," a police official said. "Already we have arrested many responsible members. We are now running down clews to discover the identity of wealthy men who are suspected of having financed the organization."

NEWSPAPER SUSPENDED.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—The Communist newspaper Rote Fahne was suspended today for the balance of the week because it urged German Bolshevik sympathizers to break up the services planned for Germany's war dead.

Two Are Arrested On Bootleg Charge

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15.—Louis Rambo and F. C. Williams were arrested last night by government operatives on charges of violating the federal prohibition act. Rambo was taken into custody in a soft drink palace at 1535 Park street. The federal men also seized two flasks of liquor which they are holding as evidence. Rambo, who lives in the ark "Liberty," at the foot of Chestnut street, was placed under $500 bonds.

Following Rambo's arrest the federal men proceeded to the ark "Baby Rose Club," Peach and Fillmore streets, and arrested Williams on the same charge. They seized a ten-gallon barrel containing liquor, a copper still, and a gallon of jackass brandy.

INVENTOR WILL CROSS BAY ON SKIIS—MAYBE

A. N. Sheldon, of Ventura, an inventor, is going to attempt to walk from Oakland to San Francisco tomorrow. He will not go round by way of San Jose and the peninsula route but will walk off the mainland at the Key Route mole and head for the Ferry Building.

Sheldon claims to have invented a pair of water skiis with which he traveled down the Sacramento river from Red Bluff to Meridian. He says he invented the skiis ten years ago for duck hunting on the Yangtse river in China. With modern improvements he is sure they will convey him safely across the bay.

World's Peace in Hands of U. S., Says Italian Historian

By GUGLIELMO FERRERO,
the Famous Italian Historian
(Written for Universal Service)

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Will the League of Nations survive, now that the United States has definitely decided to stay out of it? Or will the new League of Nations function for a little while like its forerunner, the Holy Alliance of 1815, and then dissolve into nothingness?

The answers to these two questions depend upon two events which cannot be definitely foreseen.

The first is what the United States does in world affairs; the second, whether the League of Nations, now composed of forty-odd nations, soon admits to full membership Russia and Germany.

In the light of history it is unimportant whether Bolivia or Peru or Persia, or even wealthy Argentina, are in the league or out of it. A war might be waged by other nations over any of those countries, but none of them could by itself start a war of aggression that would threaten the peace of the world.

But if two great nations, like Russia and Germany, are left out of the league, they will undoubtedly in time make an alliance which might threaten the league itself. And in that case whichever side the United States favored would preponderate.

The action of the United States in rejecting the league changes the entire situation in Europe for this reason: With the United States in the league all other nations would wish to join it. Germany earnestly sought admittance a year ago. Russia could not so apply because the treaty of Versailles had divided up her territory without her consent.

Now that the United States has definitely decided to have nothing to do with the league, it is doubtful whether Germany will renew her application to enter it, or whether Russia will ever desire to make such application. If neither does, the preponderance of wealth and power and resources of the world will be outside the league.

The wheels of the windmill of the League of Nations might then continue to turn as though the mill were in actual operation, but no flour would be ground.

HOLY ALLIANCE.

The Holy Alliance formed in 1815, after the Napoleonic Wars, did not make the peace in Europe, but it helped to preserve the internal order in Europe for a period of thirty-three years. This result was due in part to the extreme poverty in Europe as a result of the long wars, but it was due chiefly to the fact that all the monarchies, great and small, in Europe, were in that league, even France, whose revolution caused it.

But England stood aloof, though not out of the league, and when the first severe strain came, in 1848, France and Piedmont left it, and England's war in the Crimea finished the league for Russia.

Thus from 1848 there began in Europe the struggle for alliances, or balances of power, with England always marshaling all the weaker forces to break or limit the power of the stronger. It was this system of alliances and balances of power that caused all the minor wars of the chain that led finally to the great World War.

It is not stretching the argument too far to conclude that history will repeat itself if Russia and Germany and the United States remain outside the league. Russia and Germany will make an alliance as soon as Russia is ruled by a government with which a western power can treat.

The alliance of Russia and Germany will be one of the inevitable consequences of the World's War, if the League of Nations should fail.

Peter the Great, in the eighteenth century, said that a war between Germany and Russia would be the ruin of Russia. In the nineteenth century, Bismarck said that a war between Russia and Germany would be the ruin of Germany.

Germany and Russia have been to war against one another, and the two prophecies are verified: both Germany and Russia are ruined. It is impossible that the two peoples should not draw the logical consequence of this extraordinary historical experience, if the remainder of Europe continues to keep up a hostile attitude toward both; namely, that it is necessary for them to become friends and allies, that they may save themselves together, as together they have become lost.

ALLIANCE AGAINST LEAGUE.

If, therefore, Germany and Russia are not admitted to the League of Nations, they will form an alliance against the league, which will be reduced to an alliance between France and England, hidden under a somewhat more pompous name.

Europe will again be divided into two great groups, and who can say which will the arbiter? Across the Atlantic there are the United States. The two groups will try equally to secure the diplomatic, financial and military support of America, as, for the matter of that, they have already begun to do over the question of the indemnity.

However much the United States may want to keep outside of European competition, there is no proof that their determination will not be overcome by the force of things, aided by the intrigues of the rival powers. In politics, not even the most powerful states can always succeed in doing what they want to do.

If Europe should return to the policy of rival alliances and the equilibrium of forces in view of future wars, the task of balancing the two contending nations by groups to prevent the one from too greatly oppressing the other, which up to the present has always been fulfilled by England, will fall upon the United States.

England can no longer perform this task; because the war has bound her soundly to the continent and to France, that is, to one of the two parties that are at loggerheads.

The alliance of Russia and Germany, therefore, would be the ruin of the league and the beginning, in Europe, of a new policy of rival alliances, with a goal of a chimerical equilibrium. But if this alliance is to be prevented, it is necessary that the United States should either enter the League of Nations, or that it should take the initiative in constituting another league, which would be in a better position to insure order in Europe than that laid down at Versailles.

GERMANY MAY NOT ENTER.

If the United States remains out of every combination of an universal character with the great European powers, as now seems likely, it might come to pass one of these days that Germany would no longer enter into the League of Nations, even though France and England should withdraw their opposition; and especially might this be the case if Russia should be reconstituted quickly.

If the United States were to form part of a combination of an universal character, both Germany and Russia would inevitably be drawn into the group, if for no other reason, by the attraction of the mass.

The destiny of the League of Nations is, therefore, in the hands of the United States today, and upon the future policy of the United States and the course of events in the reconstruction of the world. If the United States does not enter the present league or some other which shall constitute it, improving it and making it more capable of accomplishing its office, Russia and Germany will not enter it; and the League of Nations will last an even shorter time than the Holy Alliance. And then in Europe, with alliances and the game of equilibrium, there will begin again also the preparation of a new general war, unless there should come some revolutions which profoundly change the internal organization of the old world.

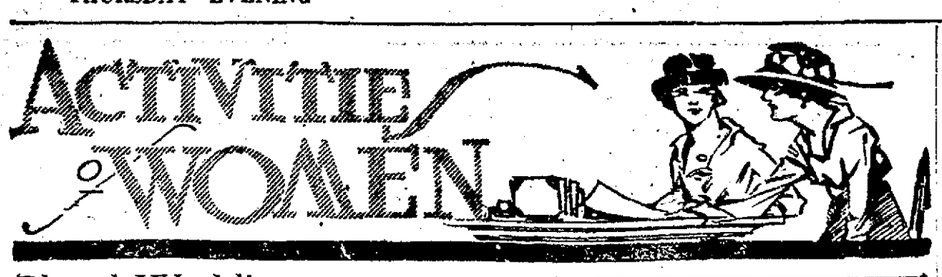
ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN



Church Weddings Of Interest to Bay Society

Two beautiful church weddings last evening and another yesterday afternoon kept society on the alert, each fair bride having a very large circle of friends on either side of the bay. In this city St. Paul's Episcopal church, for many seasons the background of fashionable weddings, was last evening filled with several hundred guests to witness the nuptials of Miss Kathryn Ann Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, and William Stafford Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibbs of Los Angeles.

Eight-thirty o'clock was the hour of the ceremony, Rev. Alexander Allen, rector of St. Paul's, officiating. The altar was banked in gorgeous-hued dahlias, zinnias and astors against a background of greenery, the same color scheme being carried out in the Fox home where a wedding reception and supper for the family and bridal party was served.

The bridal gown was of white duchesse satin embroidered in pearls and elaborated with rare lace. A coronet of the lace held the tulle bridal veil in place at the coiffure with sprays of orange blossoms. Orchids, lilies of the valley and gardenias were in the shower bouquet.

The quartet of bridesmaids were unusually lovely in frocks of coral pink taffeta. The attendants were Miss Doris Rodolph, Miss Dorothy Spence of Los Angeles, Miss Elizabeth Moore and Miss Katherine Cook. All were made in the long waist mode with bouffant skirts adorned with petals in the pastel shades. Each bridesmaid carried a shower bouquet of Irish Elegance roses.

The best man was Frank Wishon, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were William Waste Jr., Wilcox Drake, Martin Franksen and Shelby Hodapp.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended the University of California. Mrs. Gibbs is a Delta Gamma and her husband a Phi Delta Theta fraternity man. He is now in business in San Francisco.

BETROTHAL IS TOLD FRIENDS.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Avery Ransome, niece of Bernard Ransome of this city, and William Grant of San Francisco, has just been made by the parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ransome of this city. The Ransomes recently came to Oakland to make their home from the east.

✡ ✡ ✡

Miss Louise Kellogg will entertain a number of the University set at tea Saturday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Sheldon Kellogg of Chabot road. Mrs. Kellogg and Miss Evelyn Lewis will assist in receiving.

✡ ✡ ✡

Three o'clock yesterday afternoon was the hour of the ceremony at which Miss Donna F. Perkes became the bride of Eric B. Wernink of Holland, Rev. H. E. B. Speight reading the ritual before a company comprised of intimate friends and relatives of the couple. The First Unitarian church of Berkeley was the setting for the nuptials, a wealth of autumn bloom being used in the appointment of the edifice.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin and crepe de meteor, the gown being made with a court train. The veil of Brussels lace was worn in a turban effect, falling in folds to the end of the court train. A handsome shower of gardenias, valley lillies and butterfly orchids completed the costume.

Miss Helen Perkes was her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Norma Perkes, bridesmaid. Both wore georgette crepe in the pastel shades, and in their coiffure were wreaths of roses, from which satin streamers fell. Little Miss Ursula Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Cole, was flower maiden, and Richard Van de Weyden best man for Wernink.

The honeymoon of the couple will be passed in Singapore, and before returning to California they will visit the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Van Nouhuys Wernink, in Leiden, Holland.

LUNCHEON FOR JUNE BRIDE.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. James Tyson will be hostess at a luncheon at her home in Piedmont, for Mrs. Clyde Thompson, a June bride. Dr. and Mrs. Thompson have recently returned from their honeymoon to Lake Tahoe and to the Thompson's ranch, in Lake county. They are to reside in Alameda.

✡ ✡ ✡

Cards are out for a tea, which Mrs. Joseph M. Park and her daughters, the Misses Josephine and Louise Park, are to give at their home in Claremont, September 24. One hundred and twenty-five will be guests. The affair is to be in honor of Mrs. Alfred Biehl.

✡ ✡ ✡

Miss Kathleen Kinney entertained a group of the younger girls at the Town and Country Club for Miss Dorothy Spence of Los Angeles, whose engagement to Milton E. Bacon has just been announced. Miss Spence, who has been visiting Miss Kathryn Cook, leaves today for her home.

WEDDING AT GEORGE VESPER HOME.

Half a hundred guests are to witness the nuptials this evening of Miss Ada Price and Theodore Hyde Smith, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Vesper of Euclid avenue. For the occasion, the attractive home will be a maze of pink and white bloom. The wedding gown will be of white satin and duchesse lase, the same worn upon the bride's mother's wedding gown years ago. Mrs. Vesper will attend her sister as matron of honor, and will wear a pink taffeta with picture hat of black. George Vesper will be best man for Smith.

Miss Price is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Price of San Francisco. The future home of the young couple will be in this city.

✡ ✡ ✡

Milton Buckley and Archibald von Adelung left Tuesday for Cambridge, to enter the Harvard Graduate School for a two-year course. Buckley was graduated from Stanford University in the spring and von Adelung was a recent graduate of Harvard.

MISS ADA PRICE, whose marriage to Theodore Hyde Smith will take place this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Vesper, in Euclid avenue.—Boye Portrait.

Navy Reserve Notes

Lieutenant Frank S. Harris will lecture to Naval Reserves in courtroom No. 2, Oakland City Hall, this evening, giving the second of a series of lectures on "Gunnery and Naval Ordnance." "The Power Behind the Gun" will be the title of this week's discussion.

Citizens who are interested in seeing what kind of a boat the Ford company built, for war emergency now have the opportunity, as the Eagle boats No. 35 and No. 47, which are moored at the Naval Reserve dock at the foot of Laguna street, San Francisco, are open to inspection by visitors every afternoon from 1 to 4:30.

Commencing tonight at 7:30 Commander John A. McGee, U. S. N. R. F., will give a course of lectures on International Law in Wheeler Hall, University of California. The lectures are primarily for officers of the Naval Reserve Forces, it being the idea to give all reserve officers sufficient knowledge of international law to meet ordinary conditions arising.

Clubwomen to Keep Record Of Public Men

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Public affairs will not be ignored by Oakland Civic Center this year. Tomorrow the organization which has grown to have upward of 800 members will launch a new year of service in Aahmes Temple, Thirteenth and Harrison streets. It will be the signal that the municipal committee has been given authority to push its plan and inaugurate its survey.

No session of the city council will be held in the future without the presence of a representative from the civic group. No commissioner will vote aye, or nay, without its record in the small handbook with which the feminine observer will be equipped.

Pledged to non-partisan policies and not to engage in politics as a body, the careful tabulation of the conduct of the man in office on file with the organization will probably have some bearing upon his future public life. The same scrutiny will be extended to members of the State Assembly, House of Representatives and U. S. Senate when they shall be in session. Representatives, also, will attend the juvenile court. The broad plan of the municipal department will be directed by Mrs. R. E. Danford.

A business meeting, program and tea given by the board of directors headed by Mrs. F. H. Boren, will be features of the opening meeting of the season tomorrow. Several hundred leading women of the city will be in attendance. Routine matters will be discussed at 2 o'clock, the program following a half hour later.

Chester Rowell and C. A. A. McGee are to be speakers on the general theme, "Spirit of Service in Public Affairs." Musical numbers will be rendered by Miss Sarah Parker, piano; Mme. Gabrielle Woodworth, soprano.

Mrs. Annette Adams, the first woman to be appointed assistant to the U. S. attorney general, will be welcomed to this side of the bay on Monday, September 26, when she will be a complimented guest at the inaugural luncheon of Alameda County Federation of Women's Clubs at White Lunch Pergola on Dublin boulevard.

The occasion will mark the first appearance of Mrs. Adams before local clubwomen since her return from Washington. She will review some of her experiences while in the capital.

Sharing the program with Mrs. Adams will be Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills College, who will discuss some of the problems in Alameda county. Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald and Dr. Mariana Bertola, president and vice-president of California Federation of Women's Clubs, will present the federation program for 1921-22.

Reservations for the luncheon which will take the clubwomen of Alameda county to the suburban resort beyond Hayward should be made immediately with Mrs. Caroline Hill, 37 Croxton avenue, Oakland, telephone Piedmont 3899W. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m., motorists are warned. Women depending upon street car service will be met at B and Castro streets, Hayward, by automobiles provided by the Hill and Valley Club. The volunteer service of the clubwomen will be in operation at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. L. R. Rosenberg is the county president.

Travelers' Aid service in California and more particularly in the Eastbay will be described by Mrs. Suzanne C. Gomez, executive secretary of the state society before a meeting of the Big Sisters of the Public Welfare League in the Y. W. C. A. building tomorrow at 2 p. m. Mrs. Sidney Haslett, newly elected president, will preside.

A traffic "cop" in front of the Lakeview school is being petitioned for by the school section of the Lakeview Woman's Club. The presence of an officer at the hours of dismissal is regarded by the women as imperative to their safety. Authorization was given to the petition at a meeting this week.

Milk will be offered students in the school at a rate of 15 cents a week for daily portion if the plans of the clubwomen carry. Children who carry their luncheons have inspired the new undertaking.

Thirty-four members have already been signed for the philanthropic section, which holds the first meeting of the season tomorrow at the

Witnesses Called For Murder Trial

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 15.—Twenty-two witnesses already have been subpoenaed to appear in the Yuba county superior court next Tuesday, September 20, when the trial of Jack McGill, charged with the murder of John D. Koplos, will commence.

Koplos was held up and shot by his assailants at the door of his home when he resisted them on the night of June 3c.

Owen Rowe Walter Loveless, Myda Trostel and Anita Diaz will have their trials in the order named following the trial of McGill.

residence of Mrs. C. D. Collins, when plans for the year will be discussed.

Daughters of the American Revolution in the bay district will resume their monthly reciprocity luncheons, the first being scheduled for Saturday, September 24, at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. State board and council meetings will precede the 12 o'clock reunion. Mrs. H. O. Harsbarger, state regent for California, will preside.

SOCIETY AIMS TO INVITE ALL RACES, CREEDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—An organization to promote harmony and good feeling between all classes, races and religions in America was announced in the process of formation here today with Edward F. Dunne, former governor of Illinois at its head.

The society will be known as the National Unity Council and its organizers intends ultimately to spread it to every section of the country, Dunne says.

One of the prime motives behind the society, organizers say, is to combat the Ku Klux Klan, and organization of councils will be pushed particularly where the Klan has obtained a foothold.

BANKER ACQUITTED.

TACOMA, Sept. 15.—Ole Larson, president of the defunct Scandinavian-American bank of Tacoma, was acquitted by a jury in the superior court here, on the third count on which he has so far been tried. The acquittal was on a charge of embezzling $20,000 of the bank's funds. Larson was found guilty on the first two counts and still has sixteen indictments and charges to face.

Officer Elected By Texas Club of U. C.

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—The Texas Club of the University of California at its meeting in Wheeler hall, this week, read and accepted a constitution drafted by a committee appointed at a previous meeting; elected Daniel Harry Gilson, president; Miss Helen DeVitt, vice-president, and Miss Hardy, secretary and treasurer; and initiated five new members. The club will hold its semi-annual entertainment in the Y. W. C. A. building, Berkeley, on October 4, to which all Texans, both in the student body and faculty, as well as the many in prominent positions in the town, will be invited.

No other clothing institution in America can make this statement, except as advertising delirium, or as frank deceit. The clothing system wondered why we did it. Now they know. It placed us way ahead. No high prices to deflate. No paddling backward. Paddling forward only! Fresh factory stocks at factory prices. Virgin all-wool clothes at $25, $30, $35, and as low as $20. Style, direct-from-Fifth-Avenue; Fabrics, direct-from-the-woolen-mills; Quality direct-from-our-tailor-shops!

Our express brings 'em to you within two weeks after their design and manufacture.

Compare! The average garment, made in the usual way, reaches you nearly half a year after its inception—via manufacturer, middleman, jobber, retailer.

Another scoop! Foreman & Clark have inaugurated the early-season buying habit among thousands of men who used to wait for "mark-downs"!

We stand alone in one-price selling.

We don't "hike" prices up to start the season.

We don't charge a premium for early buying.

We don't believe in a "Fall Opening Tax."

We don't believe a suit can be worth $60 when the season opens and only $40 later on.

Foreman & Clark prices never change.

We aren't jugglers. We don't consider it honest.

We have no MARK-DOWNS later—therefore we need no MARK-UPS now!

We're given great values before. Forget 'em! We've smashed big records before. Forget 'em! Get ready for a new Foreman & Clark—a bigger, stronger, faster organization! This is OUR year. We have whipped the clothing system at its most important strongholds—the woolen mills and factories. We have twice as many styles as any merchant in the city. Twice as striking values. Twice as strong a guarantee!

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.—Advertisement

Getting Too Fat? Try This—Reduce

People who don't grow fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist (or if you prefer, write to the Marmola Co., 3612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.) for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. One dollar is the price the world over. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.—Advertisement.

Alameda Man Sues For Oregon Ranch

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—D. M. McLemore of Alameda county, Cal., has begun suit in United States district court here to compel J. S. Mitchell of Klamath county to deliver the famous Bloomington brothers' ranch to him, as well as the thousands of cattle roaming back in the hills of this property.

McLemore alleges in his complaint that Mitchell not only refuses to give possession of the ranch, as he is said to have contracted to do, but that he is neglecting the cattle, which should be brought down from the hills at this season of the year.

It is set forth in the complaint that Mitchell purchased the ranch in 1918 from the Bloomington brothers, the sale including the vast herds on the place. Mitchell is said to have defaulted in his payments and last April is alleged to have sold the cattle to McLemore and the later assigned the land to the Californian. The ranch is about two miles north of Bly, Ore.

Carpenters Fight Charter Revocation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Aid of the superior court has been sought by members of Carpenters' Union 483 to prevent revocation of their charter by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and to save the union an interest in Carpenters' hall at Valencia and McCoppin street. Order for the revocation of the charter came from the international headquarters following the refusal of the union to sever relations with the "rank and file" committee. The carpenters allege that the international union threatens to take all of the books and property of the union to Indianapolis and to refuse permission for the organization to meet in the hall.

One hundred new members will act as the hosts at the luncheon, greeting the old members at the door of the ballroom and escorting them to their places.

Beginning promptly at noon, an orchestra will render selections for a quarter of an hour when the luncheon will be served. Before Rowell begins his talk Miss Dorothia Neville, of a local theater, will sing. She will be accompanied on the piano by Herman King.

The machine which struck Stimmell was driven by Frank Rossi of 1799 Filbert street, and the police charged him with reckless driving. Special Session to Guard Roads Urged

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 15.—The San Diego Chamber of Commerce has passed resolutions urging Governor Stephens to call a special session of the legislature to enact laws regulating more strictly the operation of heavy trucks on state highways. The resolutions assert that heavy trucks are "responsible for a considerable portion of the damage done to our highway system" and also declare that a perfect type of road for California soils has not yet been developed. Revision of taxation for trucks is also urged. Chambers of commerce throughout California will be asked to support the plan.

HOW WOMEN AVOID SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Every Woman Should Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Ill.

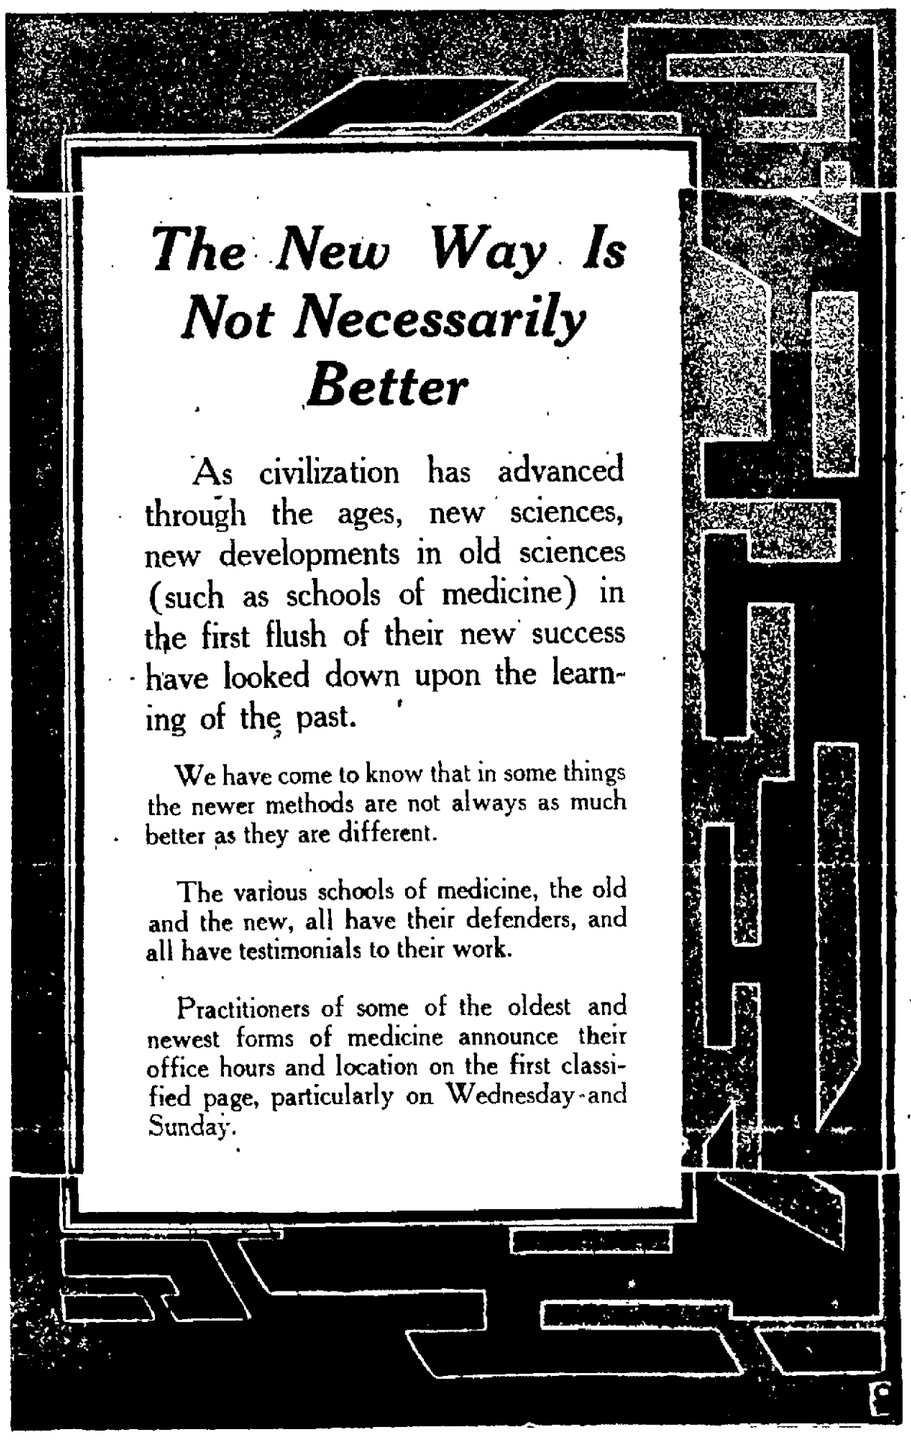
A Vermont woman adds her testimony to the long line of those fortunate women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after it had been decided an operation was necessary.

Burlington, Vt.—"I suffered with female trouble, and had a number of doctors who said that I would never be any better until I had an operation. I was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor and could not do a thing. My sister-in-law induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it certainly has helped me wonderfully. I keep house and do my work and have a small child. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to a number of my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. H. R. SHARON, Apple Tree Point Farm, Burlington, Vt.

In hospitals are many women who are there for surgical operations, and there is nothing a woman dreads more than the thought of an operation, and the long weary months of recovery and restoration to strength if it is successful.

It is very true that female troubles may through neglect reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. In fact, many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.



The New Way Is Not Necessarily Better
As civilization has advanced through the ages, new sciences, new developments in old sciences (such as schools of medicine) in the first flush of their new success have looked down upon the learning of the past.
We have come to know that in some things the newer methods are not always as much better as they are different.
The various schools of medicine, the old and the new, all have their defenders, and all have testimonials to their work.
Practitioners of some of the oldest and newest forms of medicine announce their office hours and location on the first classified page, particularly on Wednesday and Sunday.

Fremont Graduates Plan to Reorganize

Tomorrow night the Fremont High School Alumni Association will meet for reorganization at the Fremont high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. The association has a membership of 1200. It was first organized in 1906. For the past two years it has been entirely supported by the student body of the school.

Robert Huddleston, a junior at the University of California, heads the reorganization committee, which has been working for the last three weeks. Constitution amendments will be brought up tomorrow night which will not only make the body a social organization, but will also make it efficient. It is hoped that a scholarship fund will be raised to put with the Fremont scholarship fund, which at present is sending several Fremont graduates through different colleges throughout the country. Also the body will hereafter take a working interest in all of the student body affairs.

The reorganization committee has also nominated candidates for the offices of the association. The officers for the coming year will be elected tomorrow night.

Japanese Births On Increase in State

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 15.—One-third of all Japanese in California are under 10 years of age, according to estimates made public by L. E. Ross, director of the bureau of vital statistics of the State Board of Health. Ross' estimates show that during the last ten years the Japanese population has increased 30,596 in California and that births have exceeded the deaths by 20,191, or 66 per cent of the entire increase.

The births for the period were given at 27,398. Assuming that the infant mortality rate was 75 per thousand for children under 1 year of age there would be 2055 deaths, leaving 25,343 surviving, Ross stated.

With a death rate of 10 per thousand for those surviving the first year, 2534, he estimated would die, thus leaving 22,809 under the age of 10, or approximately one-third of the total Japanese population of the state, which was given in the last federal census at 71,952.

The 1920 federal census shows the Japanese comprise 2.1 per cent of the population of the state. According to Ross' estimates they furnish 7.4 of all deaths.

SAN JOSE WOMEN ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15.—A mother and two daughters, members of a local family, are in the Salinas hospital as the result of an automobile accident on the highway near that place late last night. The injured are:

According to the report of the accident, the car which was being driven by Edith O'Brien, skidded at a curve on the highway, struck soft gravel and overturned, pinning the three women underneath the wreckage. Buffalo Skeleton Is Found in Cave

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. —Practically the entire skeleton of a buffalo and a fragment of the lower half of a human jaw have been discovered on the farm of Brack Smith, eight miles from Lexington, on the Frankfort Pike. The bones were found in a small cave by Drs. A. M. Miller and W. D. Funkheuser, of the University of Kentucky.

Before making their find they travelled thirty or forty feet through a small underground passage, which gave no room for further excavation work.

Both scientists assert that the cave showed no signs of having been entered by man and that, in their opinion, the bones antedate the discovery of America.

Dr. Miller has recently returned from Grayson county, where he found an ancient rock house, containing remains of Indians and a stone mortar for grinding corn.

Radium Ore Said to Stimulate Plants

MONTROSE, Colo., Sept. —Radium ore may become one of the leading fertilizers for trees and plants as a result of experiments being made from the ore mined in this region.

Luther Burbank, the California "plant wizard," will use radium ore in experiments to develop new plants, according to Henry A. Adrian, associate of Burbank, who recently investigated the value of radium ore in aiding nature.

Experiments made here, it is declared, indicate that the use of radium ore around the roots of newly-planted trees has resulted in wonderfully rapid growth of poplars. Experiments with sweet peas and other plants and flowers show, it is said, that the use of radium ore results in much faster growth and more luxurious bloom than those not treated with the radium ore.

Home Brew Blows As Trunk Slips

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—"Check my trunk for Lockport, N. Y. Its weight is under the limit." So saying, the hasty traveler dropped a local expressman's check into the hands of the baggage master. The later found the trunk. It weighed twice the "excess limit." A helper was called to move the trunk onto a truck.

Crash! The trunk slipped with a thud from their strong hands. A soapy substance oozed out of the trunk. It was the "popping" of home brew.

Prayers in Church Were Said To Dice

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 17.—Prayerful entreaties, which lacked a spiritual flavor, floating from the Sunday school of the Howe Methodist Episcopal Church here, caused Patrolman O. J. Cox to investigate.

He found William J. Sadler, Jr., and Harry Hendrickson, Jr., sons of prominent members of the congregation, intent on shooting craps. There was thirty-five cents in the game. In the Juvenile Court Judge Milliken fined the youths $5 each and ordered that they earn the money.

To accumulate a billion dollars at the rate of $10,000 a year would require 1000 years.

MORAL STANDARD NOW RISING, IS PASTOR'S CLAIM

World's Upset Due to War Is But Passing Wave, He Says.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Moral standards of the present day, changing from the simple code of our forefathers are "excrescences growing out of the war," declared the Rev. Dr. Elbert Robb Zaring, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, Chicago, before the fifth Ecumenical Methodist Conference here today.

"It is a passing wave from which we are slowly but surely emerging. Our conception of moral standards is changing. We are today in the trough of a wave. The war upset everything, toppled our moral as well as our intellectual and physical standards. We have not recommenced to keep house. Thus there are certain retrogressions that are greatly deplored and which some fear are a permanent lowering of the moral standards. These are but excrescences growing out of the war. Such a horrible program as was projected upon the world could not but leave in its trail a sordid conception of morals. Thus, in the matter of family ties, of physical habits, of our amusements we find people indulging as they have not done for many years past.

"Our conception of the moral standard is lifting. One of the most hopeful phases of this development of a moral ideal is the application of the principle of Christianity to the great world of industry about us. There is no question but that we have a larger outlook in this field than ever before.

"But the world has become complicated. There is no simplicity. Everything is interwoven, enmeshed. 'No man liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself' in any sense whatever. Once upon a time we did not care how a man made his money just so he distributed it properly. Now we are not so anxious about the distribution of his money as how he made it. I have great hopes for the future."

"Rush" Rules Cause Split Of Frat Men

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—No settlement was reached by the fraternity representatives who met yesterday afternoon to settle the rushing problem, and the two camps of opinion among the Greek letter men have moved a greater distance apart.

One faction among the college men is in favor of the establishment of a set of rules to govern the rushing of the new students for membership, while the other group believes that the rules would be bad, and that a gentleman's agreement should be the solution. The arguments in favor of the application of strict rules were brought forward by Benjamin Webb Wheeler, member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and son of former President Benjamin Ide Wheeler. Wheeler contended that in order to protect new students from coercion and pressure from friends in accepting a pledge, a system, similar to that employed at Stanford, should be adopted. The proposal would cause all fraternities to send all bids to a selected alumnus, who should notify the new students if one of the societies which they wished to join had offered them membership.

The plan was opposed by Morse Cartwright, executive secretary of the university, and other Greek letter men at the meeting. The contention of this faction was that the imposing of rules would cause hard feelings among the societies, and that such systems had been a failure at eastern institutions.

A proposal for the formation of an interfraternity council was not accepted, the collegians declaring that they did not wish to be bound by the rulings of any tribunal.

A second meeting to discuss the entire fraternity problem has been called by Dean T. P. Putnam for September 28.

At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting, the men declared that it was the sentiment of the gathering that the evils which arose during the rushing season just past should not be allowed to continue on the campus.

Corpse Refuses to Submit to Interview

AKRON, O., Sept. 17.—When police were called to the home of Peter Bakoney by a report of a suicide, they mistook the victim for one of the bystanders, and one of the officers asked him a question. When no answer was received the officer stretched out his handfill and touched the body lightly on the arm. It swayed.

Police found that Bakoney had fastened a cord about his neck, threw the other end over the grape-arbor frame and leaned from a seven-inch box. The weight of the body stretched the cord until the body dangled the feet being a bare half inch from the ground.

Lace Worn By Queen Will Be Bartered

LA JOLLA, Cal., Sept. 17.—After being treasured by one family for more than five centuries, a collection of old Flemish and Venetian lace, consisting of pieces worn by royalty and nobility, is to be sold by Mrs. Cameron Shute, a daughter-in-law of the late Lady Shute, who was well known at the court of Queen Victoria.

Mrs. Shute says the lace represents $150,000 value and is the finest collection in America. It was brought to America, she says, as a family heirloom some years ago.

PERFECT VENUS DUG UP IN CYRENE

ROME, Sept. 17.—What enthusiastic archeologists describe as the most perfect Venus hitherto come to light has just been discovered in the Thermal or Baths of Cyrene, where extensive excavations are being carried on under the direction of Professor Ghislauzoni.

The statue, sowewhat larger than life-size, is in a perfect state of preservation, the lovely head and arms untouched by time, and belongs to the Greco-Roman period, bearing a strong resemblance to the Venus of the Capitol. It will be remembered that another magnificent statue of Venus, unfortunately headless, was discovered a few years ago at Cyrene and is now one of the greatest treasurer of the Museo delle Terme, in Rome.

When Prof. Ghislauzoni saw the beautiful work of art emerging from the soil like Venus from the waves he became so excited that he shouted to the Arab workmen to put up their spades, lest they might injure the statue in the slightest detail, and with eager hands proceeded to remove the millennial earth reverently, as if unveiling a goddess. Unfortunately he sustained some abrasions of the skin of the hands, which became infected and for some time it was feared that he would succumb to blood poisoning.

Latest advices from Bengasi, however, announce that the professor is out of danger and will shortly have the satisfaction of personally escorting the most beautiful venus in the world to Rome.

Easy Going Folk in Prague Take Comfortable Vacation

By OSCAR W. JUNEK.
Special to Universal Service.

PRAGUE, Sept. —(B. Mail.)—The European idea of leisure is known to those Americans who have travelled abroad. But they know only the most commonplace variety of it, like, for instance, the closing of shops at mid-day and not opening them until two or three hours after the noon hour. Dinner being a social affair, much time is devoted to it, to the great horror or amusement of American tourists who are desirous of purchasing goods and find it impossible.

Here is another variety: Two-thirds of all the Prague shops have closed their doors, on which one may read the following. "I have closed this place for the period of 14 days to enable my personnel to enjoy summer vacations. This shop will remain closed from July 17 to July 31, inclusive."

Or "According to the resolution passed by the union of silver and goldsmiths, this shop will remain closed from July 14 to July 31."

To an American whose philosophy does not allow him any inactivity this kind of vacation-taking will seem highly incongruous and aggravating, especially when his business takes him to governmental bureaus like the postoffice, the front gate of which exhibits this sign:

"Closed from 12 to 3 (noon hour)."

I have seen Americans walking back and forth in front of postoffices who, not being able to decipher the meaning of the sign, murmured murderous phrases, to which they were fully entitled, from our point of view, of course.

Seven-eighths of all the shops close at five or six o'clock in the afternoon. The help doffs the apparel of toil for bathing suits, and on they go to the river to engage in swimming or canoeing. It is evident that personal comfort means more to them than the possibility of selling two more dozen of collars or neckties a day. And, really, if one stops to think about it, they are right.

There are times when we would like to take those signs off their front doors and beat their comfortable heads with them.

But—"if you are in Rome—do as the Romans do," and with downcast eyes we, too, repair to the river, changing our hot moods in the soothing ripples of the beautiful Moldau.

POWER SCHOONER BURNS; CREW OF NINE PICKED UP

Lotus, En Route From S. F. to San Diego, Destroyed At Sea; Recently Sold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Captain Christensen and his crew of nine were rescued last night off Point Hueneme, south of Santa Barbara, from their power schooner Lotus, which burned at sea. The steamer Humboldt made the rescue. She is due here tomorrow.

The Lotus left this port Tuesday afternoon for San Diego, which was to have been her new home. She had been remodelled here for use as a freighter and passnger craft between San Diego and Mexican ports. For many years the craft was owned and operated by the United States government as a revenue cutter on Puget Sound and recently was sold to the Charles Nelson company of this port and later purchased by Baldwin and Christensen of San Diego.

LACK OF PROPER FARM CREDIT IS DECLARED MENACE

Interest Rates Are Beyond Capacity of Farmer to Bear, Is Declared.

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—"No man can buy land, put in crops, take the chances a farmer does and pay 10 per cent annual interest on the money used," President David P. Barrows declared before delegates enrolled to the land conference in the Agricultural Division of the university.

"The farmer must wait 20 to 25 years for success, which even then is not possible when his interest is running between 10 and 15 per cent."

"Lack of proper credits and high rates of interest have been among the things that the man on the land has had to contend with," commented the university executive.

"No problem is quite so important as having our farms owned by Americans," President Barrows said. "We must get our people attached to the soil. One thing that has prevented advancement is that there has never been provision of any kind for financing agriculture as there has been for industdy. Land will bear capitalization commensurate with what it will do. Something must be done for the farmer to relieve him of anxiety."

Farm Loan Bank officials are in attendance on the conference, which will consider a solution to the problem of finance for the farmer.

Chaplin Refuses to Meet Woman Spending Champ

(By, United Press)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Henry Smith-Wilkinson, who recently dazzled Paris with a display of $5,000,000 worth of clothes and jewels, called upon Charlie Chaplin at his hotel while the comedian was asleep, after a late night.

"Who is she;" asked Charlie, opening one eye.

"The best dressed woman in England," replied his secretary.

"Well, tell her I'm the most undressed man in England," said Chaplin, as he rolled over and fell asleep again.

Takes a Lot to Make Paris Gasp, But This Did It

THE woman of the diamond studded teeth. Her annual income, she says, is $30,000,000, and she's trying her best to spend it on gold bath tubs and diamond studded dinner sets.

Paris gasped and then booed when Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson of Nottingham and London appeared at the Autenil races recently in this costume. Diamonds—real diamonds—glittered all over her form, from ankle to neck. She even had a diamond filling in her front teeth. She showed it when she smiled.

This was the climax of a hectic three weeks, in which she is reported to have spent 35,000,000.

She is coming over here. Our correspondent reports she told him she would make the trip in a private yacht. She will buy a Fifth avenue home in New York and she "probably" will install a couple of bathtubs of solid gold, such as she has in her house in Nottingham.

She owns a chain of forty bone-dry hostelries in England. She married Edward Henry Wilkinson in 1920. She met him fifteen years before at a charity ball in Nottingham. Photo copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

SHOOTING OF GIRLS BY ANOTHER ENDS IN RIOT IN SOUTH

Colored Child Is Said to Have Fired Shots; Residents Flee Tennessee Town.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Waldens Ridge, a little mining town 20 miles east of here, the scene late yesterday of a race riot, was completely deserted by its colored population today, and no further trouble was expected. About sixty miners with their families who made up the colored population fled from their cabins when the trouble started, leaving their possessions behind, and declared their intention of never returning.

The riot was precipitated by the shooting of three white girls by a colored girl, Henry Clipper, colored, it was said, claimed ownership of a spring on the outskirts of the village and had purchased a shotgun with which to keep others away. When Edna Barnett, aged 12, and her two younger sisters went to the spring Jewell Clipper, young daughter of Henry, fired at them, wounding all three. Older members of both races took up the affair and several shots were exchanged without damage.

When deputy sheriffs arrived the negroes had fled, except the Clipper family, which was besieged in its home by a mob of 150 persons. The deputies took the family to jail for protection. It was said several whites might be arrested. Edna Barnett was reported in a serious condition.

SANTA CLAUS IS PREPARING FOR BUSY CHRISTMAS

By HAROLD D. JACOBS,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

A canvass of the old gentleman's personal representatives in this country today revealed that they are counting on one of the biggest holiday distributions in gifts in years.

This situation was shown through a composite of information from retailers, jobbers and manufacturers. Its significance was emphasized in a statement by a buyer for a New York department store, who said:

"Retailers are in pretty close touch with the buying power of the country, which, in the last analysis, represents prosperity or lack of it.

"If they were not pretty sure that the public generally was going to be in a position to serve Christmas in the usual manner you may depend on it their buying power would reflect it. All indications are now that the holiday trade will be much larger than last year."

ASK THE TRIBUNE Bureau of Information

Sanitary laws with respect to the protection of workers in the making of ready-to-wear garments was the subject of one of the queries that came in to the Information Bureau of The TRIBUNE today. The query was as follows:

"Will you please give me some information as to sanitary laws that protect girls and women who work on ready-to-wear garments? Many times a garment is returned for alterations after it has been worn and soiled. Do we have to handle such before it has been to the cleaners?"

According to the board of health, there was such a law in effect during the influenza epidemic, but it is not in effect now.

Another query that came in today was as follows:

"What is the Grotto of Posilipo, and where is it located?"

The Grotto of Posilipo is an ancient Roman tunnel, still in use. It is about half a mile long and is on the Appian Way near Naples.

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature except school or legal problems, debates, trade and firm names and queries as to the time of day.

If answers are desired by mail stamps must be enclosed. Quickest results can be obtained by telephoning to the bureau. If you have any problems of a general nature to solve ask The TRIBUNE Information Bureau, Lakeside 6000.

9 OF 200 LIONS ADMIT KNOWING CHARTER PLANS

Organization Hears Review of Document by Attorney At Its Luncheon.

Nine men, of the two hundred members of the Lions' club, at the regular weekly luncheon of the organization yesterday, prior to a discussion of the new charter, confessed themselves informed on the alternative proposal to the charter for city and county consolidation. Some months ago when a similar call was made for those who understood the proposal to stand there were thirteen who rose, following which the club adopted resolutions favoring the alternative.

A brief review of the proposed charter, as outlined by the board of freeholders, was read to the club by Attorney R. H. Chamberlain, secretary of the Freeholders. He was followed by A. S. Lavenson, who confined his talk largely to an attack upon local newspapers which differed with his view on the charter movement.

Rev. John Snape spoke on the coming membership drive of the Oakland Y. M. C. A. and urged Oakland business men to join the organization. He said he made the plea in the interest of good citizenship.

"Our young men of today have a wonderful opportunity to improve their personality in the Y. M. C. A. organization," he said. "That is one of its first principles. Its teachings are a safeguard against the wrongdoing of the boy later on."

There will be no luncheon meeting of the Lions' club next Wednesday, due to the dinner and dance of the club in the evening at White's Pergola Inn, near Dublin. The Lions will have the dining room to themselves from 7:30 until 9:30, when the resort will be thrown open to public dancing.

RAIL UNIONS TO VOTE ON STRIKE PLAN NEXT WEEK

Sessions in Chicago to Decide Whether Nation Is to Have a General Tie-up.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Decision as to whether the nation will face a general railroad strike may result from two important meetings here next week.

Representatives of 500,000 railroad shopmen will meet here Sunday to determine what action to take in regard to the wage cut and changes in working rules, effective July 1.

The heads of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen, Switchmen's Union of North America and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will also meet to announce the result of a strike ballot now being taken in these organizations. Unofficial reports from some organizations indicate a large majority of members favor striking.

SLAVS PLAN PICNIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The Slavonic I. M. B. society will hold its sixty-fourth annual picnic at Luchen Garden, Colma, on Sunday. This organization is one of the oldest in San Francisco, having been organized here in 1857, and having met continuously since that time.

WOMEN REACHING FOR PULPIT, LAST CITADEL OF MAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Male autocracy that once ruled in every part of life is making its last stand in the ministry, Miss M. Madeline Southard, president of the International Association of Women Preachers, told its annual convention here tonight.

Miss Southard led the struggle in the Methodist Episcopal general conference last year that obtained license for women to preach. Her home is in Winfield, Kan. Women preachers of a number of churches, for the association is non-denominational, heard her address.

"Our good friends in this land who oppose woman's admission to the ministry seem to be serenely unconscious that they are the spiritual descendants of those who once held women as chattels, who later shut the schools in their faces, denied them the ballot, and refused them equal wages for equal work despite the fact that thousands of them were the family bread winners," Miss Southard said. She then reviewed arguments against women preaching.

"The time was when an appeal to scripture settled the whole thing, men, of course, doing the interpreting," she said. "We have gone far from that now, for every woman's voice is heard in Christian Endeavor, Epworth League or Sunday school in a direct violation of the 'keeping silence in the church,' while if women did no teaching both public schools and Sunday schools would suffer considerable loss.

"Another once overwhelming argument was that woman was not mentally capable of presenting the weighty themes that must be dealt with in the pulpit. But since we have had a single generation of educated women we hear little more of that.

"Again it was once seriously claimed that woman was unequal physically to the strain of pastoral work—and that in the day when women had from 12 to 15 children and did all the work for them! We know of one woman who, in the Rocky Mountains, covered a circuit of 50 miles and developed several charges, which I heard her district superintendent declare 'were now able to support a man as pastor.'

"One still hears occasionally that the ordination of women will feminize the church. But that is impossible, for a man-monopoly of the pulpit has already accomplished it.

"It has not been proved that preaching is in any way inimical to motherhood. I know a number of preaching mothers and I will put their children up against any of the same number that any group of families desire to bring forward.

"Woman will bring no new gospel, just the woman's vision of the old yet ever new gospel. And there will be no rivalry between her and her brother, but as in other fields so in this; each will reinforce and strengthen the other. For the man's mind and the woman's mind are ever complementary and only the blended wisdom of the two can give wholeness and symmetry, whether in home or state or church."

San Jose Boy Is Shot by Friend On Hunting Trip

Lad May Die From Wounds Inflicted When Mistaken for Deer.

LIVERMORE, Sept. 15.—Paralyzed from the waist downward and weak from a loss of blood Fred Burkett, 17-year-old guide of San Jose, is in a local hospital today with only a slim chance of living, according to physicians, as the result of being shot by mistake for a deer by his companion, Ed Naurer, 90 University avenue, San Jose, yesterday afternoon, in the hills of San Antonio valley.

Burkett was brought to Livermore early this morning and physicians are preparing to take X-ray photographs to determine whether or not the bullet struck the spine.

With Naurer as companion, Burkett yesterday found deer tracks near a spring in the San Antone valley. Naurer suggested that Burkett stay at the spring while he went to the top of the ridge to scare out the deer which they believed near.

While coming through the brush a few moments later Naurer saw a movement in the brush on the other side of the valley. Believing it the deer, he fired.

He heard a scream, and rushing to the place, he found Burkett, lying face downward on the hillside.

The bullet had struck him in the right hand, severing a finger, glanced along the gun barrel and entered the lad's right side, emerging on the left side of the chest.

Attempting to stop the flow of blood from the wounds, Naurer worked the boy to a comfortable position near the spring, and after bathing the wounds he went for help.

He met Otto and Mat Keller and S. H. Del Ponte, who aided in carrying Burkett on an improvised stretcher to an automobile, in which he was taken to Livermore.

Practically twelve hours elapsed between the time of the accident and the arrival of the wounded boy at the hospital and during that time he lost so much blood that Physicians Warner and Dolan in charge of the case, say his condition is extremely critical. Paralysis set in shortly after his arrival at the hospital.

Livermore Tennis Club to Play for Herald Prize Cup

LIVERMORE, Sept. 15.—Tennis players of the Livermore Tennis club are now practicing diligently to prepare themselves for the second annual doubles tournament which starts soon to decide the winners of the Herald cup for this season. Last year the cup was won by T. W. Norris and George H. Oakes.

It is reported here that the Highway Commission is contemplating the work of widening the highway from the Mountain House this way to near the outskirts of town. If their plans are carried out it will mean that a two-foot shoulder will be added to each side of the highway. The main reason for adding this strip is that the shoulder will stop the water during the rainy weather from seeping under the edge of the highway and thus prevent the concrete from giving away when heavy trucks crowd the border.

The first work of the construction overhead crossing at Altamont was started yesterday when a crew of workmen commenced grading at the embankments. It is expected that by the first of the coming week a large gang of workmen will be at work.

ENLARGEMENT OF HAYWARD CHURCH TO BE PLANNED

Farm Products Show Representatives to Gather for Final Meeting Tonight

HAYWARD, Sept. 15.—Plans for the enlargement of the church building will be among the important items to come before the annual gathering and dinner of the Hayward Methodist church here this evening, according to the pastor, C. W. Null.

The new construction will add Sunday school rooms badly needed owing to the rapid growth of this activity during the past year, says Null. At the present time one Sunday school class is meeting at the rectory of the church and another has been forced to gather on the church grounds.

During the past year there has also been considerable increase in the adult attendance at the Methodist church, according to the pastor. A net increase of 24 members has been recorded.

The gathering this evening celebrates not only the success of the church during the past year, but also a wedding anniversary of the pastor and his wife. Mrs. Null has been recuperating slowly from the effects of an automobile accident over a month ago, and will be able to be present tonight, it is said.

That interest in the formation of the Alameda county poultry breeders and hatchers association is spreading beyond the limits of this farm bureau district is shown in a letter received by P. A. Day, a member of the poultry committee, here today.

The letter is from E. W. Langenbach of Mountain View, Santa Clara county, who inquires as to the procedure necessary to gain admittance to the Alameda county organization. Langenbach states that he has been a poultry breeder for over four years.

Tonight at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Castro street the executive committee of the 1921 Eden Township Farm Products Show, representatives of the various community centers and heads of joint activities that helped to make the recent show a success, will gather for the final meeting of this year's organization.

All business connected with the recent show will be completed and plans for the 1922 event will be discussed. Recommendations, based on the experience of this last show, for the conduct of the coming fairs will be in order. Great stress has been laid on the importance of the outside communities being present tonight, and a good representation is expected.

A formal reception to the minister of the Hayward Congregational church, Rev. A. P. Orth, and his wife is planned for tomorrow evening. The reception will be held at the church hall in conjunction with a dinner.

Hayward Legion To Have Part in War Hero Burial

HAYWARD, Sept. 15.—Arrangements are being completed here today for the military funeral of Simeon H. Anderson, a Hayward boy, killed in action at the battle of Argonne in France, September, 1918. The service will be conducted at Dania hall, Hayward, at 2 p. m. Sunday afternoon. Interment will be in Lone Tree cemetery.

Anderson was a member of Company H, 363rd with the 91st Division. He was 23 years old. Four American Legion posts plan to assemble in Hayward on Sunday in honor of his funeral.

The service will be conducted by A. P. Orth, pastor of the Hayward Congregational church, assisted by Chaplain John Mitchell and Commander Wesley Armstrong of the Hayward Post of the American Legion. The other posts to be represented are Danville, Washington Township and Pleasanton.

Charles Sorensen, an overseas veteran and friend of Anderson, will render a baritone solo at the service. It is thought today that a firing squad will be sent from the Presidio of San Francisco. The service is arranged as a public manifestation of honor and love that the Hayward people bear toward their boys who fell during the great conflict. A large attendance is expected at Dania hall Sunday afternoon.

Native Sons, Daughters To Invade Pleasanton

PLEASANTON, Sept. 15.—Pleasanton will open wide her gates Sunday morning and welcome several hundred members of the Alameda county parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, when they visit here and open the big membership drive of Pleasanton Parlor, No. 244. There will be Natives from all over the State present for the big festival day, but the seventeen Native Son parlors of the county and the fourteen Native Daughters Parlors are to be the real participants and present the spectacle of main interest. The visitors will leave the Native Sons' hall in Oakland shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and are due to arrive here at 11:30. At 11:45 o'clock there will be a parade along Main street, which will include decorated automobiles, prominent citizens and officers of note and a long line of Natives on foot.

The parade will come to a halt in front of the city hall, where a program will be presented. The children of the Pleasanton Grammar school will sing a few songs, talent from bay city parlors will present a few numbers and then the following short talks will be given:

"The Work of the Native Sons and Daughters Among the Homeless Children of California," Grand First Vice-President Harry Williams of Oakland Parlor, No. 50.

"The Native Sons as an Order," Grand Second Vice-President Judge William J. Hays of Berkeley Parlor, No. 210.

"Japanese Situation," Edward F. Garrison of Athens Parlor, No. 195.

The principal speech of the exercises will be an oration, "The Spirit of '49," which will be given by Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney of James Lick Parlor, No. 242, of San Francisco. Mayor Charles H. Schween of this city, a member and officer in the local parlor, will make an address of welcome, and Thomas H. Silver will act as chairman. Dr. Victory A. Derrick of Oakland, who is grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be in attendance with a number of the grand officers of the lodge. Prominent officers of Native Son lodges up and down central and northern California have sent word that they will attend.

According to a report given out by the committee, the meeting here on Sunday will resemble the annual convention. The afternoon program has been called off on account of local counter-attractions, and instead the local parlor will hold open house for the visitors in the Odd Fellows' hall throughout the afternoon. The Pleasanton parlor is making a determined effort to build up its lodge and enlist more young men in the good work the Native Sons are doing, and they expect to secure at least 40 new members in the present drive.

Santa Rosa Pageant to Tell History of Old California

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 15.—Santa Rosa is going on the map as a town that knows the meaning of the Northern California Booster campaign activities with the Home Coming Festival next week. The crowning event of the week of gaiety and excitement will be the pageant, to be presented Friday night. A cast of 500 people will participate in a story built on the history of Sonoma county, and full of light, color, romance and atmosphere of the oldrn days.

A synopsis of the pageant story is as follows.

History and Tradition, two heroic figures on daises before the audience, carry the story of the pageant in short prologue and episode.

The first scene is a deserted Indian camp, to which, during a storm, two Indian scouts come looking for temporary shelter for their tribe. They call the tribe on and all retire for the night. But they are awakened by the arrival of two warriors bringing as prisoner the son of a neighboring chief.

A council of war is called and the tribe decides to burn the prisoner, but he is saved by the arrival of a princess of the home tribe, who frees him during the dance. Eventually the episode ends happily, with pledges of friendship between the two tribes.

The second scene is opened by a Russian blacksmith merrily working at his forge in historic Fort Ross. The villagers come on in a happy scene with dancing and folk music, but the fun is interrupted by the arrival of two Mexican ambassadors, who order the Russians to leave the shores of California. The Russians firmly refuse, and trouble is brewing when two messengers arrive from Russia with news that the United States government, quoting the Monroe doctrine, sides with the Mexicans because they were original holders of the land. The Russians leave. Olga, the girl in the episode, is entreated by her Mexican lover to remain, but the call of family is too great, and she goes, sadly.

In the third episode two mission fathers, coming to establish a mission in Sonoma, are met by an Indian girl, who begs succor from her father, who threatens to make her marry a hated man. The priest intercedes for her; when the temporary altar is set up and a service sung the girl is baptized, and the ground is consecrated for the mission building.

A big Mexican fiesta is revealed by the lights in the fourth episode, but this is interrupted by the arrival of a crowd of Americans, who demand from General Marino Vallejo the surrender of California. He submits because he is helpless; the Bear Flag is originated and raised, but in the celebration that begins thereupon another interruption, that of an American naval officer results in the lowering of the Bear Flag and the raising of the American Stars and Stripes to symbolize the taking over of California as a territory. The Mexican fiesta is resumed and the episode ends in a blaze of music, color and lights.

In the fifth episode a running fight between Indians and an immigrant train opens the scene. The Indians surround the camp; a volunteer goes for help; when the suspense is growing unbearable, a rescue party arrives and the volunteer who went for help and his beautiful sweetheart are reunited in a pretty and happy love scene.

The sixth is an old Fourth of July celebration, that staged in Sonoma county in 1869. An orator begs the people to bury old hatreds and be a reunited state; the moral is taken to heart by the beautiful little Southern girl, Margaret Cameron, and she takes back her lover, Captain David Stone of the Union army, and the scene ends with a big chorus singing Auld Lang Syne and Swance River, and with a Virginia Reel.

The last episode is a big tableau, with 200 of the prettiest girls in Northern California on the stage. The queen of the carnival is crowned and in a blaze of glory and splendor a pageant of fruit and flowers is presented, brought on the stage by the magic wand of Luther Burbank, the world-famous scientist. Music, blinding color and the pyramid tableau of the throng scene ends the pageant.

Big Irrigation District Taxes Fixed by Board

Knightsen District Improvement Planned at Directors' Meeting.

KNIGHTSEN, Sept. 15.—The board of directors of the Knightsen Irrigation district, at their meeting held yesterday, approved the request of the Balfour-Guthrie Investment Co. for the inclusion of 40.39 acres of their land into the district. The district, after the inclusion, contains 10,001 acres.

They also fixed the tax rate for 1921-1922 taxes at 1.28. This will make the amount of tax to be raised approximately the same as last year, as the valuation has been raised. The rate last year was 1.75.

Some rights of ways and easements for pipe lines have been secured, and the directors are rapidly securing the remainder. It is proposed to purchase the rights of ways of laterals and sublaterals which are used to serve more than one owner, but easements will be secured for sublaterals for one owner only. All pipe will be buried deep enough to allow working the ground over it, therefore it is unnecessary to purchase rights of way through the property.

Vice-President of Ferry Company Dies

BENICIA, Sept. 15.—Funeral arrangements are being made today for Gus Enauck, local politician and vice-president of the Benicia-Martinez Ferry company. Enauck died in a San Francisco hospital late yesterday from pneumonia, following an operation for tonsilitis.

Petaluma Junior High School Bonds Bring a High Premium.

PETALUMA, Sept. 15.—The $250,000 bonds recently voted by the citizens of Petaluma for the erection of a Junior High school were sold Tuesday by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to Cyrus Pierce & Co., San Francisco, this firm being the highest bidder, at $10,108.50. The bonds brought a good premium. The Sonoma high school bonds of $115,000 were also sold to the same company.

Conrad, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. von Tunster of this city, was seriously injured Tuesday evening, by being struck by an automobile driven by O. M. Woodworth, on the main street. The boy was riding a bicycle and, according to eye witnesses, turned directly in the path of the oncoming machine, which threw him against another auto parked at the curb. The boy's bicycle was demolished.

The directors of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce have been invited to a luncheon which will be given at Santa Rosa Thursday by the Homecoming committee.

Petaluma has decided to put a float in the parade and will select one of the prettiest girls of this city to preside.

George S. Jones of Ignacio has been granted a permit by the State Railroad Commission to operate an automobile passenger service between Petaluma and Boyes Springs. The right to operate between Ignacio and Petaluma was denied Jones, as it was held that the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was giving ample service between these points.

Plans for the formation of a junior department of the Sonoma county farm bureau have been drawn up and adopted at a meeting held in this city by members of the farm bureau. This department will be conducted on similar lines and in conjunction with the regular farm bureau work.

At the end of the forty-fifth week, Sept. 11, of the Sonoma county farm bureau egg laying contest at Petaluma, the standing of the five highest pens, composed of ten hens each, was as follows:

From many sections of the state inquiries are coming in requesting information regarding the dairy bull sale, which is to take place here Wednesday, September 21. Dairymen of California seem anxious to improve their herds, and take this as an opportunity to secure pure bred animals for that purpose.

Some of the leading breeders of the state will consign animals; regardless of the price they may bring. The sale is promoted by the Sonoma-Marin county farm bureaus, and dairymen can purchase their bulls at this sale under the full protection of these organizations. Those interested may procure a catalogue from W. B. Hopkins, secretary Sales Committee, Petaluma, Calif.

WHAT PEOPLE of the GOLDEN STATE are DOING

SEARCH STARTED FOR MISSING S. J. RESTAURANT MAN

Third Day of Absence Fails to Give Hunters Clew to Man's Whereabouts.

SAN JOSE Sept. 15.—Search for H. A. Bossert of 348 North Thirteenth street, well-known local restaurant proprietor, was begun here today, following his sudden and unexplained disappearance Tuesday afternoon.

While preliminary investigations had been made Tuesday night and yesterday, hopes were held out that Bossert might return to his home, but with the beginning of the third day of his disappearance this morning the search was made public and officers sought all possible aid in endeavoring to locate the man.

Report of the disappearance of Bossert was made to the police and sheriff's office by Mrs. Bossert.

Fears are held that the man has suddenly gone out of his head as the last that is known of him is that he left his wife at their restaurant in Lightstone street Tuesday afternoon, complaining of a "raging headache."

Bossert told his wife that he would go home for a couple of hours and then return. He is known to have gone home and to have been partly undressed and in bed up to shortly before 5 o'clock, being seen by his son, but since that time no trace of him has been found.

Mrs. Bossert was today in a state of virtual collapse as a result of his disappearance. Their home life, she states, has been unmarred by any quarrels and her husband was not a drinking man. She states that never before has she known him to absent himself in such manner.

The restaurant, which Bossert seldom left to the management of others, was thrown on the hands of his wife with his sudden dropping from sight.

At the time he disappeared, it is said, Bossert had considerable money in his pocket, a gold watch, stickpin, ring and other jewelry and the theory of possible foul play is being investigated by the officers.

Bossert is 48 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall and of "chunky" build. He was well dressed in a practically new gray suit, soft brown hat and white shirt and collar.

Deaf Mute Is Held in S. J. as Bicycle Thief

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15.—Joseph Tillman, a deaf-mute, is arrested and under investigation by Chief of Police J. N. Black and police detectives, following his efforts to sell a new bicycle for $4.50 in Santa Clara. Tillman was nabbed by Constable Tom Maloney of Santa Clara when informed of the man's actions.

First investigations failed to find any report of a wheel stolen that would answer the description of that Tillman was endeavoring to sell, but the police were convinced when Axel Sealund, janitor in the San Jose Bank building, reported his bicycle stolen and later identified the wheel in Tillman's possession as his own.

Scalund immediately thereafter swore to a complaint before Police Judge Thomas R. Dougherty, charging Tillman with petit larceny and he will be taken before the court today.

Tillman refuses to make any statement to the officers, although he admits that "evidences are against him."

As the result of the theft of three other bicycles within the past 24 hours, owned by A. Bersano of 59 South Market street, J. O'Sullivan of 43 North First street, and Walter McCauley of South Fifth street, Chief of Police Black is endeavoring to fasten the theft of these bicycles on Tillman.

IS MADE APPRAISER.

MERCED, Sept. 15.—Andrew R. Schottky has been appointed inheritance tax appraiser for the county, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Terry W. Ward. H. W. Landram is the other appraiser.

Milk Bottles
—a service that's costly

¶ The clean, sterilized bottle in which your milk comes to you is an essential to safe milk.

¶ The bottle is washed, steamed, sterilized and filled by modern machinery. The caps are spotlessly clean and sterilized.

LODI, Sept. 15.—The street lights burned dimly as Mrs. George Siebert hurried towards her home on South Church street, carrying a large bottle in her hand.

Trembling with fear, the woman obeyed.

"Gimme that bottle," again commanded the masked bandit, still hoarsely. "I don't want to hurt ye, lady, but I gotta have that bottle," he croaked.

She passed it to him.

When he reached a secluded spot, drew the cork and tilted it to his lips—but let the curtain be drawn in the name of sweet charity. The bottle contained olive oil.

Boy, Playing on Street, Struck By Automobile

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15. — Willis Waite, 16, of Box 318, Plummer avenue, west of this city, sustained a broken leg and numerous cuts and bruises yesterday afternoon near his home when struck by an automobile owned and operated by J. K. Landale of Mountain View.

The accident took place, according to witnesses, when the lad suddenly ran into the road while at play with other boys. Apparently unmindful of anything about him, young Waite ran into the road when being pursued by another lad.

He ran directly in the path of the on-coming automobile, which, Landale says, was being driven about 25 miles per hour. The driver is said to have been given no opportunity to stop his car. He swerved sharply to the left in an effort to avoid striking Waite, but failed, the lad being caught by the front fender.

Turlock Shipments Show Good Times

TURLOCK, Sept. 15.—Despite the oft-heard wail of "hard times," the shipping record of this district for the season to date disproves the assertion, as far as Turlock is concerned. Just 2917 carloads of fruit, melons and grapes have been shipped, while two carloads of beans have just been started on their way to an Alabama market at good prices. Exactly 1650 carloads of cantaloupes were shipped from here this season, with watermelons in second place with 875 carloads.

Turlock Couple Go To Portland to Wed

TURLOCK, Sept. 15.—Springing a happy surprise on their host of local friends, Miss Johanna Wold and Lorin Patterson were married in Portland recently, word of the pretty event having just been received here. CONCORD MAN IS SHOT WHILE ON HUNT FOR DEER

Mistaken for Buck, Companion Seriously Wounds Him.

CONCORD, Sept. 15. — Robert Skinner, son-in-law of Mayor and Mrs. Henry Bott of this city, lies in the hospital in Weaverville, Trinity county, in a serious condition as the result of having been accidentally shot by a companion while deer hunting last Friday. Skinner was accompanied on the hunt by H. H. Spangler and E. L. Kearny of Martinez and was shot by Spangler, who mistook his khaki trousers for the hide of a deer. Skinner was in a thicket, when Spangler, sure that he had sighted a deer, aimed his high-power rifle and fired.

The bullet tore a big wound in the muscles of Skinner's right arm and also struck him in the side. The party was many miles from any habitation and it was three hours before the wounded man reached the nearest place to receive first aid. He was by that time very weak from loss of blood, and is still in a precarious condition. His wife of this city and his mother of Richmond left Saturday to be with him. He is an engineer in the employ of the government in San Francisco, and was taking his annual vacation when the accident befell him.

Joseph Garcia, a well known resident of this vicinity, died at his home a few miles from Concord last Saturday morning. The deceased was a native of the Azores Islands, 35 years of age. His death came after an illness of three years' duration. He resided on the farm fifteen years. A widow and one son survive him.

Word has been received here by the Farm Bureau from the University of California that Miss Helen Burling, a graduate in home economics from the Iowa State Agricultural college, will be permanently stationed in Contra Costa county, beginning October 1. Miss Burling has her master's degree in home economics and has taught this subject in both high school and Ames, and has been a home demonstrator in Ames for the last four years. Home demonstration work will be carried on jointly by the home demonstration agent and the farm home department of the Farm Bureau. It will embrace such subjects as hat making, canning and preserving, sanitation, dietetics, poultry, home improvement and other work in which the women of the county are interested.

The Concord Farm Center will give a benefit dance at the club house next Saturday evening and hopes to clear enough to liquidate the debt still resting on the Center's share of the purchase price on the community chemical fire engine, purchased jointly by the Farm Center and the town of Concord.

L. W. Brubeck, a pioneer of Concord, is seriously ill at his home near town.

The fruit season in this valley is about ended, although there still remains a considerable quantity of fall pears to be shipped. The Pioneer Fruit company has shipped altogether from Ygnacio and Alhambra valleys 190 carloads of pears. The average price received by the growers was $71 a ton.

The Concord Farm Center is planning a big farewell for L. C. Kellogg and daughter, Miss Elains, who will leave soon to take up their residence in the southern part of the state. The reception will be held in the club house, the building of which was largely made possible through the untiring and energetic efforts of Kellogg.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hill are the parents of a son, born in Oakland, September 10. The mother before her marriage was Miss Sarah Thrasher. She is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. George Thrasher of Concord and Berkeley.

The charge against Wallace Keyes of Alameda, arrested with Stine and Owens, was dismissed, it being stated by the district attorney that it had been shown he had nothing to do with the alleged attack.

It is stated that three to one of the chamber of commerce members favor a city manager system for Vallejo. If the council refuses to call for the election it is stated that the above committee will circulate the necessary petitions.

The police have been asked to locate an automobile, the number and description of which has been furnished them, and which the Hop Sing men declare is the car in which the raiding party was riding on the night of the battle here.

Veale subpoenaed as witnesses in a damage suit in federal court in San Francisco it has been necessary to have the preliminary examination of Jack Pappas of Bay Point, charged with the murder of John Osborn, postponed until Tuesday, September 20, it was announced today by Tinning. The preliminary was scheduled for tomorrow in Justice of the Peace F. L. Glass court. Postponement of the preliminary was agreeable to Attorneys J. E. Rodgers and A. F. Bray, who represent Pappas.

The boy was shot by a schoolmate, Richard Johnston, while returning to his home from school. The Johnston boy shot Casey through the heart from a window of his home after the Casey lad, noticing Johnston with a rifle, said to "go ahead and shoot, I'm not afraid." The five children are believed to be the only witnesses to the tragedy.

AUTO PLOWS WAY INTO SALVATION ARMY MARCHERS

Police Hunt Auto Driven Into Army Ranks, Knocking Down Two Men.

SAN JOSE, Sept 15 — An automobile, said to bear the license number of Michael Salarno, of 48 West Main street, Stockton, is being sought by the police today in an effort to ascertain who was driving it last night in this city when it plowed its way through the ranks of the local Salvation Army just as the "army" was forming at Market and Santa Clara streets.

Two of the men in the Salvation group, Virgil and Robert Hill, were struck by the automobile and knocked down, although not sustaining injuries other than a few bruises.

The occupants of the car thinned according to witnesses, laughed at the breaking up of the "army" ranks, and speeded up their car, making their getaway.

Ensign Hall, of the Salvation Army corps, stated to officers this morning that he will swear to a complaint against the driver of the car if it is definitely established who was operating the machine at the time of the incident.

Administration Wins Prune Growers' Fight

SAN JOSE Sept 15 — Completely putting to rout the forces of the anti-administration leaders the administration backers of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association yesterday carried out their program for re-election of the board of directors and other officers of the association who have been serving during past year.

Every motion or suggestion offered by Superior Judge J. R. Welch and Nathan Lester, leaders of the opposition, was voted down.

Feeling ran high and Judge Welch today charged that the entire meeting had been "dominated" and that "steam roller" tactics had been used by the administration leaders.

He charged that "dirty politics" had been conducted in the association by its leaders.

The sensation of the day, however, came when, in electing the new board of directors, the association backers voted solidly for all those men who have served as directors during the past year with the exception of Nathan Lester, the largest prune grower in the world and holder of nearly 2 per cent of the association's acreage.

Lester was replaced on the board by C. D. Carothers, a local attorney. Nathan Lester, in the election campaign recently, affiliated himself with the anti-administration forces and was elected with a high vote.

Following his repudiation by the association backers today Lester declared that the action was his "punishment" for "serving the interests of the growers."

Judge Welch pointed out that Lester "saved the association" during its acreage campaign when he signed his tremendous acreage near Gilroy.

Charles Lester, cousin of Nathan and a wealthy grower, has been a leader in the association work, was also turned down without any recognition.

The Lesters, Welch, Hugh Hutsman, C. C. Spalding and other anti-administration leaders were elected with the highest votes at the general election of the association members.

Welch charged today that Harry C. Dunlap, department manager of the association, has used association time and money during the past three months in conducting a political campaign throughout the state, lining up outside district voting board members with the association.

All charges of the anti-administration men were warmly denied by the association backers. There was little controversy, however, as the voting was carried out quickly and surely by the administration forces.

Resolutions by Welch seeking a postponement until December of the election of the board of directors, in order that the work of the association might be seen "on pay day," and another calling for a shorter term for the directors than the seven years for which they were elected yesterday, were voted down.

Martinez Girl Returning From Work in France

Tinning, has arrived in New York from France, where for the past eighteen months she has been engaged in relief work with the Committee for Relief in Devastated France. Definite word as to Miss Tinning's plans has not been had, but it is expected she will remain in New York for several weeks.

In letters to members of her family, Miss Tinning has expressed herself as liking France and the work in which she has been engaged. People in the devastated areas are very appreciative of the aid being extended them by the United States, she declares.

Girl Refuses Dance, Rejected Man Jailed

OAKDALE, Sept. 15.—It was a tag dance. The scene was the Rialto pavilion, Oakdale. J. S. Steadman of Modesto was the extra man. He stepped up and tagged Ned Johnson, member of the Oakdale baseball team. In keeping with the rules Johnson promptly released his fair partner. She took a look at Steadman. Then, turning to Johnson, said: "I don't know this man. Come on, Mr. Johnson."

As they resumed the dance, Steadman, so Johnson declared, struck him on the jaw without a word of warning. Then Officer Morrison took Steadman to the county jail, where he remained for the rest of the night. Returned here for trial, he pleaded guilty before Judge Wilkerson, who fined him $30. Steadman paid.

Iowa Woman Named Demonstration Agent

MARTINEZ, Sept. 15.—Appointment of Miss Helen Burling, a graduate of the Iowa State Agricultural college, as home demonstration agent for Contra Costa was announced today by the farm bureau. The farm bureau has been endeavoring for several years to secure a home demonstration agent and this year was successful in obtaining an appropriation from the board of supervisors.

Mystery Auto With Searchlight Hunted

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15.—Sheriff George W. Lyle is today investigating reports of a mystery automobile which for several nights has been moving slowly over the highways of the county, playing a powerful searchlight on the homes of ranchers. Whether or not the machine is occupied by persons with possible criminal intent is the question bothering the sheriff. Many ranchers have been annoyed, he reports, by the playing of the searchlight on their homes and in windows at early hours in the morning.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 15—J. Herbert Smith of Los Angeles was chosen president of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, which closed its twenty-second annual convention here yesterday. Other officers named were as follows:

Pearson, Stockton; F. E. Connolly, San Francisco, and Fred W. Mojet, San Francisco, were elected directors.

Among resolutions passed was one declaring against all forms of license or occupation taxes.

ALLEGES DESERTION.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 15.—Alleging that after they had been married little more than two months her husband, Walter L. Plaskett, deserted her, Myrtle L. Plaskett today filed suit for divorce and asked that her maiden name of Myrtle Kleiber be restored. The couple married July 3, 1920, in Oakland, and the husband left the home on September 8, the complaint charges. The wife also alleges Plaskett failed to provide for her.

STRAW HATS ARE GIVEN LAST RITES BY S. J. MERCHANT

Elaborate Funeral Cortege Wends Way Through the Main Streets of City.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15.—Straw hats died a natural death in this city, as elsewhere today and San Jose knew it.

The fascinating straw was given burial service unprecedented in the city and a funeral procession of pomp and dignity.

All of which was brought about through the activities of Jay McCabe, local hatter, who has a reputation for unique advertising propensities, and Milton Pacassi, one of his clerks.

Promptly at 12 o'clock noon, pedestrians and traffic on First Street San Jose's main business street, were amazed and aroused to see wending its way from the vicinity of Monham's undertaking parlors a funeral cortege.

Six street urchins, all wearing brown derby hats on which were hat bands of the gaudiest hues, were seen bearing a closed casket of the most up-to-the-minute design.

Slowly, methodically the cortege wound its way up the street through the business district. Curious crowds followed and police had difficulty momentarily in handling traffic.

In front of McCabe's hat store the funeral procession was seen to halt and a moment later the pallbearers had carried the coffin into the spacious show window of the establishment, where it rested amongst a profusion of flowers.

Then the curious public was "let in" on the occasion.

Throughout the day hundreds gazed upon it. An empty barrel was placed in front of the store and therein were deposited numerous straws that during the day were discarded for the felts and velours of Fall and Winter.

Tonight the straws will be burned and the season will officially be at an end, for San Jose at least.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1921.

GOVERNMENT OPTIMISTIC.

Secretary of Labor Davis yesterday gave utterance to a very satisfactory statement regarding national economic conditions. He referred to positive signs of business recovery and pointed out that the figures of over five million unemployed should be compared with the seven million unemployed of 1914. He also called attention to the fact that of the unemployed today, there is a far larger proportion upon which no one is actually dependent.

Mr. Davis called attention to the twelve million persons now at work in the industrits and referred to the encouraging fact that $500,000,000 is now available throughout the country in the form of bonds already issued by State, county and municipal governments for public works. The governments responsible for the expenditure of this money are expected to shape their plans, so far as may be possible, to give the largest amount of work throughout the winter months.

Attention was also called to the fact, previously mentioned in these columns, that the cotton and woolen cloth and shoe industries are showing healthy signs of recovery. While the iron and steel industry is still running at about fifty per cent of normal, it is showing signs of increased activity. These are movements to justify optimism.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the Department of Commerce on September 8 published a report which showed that the wheat exports for the month of August beat the August shipments of any previous year prior to the war four times over. The total shipments abroad amounted to 33,595,000 bushels. Exports of wheat to Europe have been growing steadily during the last four months and the September shipments promise to equal the August record. The failure of the potato crop in Europe is given as an important cause for the increased demand for wheat.

Cotton has advanced in price $11 a bale during the last few weeks. A bumper crop of corn is assured—it may even break the record crop of last year. This will mean cheaper maintenance for cattle and hogs and will enable the holding of livestock until ready for the market to a much larger extent than was believed possible a few months ago.

All these factors—the receipts from wheat exports, better cotton prices which will induce growers to sell their crops, and cheaper livestock feed—move for an easier financial situation. There will be less demand upon the War Finance Corporation for financial aid for the agriculturalist and more financial resources available for industrial enterprises.

The feeling of optimism in the federal government is not confined to the Secretary of Labor. Secretary of Commerce Hoover said a few days ago that the higher prices for cotton and wheat would stabilize conditions in agriculture. He believes the returns from farm crops at the improved prices will furnish adequate funds to the farmers and obviate the necessity for further government assistance in marketing new crops.

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board believes the rise in cotton prices to be an indication of better business conditions while Mr. Eugene Meyer, managing director of the War Finance Corporation, now in San Francisco in connection with a tour of the Pacific Coast, looks upon the present industrial depression as definitely passing.

Sections toward which the comment of the government officials has been directed are the Southern, Middle Western, Central Atlantic and New England States. But if conditions in these sections which produce approximately eighty per cent of the commodities of trade of the whole country, are improving, the effect will be nation wide. The stimulus will be felt generally.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

There are two ways of estimating the number of wage earners out of work in the United States. Statisticians take the number of workers employed at this time last year and subtract the number now employed and tell the country there are over five million workers without jobs.

But how many persons were working for fair wages this time last year because the war-time wages which prevailed when the war fervor attracted them to work in the industries for the first time were working this time last year simply because the high wages were still in vogue? During the war hundreds of thousands of persons left offices, professional activities and idleness to work in industries. When the wages dropped and industrial plants closed down a large proportion of these workers quit the industries never to return.

This class of war workers, which entered industry only for the great emergency, should of course be subtracted from the figures which the statisticians give of unemployment. The only true figure would be of those persons who want and need a job now but can't find one. The number would be sufficiently large at best, but it is probably considerably less than five million.

NO REVENUE LOST.

There are reference in official statements from San Francisco, Oakland and elsewhere to the effect that the decision of the California Supreme Court that the alien poll tax law is unconstitutional and therefore ineffective, means a loss of school revenues. In San Francisco the loss by this decision is said to be $450,000; in Oakland, $118,000, and so on down the list of smaller communities that had counted on collecting a poll tax on aliens.

But these statements are erroneous. The schools have lost nothing by the nullification of the alien poll tax law. No other department of government has lost any revenue. The alien poll tax was never available.

There was never any probability that it would be available. On the contrary the warning was general and confidently given that the tax would never be collected, or if any portion of it was collected that the courts would order it returned. So the various school administrations never had any authority or justification for counting the alien poll tax receipts among their prospective revenues. If they did expect to derive the satisfaction of spending it another commentary to official incompetence has been written.

Therefore the official statements should be to the effect that had the poll tax law been upheld by the courts more money might have been available to the school administrations. No basis exists for a stronger statement. It is just possible that the illogical, unfounded complaint that the schools have lost large amounts of revenue—revenue they never possessed—is for the purpose of giving foundation to contemplated requests for new appropriations from other funds.

One of the worst floods in history has just visited San Antonio, Texas, and the surrounding towns. The known dead now number 175 souls and the list may grow to 250. Other floods have destroyed more property, but only a few in this country have taken so heavy a toll of human life. The people in the flooded districts, like true Texans, have said in the first hours of their misfortune that they do not need help from the outside. But if their problem is larger than they can solve alone outside assistance will be forthcoming in generous measure.

Viscount Kato, who was foreign minister when Japan formulated and presented the notorious twenty-one demands to China, says Japanese diplomacy is incompetent in dealing with the Shantung question. By which he means that he does not like the show of yielding to the world's pressure for a return to China of that which belongs to her.

Another week of recess for members of the House of Representatives, but reports come from many quarters that the Congressmen have heard enough from the home folks and are anxious to get back on the job at Washington.

There are some persons who say they are a mere baby in business matters who turn out, like the baby, to want it all.

CROWDED COLLEGES.

Reports from all parts of the country tell of colleges overwhelmed with student applicants. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Wisconsin, Texas, California, will have larger freshmen classes than ever before. Dartmouth has actually had to turn away hundreds. Women's colleges sustain an influx, and Mount Holyoke, Vassar, Smith and Bryn Mawr are filled.

Two years ago when the universities showed a large increase in attendance the matter was easily understood for thousands of young men were then returning from service in the army and navy to complete their interrupted education. But for rare exceptions these men are now all graduated and the present influx of students must have some other cause. A rush to college in the midst of a period of industrial slackness may furthermore well indicate a cause of a lasting kind.

Since the war ended almost every line of endeavor has with new insistence demanded trained men. Factories, banks, mercantile houses, need more than ever a percentage of workers who have two or three years of special preparation for the work in hand. And in response to this demand the colleges have greatly extended within the past decade their utilitarian courses. Everywhere there has been a phenomenal growth of the departments of economics. Schools have multiplied courses in money and banking, in accounting, in labor problems, in corporation finance. And to these courses undergraduates flock in large numbers while the teachers of Latin or Greek or pure mathematics find themselves almost deserted.

Whatever may be said for the desirability of business schooling in colleges the day that gave the technically untrained collegian a living is rapidly passing. The race will be to the prepared. Because people feel this the present flood of applicants for entrance [illegible] no doubt continue. In fact will prob- [illegible] —New York Sun.

NOTES and COMMENT

"Vigilantes" are generally understood to mean summary organizations which do not wait for court processes. Women of San Francisco have taken the name for an organization whose object is to see to things. One of the things they are seeing to is that the girls who were present at Arbuckle's soiree are protected in telling about it. Which is a shading off from the doings of vigilance committees as they have sometimes functioned.

The ten thousand students of the U. C. who have been sued by a former student in an effort to recover $25,000 damages will not be badly hurt if they lose. A matter of $2.50 apiece will neither make them nor break them. However, a lawsuit is a lawsuit, and there are instances going to show that it is not wise to neglect one on the supposition that it will not amount to anything.

Considering what is happening near by, it is interesting to read how London crowds fight for a chance to do honor to Charlie Chaplin. The despatch which describes him as partaking of a dish of eels at a friend's house Tuesday night is in wide contrast with accounts of what was occurring to another screen celebrity in this vicinity.

* * *

Obeying "that impulse" is sometimes legitimate, but the instance of the Ukiah youth who explains that his shooting of an aged rancher was because "the desire to kill some one overcame me" is different. It suggests the advisability of restraint so that the impulse cannot be felt again in a way to imperil the life of some one who has a reasonable right to keep on living.

There appears to be no law against stealing booze, on the ground that there is no legal existence of booze; but a recent instance serves to remind that if the container is taken it constitutes a theft. Consequently the safe way for the appropriator would seem to be to absorb the main proposition and leave the receptacle, thus avoiding liability.

The Sacramento Bee says that one of the most famous editorials ever printed in this country first appeared in the Emporia Gazette and was headed "What Is The Matter With Kansas?" and that it advised the farmers of that state to "raise more corn and less hell." The Bee doesn't get the story as it is generally told. The editorial was, "What's the Matter With Kansas? Kansas has been raising hell and is suffering from overproduction."

The result of the New York primaries do not seem to be overwhelmingly comforting to the wets. That city was expected to show how utterly the country is recoiling from the ban on booze. The candidate who ran for the fusion nomination on that especial issue came in a rather indifferent third.

War's results can never be foreseen. Indeed, they are often not realized till long after. We are reminded of this by the most unexpected disclosures. Here is a despatch from Angora, which tells how the war has deprived Turkish women of perfumery.

The despatch which tells about the Senate finance committee "disregarding Mellon's House bill suggestions" raises the query whether the rumors of his resignation from the cabinet will now gather strength. It may be that he will not feel the surroundings as genial after being disregarded in such a way.

MOPLAHS OF MALABAR

About the District in India Whree Descendants of Arab Traders Started Revolt Against British and Hindu Government.

"Malabar, scene of rioting, is an India of human frictions, but otherwise an India of quiet backwaters, of luxuriant vegetation, of crocodiles, tigers, leopards and wild elephants—the East of traditions and dreams," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society of the region where British forces are trying to restore order.

"The Moplahs of Malabar number about a million. Most of them are descendants of Arab traders who landed on the West Coast in the ninth century, although some are descended from converts of Hinduism and other indigenous Mohammedan groups.

"Malabar still has considerable commerce, but the large foreign trade has departed for ports where steamships can safely anchor and dock. Although Calicut gave its name to calico, the weaving of this cloth has almost died out and piece goods are among the most important imports.

"Malabar's paddy fields, backed by graceful cocoanut groves, which also fringe the coast, and its wealth of pepper, cardamons, ginger, tea, coffee and teak, suggest the Orient to those who do not know of the imports of machinery, hardware, fabrics and kerosine which are changing a fairy land into a modern district. This small region, shut in between the towering mountains and the blue sea, perfumed with spices and rich with food, is the last place that one would look for rebellion or organized revolt. But the Moplahs, who sell their lives dearly and are the type which delight readers of adventure and harass the police and soldiery, are once more rallied beneath the green flag which the followers of the Prophet once carried to Spain and to the gates of Vienna. Time and again they have revolted against the Hindus, and so fierce is their fanaticism that native bayonets have been useless against them. In 1500, two years after the arrival of Vasco da Gama, on his famous voyage which established a new trade route to the East, a Portuguese factory was destroyed by the Moplahs, or Mopillas, and the inmates murdered. This led to a bombardment of Calicut by Portuguese men-of-war. (Calicut is not to be confused with Calcutta.)

"For nearly a century the peace of Malabar has been periodically disturbed by these fanatical Moslems. Since 1851 a detachment of British infantry has been stationed at Malappuram, and attacks made against this group were repulsed some days ago. In 1873 the Moplahs started a serious outbreak at Kolattur, and twelve years later a small group of these fanatics took up a strong position in a Hindu temple in Trikkalur, from which they were routed by the use of dynamite. In 1891 a gang of 35 Moplahs at Mannarakkat were dispersed by howitzer fire, and in 1896 a hundred men were shot in Manjeri, a village of 4000 in Ernad taluk, which had been the scene of an earlier Moplah outrage in 1849.

"Malabar is a narrow coastal plain 150 miles in length from north to south, fronting on the Arabian Sea on the Europeward side of India, and backed by the Western Ghats, 3000 to 8000 feet high and from 20 to 60 miles from the coast. The only break in the mountain wall is at Palghat Gap, 16 miles wide, through which the railway enters the otherwise segregated region. The railway line divides at Shoranur, near the Ponnani river, one fork turning south to Cochin and the other north to Mangalore, passing through Calicut, the French settlement of Mahe and Cannanore on its way to the South Kanara district.

"Just now, Malabar is being swept by the southwest monsoon which discharges heavy rains along the coast, and turns the short rivers that cut the seaward face of the Western Ghats into rushing torrents.

"Along the coast there is a narrow everglade region made up of backwaters and lagoons, many of which are connected by canals which are an important feature in the communications of the region. Here the flora is varied and luxuriant, but malaria is common. Game animals are numerous among the foothills. The uplands are heavily wooded in most parts. They consist of precipitous peaks with dark green ravines in which silver streams descend in numerous waterfalls, all uniting to form scenes of unrivalled beauty. Malabar is the most beautiful, the richest and most fertile district of Madras Presidency.

"One hundred and fifty miles off the mainland, but included in the Malabar political district are the 'hundred thousand islands,' the Laccadives.

"Malabar has never known famine, and floods are rare. Trade once distinguished the region and was carried on with the Phoenicians, with the Jews under Solomon, the Seleucid Syrians, the Ptolemaic Egyptians, the traders of imperial Rome, the Arabs, and the Italians whose argosies representing Venice, Florence and Genoa once anchored within the shifting mudbanks which provided calm roadsteads at Calicut, Quilandi and Cochin. Later came the Portuguese, the Dutch and the French. Then the English, who secured a monopoly of the trade in spices and sandalwood for which the coast was famed. The Maratha pirates who infested the coast were vanquished by the English a score of years before the Declaration of Independence turned their attention from the Eastern to the Western world."

TRIUMPH

When all is said and done
And the battles lost or won
It's the laughter of the children
And the mother's gentle smile,
It's the pride of those you know,
Good old friends who love you so,
That make the prize worth having
And the victory worth while.

Back of every golden dream,
Every engine hissing steam,
Back of every hammer falling
And of every deed men dare,
Back of every lilt and fight
Is the coming home at night
To the loved ones who are waiting
In the victory to share.

'Tis not in success alone
That achievement's worth is known
If we had no friends to cheer us
And no one at home to care;
If man's glory as a fighter
Did not make a few eyes brighter
He would cease to try for conquest
And would never do or dare.

Back of every man you'll find
Loving hearts who stay behind,
Watching, waiting, patient, loyal
As he strives to meet the test,
And the thought which drives him daily
Is that they shall meet him gayly,
And shall glory in his triumph

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

Of the eight men who entered McKinley's cabinet at the beginning of his first administration, only three remain. They are Secretary of the Treasury Gage, Secretary of the Navy Long and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

Ernest Fenollosa, noted art critic, will address the members of the Ebell club in a series of lectures next month, it is announced.

Miss Annie Russell and Mrs. Gilbert, the well-known actresses, were introduced to San Francisco and Oakland society at a reception early this week.

The flags on state buildings have been ordered at half staff for 30 days by Governor Gage as a mark of grief over McKinley's death.

about YOUR HEALTH

What An Ulcerated Tooth Needs As First-Aid Relief

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D. Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Did you ever have an ulcerated tooth?

If you did, you know the agony it caused. But do you know how it "happened" and what to do if another abscess forms?

After the neglect of proper cleansing of the teeth, the acid-forming germs of the mouth attack the sugar and starches clinging to the teeth. The acid thus generated cuts the enamel. When this is once perforated, the softer interior structures of the tooth are speedily destroyed. Pretty soon the pulpy center of the tooth becomes a decaying mass. Next, the infection passes through the root-canal into the jaw bone. Now we have an abscess, commonly called an "ulceration."

This is the history of an ulcerated tooth. Mastoid disease does not come suddenly and primarily to plague the victim. It can be traced back to a simple cold in the nose. The condition caused by the cold rapidly grew worse, and gradually spread up the canal to the middle ear. Pus formed here, and after a while the pus germs reached the mastoid and resulted in an abscess.

In just the same way the remote bony tissues around the root of the tooth are reached by the tireless and relentless pus germs. An ulcerated tooth is not a primary trouble, remember. Like the mastoid attack, it goes away back to a simple and apparently harmless first cause.

Sometimes these root abscesses remain as blind pockets of pus. Beyond the discomfort suffered by the patient they cause no symptoms. Except by the aid of the X-ray they give no visible evidence of their existence.

In other cases there appears a swelling at the root of the affected tooth, and an enormous swelling of the cheek and face. The eye may be closed, and, all in all, the patient may, "look a sight."

As in every other abscess, the object of the treatment is to drain off the pus. To have this done you must, of course, visit your dentist.

Somehow or other, toothache and ulceration seem never to appear when the dental office is open. Something must be done till the dentist can be reached.

Hot fomentations should never be applied to the outside of the face. The danger is that the tissues may be softened and the pus "drawn" to the skin surface. This is unfortunate, because it results in an unsightly, depressed scar. Hot water may be held in the mouth, or rolls of gauze may be dipped in hot water and placed against the tooth, inside the cheek.

"Counter irritation" sometimes helps. That is, a mildly irritating drug directly applied, may draw the blood to the surface, and thus relieve the pressure. Here is a mixture—which you can have your druggist prepare—commonly used for the purpose:

Tincture of iodine and of capsicum, of each 3 drachms. Tincture of aconite, 2 drachms.

Let it be remembered that this mixture is poisonous in large quantities, and must be used sparingly.

Now to apply it. Roll cotton about a match or toothpick, and dip it in the liquid. Then rub the medicine into the tissues at the root of the trouble, both directly on the gum about the tooth, and on the outside of your cheek, close to the roots of the troublesome tooth.

Should you be successful in relieving the pain and reducing the swelling, do not flatter yourself the trouble is at an end.

The cause is till there. You must have the care of the dentist. Otherwise you will never be free from the dangers of pus absorption with all its evil effects upon your general health.

"LIVE-WIRE PASTOR" WANTED.

The Franklin Street Congregational Church at Manchester, N. H., had advertised in Boston newspapers for a pastor, specifying that he must "have been successful as preacher, pastor, organizer and church executive."

Colonel Arthur E. Clark, one of the leading members of the church, told an inquirer that "the church wants an up-to-date, live-wire pastor; we had a man landed in July, but Kansas City beat our $5000 and a house thrown in by adding an automobile and a secretary." Colonel Clark says he has "chased over thirty candidates from Boston and Newark as far as Chicago."

The names of the great city on the shore of Michigan recalls, by some abstruse mental reference, the remark of the late Colonel Higginbotham of Chicago (if memory serves rightly) to a distinguished French visitor at the time of Chicago's World's Fair. "I can tell you this, sir," said he, "if Chicago should ever take up culture she'll make it hum."—New York Sun.

DRIVER BOUND TO TREE; CAR, CASH TAKEN

Taxi Man Is Forced to Take Two "Fares" to Berkeley Hills, Where He Was Tied and Robbed, He Alleges

Lashed to a tree for two hours, after he had been robbed of all his money, Walter Gray, driver for a local taxi company, living at 1002 Twenty-fourth street, succeeded in freeing himself late last night to find his taxi gone and no trace of two men who had hired him to take them to an address on San Pablo avenue, according to a police report.

Over the phone to Henry Vennallack, another chauffeur, who was on duty at the offices of the taxi company when Gray called to inform his employers what had happened, Gray said he was approached by two men, both of whom were about 30 years old and well dressed, who requested him to drive them to an address on San Pablo avenue. At San Pablo and University avenues Gray felt a revolver prodding him in the back. He was ordered to keep quiet and to drive to Vallejo. He replied that he did not know the way to Vallejo. He was then ordered to stop his car and climb into the back seat. One of the men got out and took the wheel, driving over an old road that led into the Berkeley foothills. About a mile from the main highway the car was stopped, Gray was ordered to get out, after which his hands were bound by straps taken from the car and he was tied to a tree. The men then ransacked his pockets, taking several dollars in silver and his watch.

"I don't know how long you will be here," said one of the men, "so I guess we had better fix you so you won't freeze to death."

The man then took a laprobe and threw it over Gray. They told their victim he would find his car at the foot of the hill. Two hours later, Gray says, he managed to unbuckle the straps. He did not find his car at the bottom of the hill. He walked to the edge of town and telephoned his office.

Other artists tonight will include Lowell Redfield, Berkeley baritone, who will sing with the chorus in the closing number, while Antonio de Grassi, violinist; Arthur Weiss, cellist, with Cadman at the piano, will form a trio which will render one selection.

Three concert grand pianos will be used on the stage of the Greek theater for the festival. A special program on the Campanile chimes will be given each night of the festival by Henry Safford King, university chimes master.

ALAMEDA PAY CUT AROUSES CIVIC STAFF

Police and Firemen Preparing Protest Against Reduction: Other Departments Follow; Threaten to Quit

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15.—The first steps in protest against the ten per cent reduction of salaries in the Alameda municipal offices is being taken by the members of the police and fire departments. A petition of protest against the cut which is to take place on January 1 is being prepared for circulation among the citizens for their endorsement.

The bitterest expressions of feeling against the council for its action is heard in all departments of the city government and several other departments are said to be preparing to follow the lead of the police and fire department. The protest of the two latter departments is accompanied by charts showing the salaries received by the other departments of the bay district cities.

Many of the employees are preparing to quit the city service at the first opportunity or at the time that the cut goes into effect. A great number of these dissatisfied ones are among the most experienced workers that the city has and many have spent from 8 to 10 years in the city service.

PRICE REDUCTION DENIED.

The reason for the sweeping reduction given by the council was that the figures from the United States department of labor show a decided reduction in the cost of living, charts showing these reductions have been prepared by City Manager Clifton Hickok at the direction of the council. The employees reply that while there has been alowering of costs in building material and luxuries there has been no material reduction in the costs of foodstuffs and clothing.

The first wage reductions are to take place on January 1, the cut to be of 5 per cent. On June 30 the second cut is to go into effect. It will also be of 5 per cent.

The police and fire department employees have secured the salary figures from the departments of the surrounding bay cities and armed with these are preparing to start after signatures.

SALARIES COMPARED.

The charts which they have prepared are as follows:

Fraternity Houses Would Pool Buying

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—The managers of more than thirty fraternity houses have decided to pool their purchases of food and supplies for their chapter houses.

At a meeting held last night figures were presented to show that on purchases of butter and eggs alone $2.50 can be saved on the monthly board bill of each student.

LODGE STAG PARTY.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15. — Derby lodge, Alameda Sons of St. George, will hold a stag this evening at Odd Fellows' hall. The social committee of the lodge has been working under the direction of E. Broadbent to make this evening the biggest success of the present term of officers.

Crashes and Booze Keep Doctors Busy

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Automobile accidents form the bulk of cases at the Berkeley emergency hospital, according to C. R. Corbusier, head of the hospital, speaking at yesterday's meeting of the Berkeley Rotary club. Herbert Jones presided at the meeting. Corbusier explained that in this city the greater part of trouble comes from automobile accidents, nearly all of which occur Saturday night and Sunday, running through until about 2 o'clock Monday morning.

"That isn't the worst of it," the speaker explained, "because the majority of patients coming in under those circumstances are suffering too much stimulant in one form or another."

Corbusier said that many accidents to children require attention. Eating ant paste appears to be a favorite amusement with youngsters, and ragged tools and glass inflict many injuries, matches and fire coming next. He found that very few accidents come from the public schools and playgrounds.

Dr. C. H. Denman gave a clever talk on behalf of the beaters' committee.

The address of the day was by Dr. William B. Herms, professor of parasitology and head of the division of entomology and parasitology, University of California, consulting entomologist for the California state board of health and member of the national malaria committee.

Mr. Herms quoted statistics to show that money invested in pest control is well invested. In California alone the saving of crops will amount to millions of dollars. The exact amount is difficult to estimate, he said, but the farmers and other industrial elements of the state recognize the great value of pest control and give enthusiastic support to the activities of the scientists who are working to suppress destructive parasites.

POLITICS RATED BANE OF POLICE

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Elimination of politics is necessary to the progress of police departments, says August Vollmer, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, in outlining a campaign.

Police corruption and "dead stock," which is carried in many departments, he declared, is largely due to political influences.

Reform of criminal procedure, uniform laws in all states, and speeding up of justice is suggested by Vollmer. Police executives will be asked to adopt resolutions requesting some effort toward a speedier disposition of criminal cases at the next annual convention of police chiefs in San Francisco.

Naval Lieutenant Is Buried by Elks

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Funeral services for Lieutenant Alexander Kozlowski, United States navy, who died in San Francisco Saturday of acute indigestion, were held in Berkeley this afternoon under the auspices of the Berkeley Lodge of Elks. A naval escort of 150 men from the training station at Goat island took the body to Sunset View cemetery for interment. Fellow officers acted as pallbearers.

Lieutenant Kozlowski was attached to the supply department of the war he served on the transport Goat Island for one year. During the war he serven on the transport Camden in the transatlantic service of transferring troops to Europe. He was one of the most popular officers in local naval circles and his sudden death has caused profound regret. A wife and two children, living at 2224 Sacramento street, Berkeley, survive him.

POWER ISSUE IS FORESEEN IN POLITICS

Municipal Acquirement of Sites in Sierras Expected to Play Part in the Campaign by City Attorney Locke

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15. The next gubernatorial campaign issue will be based upon the hydro-electric power question, according to City Attorney William J. Locke, who returned from southern California this morning. Locke has been in the south conferring with the officers of the League of California Municipalities over the coming convention in Santa Monica from September 27 to September 30.

The hydro-electric question and the possibilities of its municipal control in California, according to Locke, will be the main issue to be discussed. Under a new federal law municipalities may take over sites and develop hydro-electric power sites in the mountains. According to Locke, there has been considerable propaganda circulated by the big power companies against this move on the part of the California cities. Los Angeles especially has been charged with attempting to seize all the choice water power sites along the Sierra Nevada mountains. Locke strongly denied that such is the real situation. He said that it is only a move made by the power companies to create feeling against the operation of the federal law.

"This question has been cause for comment in California," says Locke. "I am positive that the next governor of California will be elected purely upon his stand in regard to the hydro-electric situation."

BERKELEY HILLS ARE NO MORE A BATTLE GROUND

BERKELEY, Sept. 15. — No disarmament conference, but a constructive building program in Berkeley has put an end to the warlike activities of the regiment of University of California R. O. T. C. cadets. Each semester several half-day hikes have been held, in order to acquaint the soldier students with battle tactics.

The site of these sham battles has always been the hills of North Berkeley, and Cragmont, but the rapid populating of those sections has made it impossible for the students to again wage the annual "battle of Albany." Announcement was made today that no more sham battles could be held in the Berkeley hills, and in the place of these drills, a number of one hour regimental drills will be held on the college parade grounds.

Hebrew Center to Celebrate Holidays

BERKELEY, Sept. 15. — The Berkeley Hebrew Center will hold services for the coming high holidays, Rosh Hoshana and Yom Kippur, beginning October 1, at Native Sons' hall. Rabbi Martin S. Meyer of San Francisco will deliver the sermon at 10 a. m. Lucius L. Solomon of San Francisco will address the congregation on Yom Kippur. All students are invited.

Salesman Hit By Train May Not Recover

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15.—Small hope is held out for the recovery of Herbert Stanley, traveling salesman of the Hotel Broughton, 57 Turk street, San Francisco, who was struck by a Southern Pacific train near North Park station last night. He is at the Alameda sanitorium with a badly fractured skull.

According to the report made to the police last night by Engineer W. E. Lewis and Conductor H. E. Allen, in charge of the train, the seven-thirty west on the Encinal avenue line and Stanley was coming down the tracks walking east on Railroad avenue. The tracks make a fairly sharp turn at the point where the accident occured and it is thought that Stanley failed to hear the approaching train until too late.

Stanley was taken immediately to the sanitorium in the police ambulance, and was unconscious upon arrival. His wife, who lives at the Broughton, was immediately notified. Owing to the seriousness of his injury but small hope is held out for his recovery.

DAUGHTER LOST, EX-OFFICER SAYS

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Disappearing from her home after attending the funeral of a friend last Monday, Avis Bohrer, 17 years old, of 2226 Fulton street, has dropped from sight, according to a report made to the police by her father, Ira Bohrer, former captain of police in the Berkeley department.

That the girl has eloped is the theory of the parents. She was last seen seated in the side car of a motorcycle with a young man friend. Who the man is, the parents do not know. The girl has once before dropped from sight, according to the police records. She is five feet four inches tall, weighing 104 pounds, dark brown hair brown eyes, medium dark complexion. She wore a sport coat, straw sport hat, plaid dress and brown shoes and brown stockings. She has been employed at a local fitting works.

Finance Plans Made For Campus Stadium

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Financial plans for the construction of a memorial stadium on the Berkeley campus will be laid before the Associated Students of the university at a meeting to be held in Harmon gymnasium Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The stadium site also will be discussed. The speakers will be President David P. Barrows, Dean Frank H. Probert and Sumner N. Muring of the class of 1920.

The Memorial Stadium executive committee, which has had under discussion for the last five months stadium plans, is made up of Dean Frank H. Probert, chairman; University Comptroller R. G. Sproul, Graduate Manager L. A. Nichols, Chaffee Hall, representing the alumni, M. C. Lynch, faculty representative, and F. W. Tenney, president of the Associated Students.

WOMEN'S NET PLAY STARTS ON SEPT. 25

Entries Pouring In for Inter-Club Championship of Central California; Tourney to Be Best in League's History

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15.—The Women's Inter-Club tennis tournament for the women's tennis club championship of Central California will start Sunday, September 25, according to an announcement made by Miss Anna Myers, chairman of the tournament committee. The tournament this year promises to be the largest the league has held since its organization several years ago. Entries already have been received from nearly all of the leading tennis clubs of the central portion of the state. Entries must be filed by September 19 with Miss Myers at the marine department, Standard Oil company, San Francisco, or at her home, 1825 Prince street, Berkeley.

The Women's Inter-Club series is held under the auspices of the California Lawn Tennis association and each meet consists of five matches of four singles and one doubles. Each win will consist of the two out of three sets and at the end of the tournament the club having the highest percentage becomes the possessor of the championship cup. Each win will count one point.

The schedule of play is so arranged that each club meets every other club once. The most northerly entry at present is Sacramento and the southerly one is San Jose. Strong teams from the Berkeley Tennis club, Oakland, the University of California, Golden Gate Park club, California Tennis club and the Women's Athletic club have already entered. It is expected that Alameda and other about the bay clubs will bring the entries up to a dozen clubs by the time the entries close next Monday.

FLYERS' CLUB ASKS BAN ON STUNTS

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Rigid enforcement of the state aviation law has been petitioned for by the Allied Fliers' club of Berkeley in communications to chiefs of police in California.

"Stunt fliers" are condemned by the club. Proper license of all aviators, and meeting of all requirements in planes and operators as prescribed by the state law is urged.

"By this method it will be easier to keep track of violators and bring them before the courts," the communication recites. "The future of this mode of travel is held in the hands of the officers of this state. It will be found there are some pilots who have little regard for the lives of others or their own. This man is the one we desire to eliminate."

The Great Moment More Startling Than Three Weeks

GLORIA SWANSON wears most wonderful gowns ever seen in a picture.

Many startling love stories have come from the pen of Elinor Glyn, famous author of "Three Weeks," but none more so than "The Great Moment," written especially by her for Gloria Swanson, now appearing at the New Franklin.

In this story Miss Swanson is cast as the half-Gypsy daughter of an English lord, and is reared in strict seclusion as her father fears that the mother's wild Gypsy blood will assert itself over her English culture.

On a trip to America the girl falls in love with a young mining engineer, is bitten by a rattlesnake while out in the mountains, and is taken by her lover to his mountain cabin. Filled with whisky as an antidote, she throws off the restraints of her English blood, and, like her mother before her, goes to the man she loves, creating one of the most highly dramatic and emotional situations ever filmed.—Advertisement.

In 1776 the British entered New York City under General Howe. Nowadays under the auspices of various Lyceum bureaus the British authors are entering New York to capture the American dollars. Luther Bradish lawyer, and prominent New Yorker who supplied the rhyme to radish, was born in 1783. Along in 1795 there was born Zachariah Allen, inventor of the automatic cut-off valve, and then we skip way up to 1856 when Kirk Monroe, author, and founder of the League of American Wheelmen, was born.

The cork crop of Portugal, Northern Africa and Spain is reported good. It has been an ambition with us since childhood to pick corks in Spain and when we charter one of the government wooden ships we'll head her that direction. We would learn for instance what means the cork grower takes to force his fruit to grow in the various sizes or if it is true that corks grow to fit bottles or bottles are made to fit corks. Again we would like to find out if the growing cork sprouts from a cob like corn, if it pops in the sun as it does in the cafe, and something of the reputed beauties of the blossom. We would see the little Spanish children out in the waving fields picking corks for the druggists, the bartenders, and home-brewers of the world, but before we leave the subject that has so much of attraction for us, we will confess that when we were young and knew no better we thought that Corks came from Ireland.

It may be added, parenthetically, that when we pick corks in Spain we intend to use a corkscrew.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

By Howard R. Garis

"It's Jackie Bow Wow," answered Lulu

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SAND PILE.

The weather was still very hot, though the animal children had to go to school, for the summer vacation was over. Uncle Wiggily, who sat on the porch of his hollow stump bungalow watching Sammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbits; Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, and Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblewobble, the ducks, coming slowly from the hollow stump, where the lady mouse teacher had heard their lessons, felt sorry for the animal boys and girls.

"I think I'll make a sort of bathing beach for them in our backyard," he told Nurse Jane.

"How can you do that?" asked the muskrat lady nurse.

"Well, I'll dig a hole and fill it with water from the hose," Uncle Wiggily answered. "You can sprinkle in some salt and it will be almost like the ocean."

"How about waves?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"I'll get Toodle and Noodle Flat Tail, the beavers, to splash around in the water and that will cause waves," the bunny said. "Then all that will be needed is sand. I'll get a pile of that and we'll have a make-believe seashore beach for the children these hot days."

"You are very kind," spoke Nurse Jane, and when Uncle Wiggily had dug a wide, but not very deep, hole and had filled it with water from the garden hose, the muskrat lady housekeeper sprinkled in some salt, to make it seem more like the briny, salty ocean.

Then Uncle Wiggily, with the help of his friends, the Sand Martin birds, piled a big heap of sand and gravel near the make-believe ocean, and everything was all ready for the animal children.

Slowly they came from school, hot and tired out. They wished it was vacation again.

"Oh, dear!" barked Jackie Bow Wow, "I wish we could have some fun!"

"Come in here!" invited Uncle Wiggily, and when the animal children saw what he had made for them they gave whoops, barks, cackles, chatters and yells of delight. In a little while they had hurried to their homes, put on their bathing suits and were splashing in the water.

Toodle and Noodle, the beaver boys, moved their broad, flat tails in the pond and sent the water in little waves from shore to shore, so it looked more than ever like the real ocean—only not so large, of course.

But still it was very hot. So hot that even the duck children—Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblewobble—had to open and shut their yellow bills quickly and swallow all the air possible to cool their tongues. That is the way ducks and some birds and chickens cool themselves on a very hot day. You boys and girls fan yourselves or drink ice water, which last is not very wise if you take too much. A doggie boy or girl opens his or her mouth and by hanging out the tongue cools off. And as ducks can't let their tongues hang out of their mouths they open their bills wide and breathe as much air as they can in that way to cool off.

The animal children were doing their best to keep cool, and they were having a lot of fun when, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard some quacking cries, and Lulu Wibblewobble exclaimed:

"Here! You stop! Make him stop!"

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny gentleman, hurrying down to the make-believe ocean he had made.

"It's Jackie Bow Wow," answered Lulu. "Every time I open my bill to cool my tongue, he scatters sand in my mouth!"

"Why do you do that, Jackie?" asked the bunny.

"Oh, I—I just sort of can't help it!" barked the doggie boy. "She looks so funny, with her bill going open and shut like a pair of scissors, that I just feel like throwing sand in her mouth!"

"Well, suppose I throw some sand on you?" suddenly asked Uncle Wiggily. "Here! How do you like this?" And before Jackie could stop him, the bunny gentleman dropped some sand down inside the puppy dog's bathing suit.

"Oh, it scratches! It tickles me! Ouch!" cried Jackie. "Oh, dear!"

"Well, you see it isn't so much fun as you thought, is it?" asked the bunny. And Jackie said it wasn't, and he promised not to plague Lulu any more. Then the fun went on, the animal boys and girls splashing in and out of the water, while the beaver boys made waves.

All of a sudden along came the Fuzzy Fox, looking for ears to nibble. But Jackie and Tectie Bow Wow scratched sand in his face and made the Fox run away howling, so he nibbled no one, and Uncle Wiggily said that was the best thing which could have happened.

So, after all, though there was a little trouble, the bunny's sand pile and make-believe ocean were just delightful for the animal boys and girls that hot day. And if the thimble doesn't tickle the needle in the eye and make the cabbage stand on its head under the table, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the candy flowers.

Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

Listen, World

The Wonderful Woman met the Ordinary Person the other day. The Wonderful Woman has just issued her first book. It has ten poems—ten breathless, blazing, beeyoutiful poems, mostly about hearts squirming around in the moonlight or manly spirits in the grip of various kinds of spiritual cramps. You can't understand a good deal of it, and the part you can understand makes you wish you couldn't but, nevertheless, it's supposed to be a great work of art. It's bound in Persian silk and the decorations were by the most expensive Paint Spreader procurable. So naturally the Wonderful Woman has taken to clinging draperies and a new pale green make-up, and is only to be seen in rooms scented with a certain kind of Chink incense.

She would never have met the Ordinary Person at all had not the Ordinary Person been her washerwoman. The Ordinary Person has just had her fifth baby—five brawling, babbling, buxum babies, each one full of an infinite number of possibilities that may cause the whole world to sit up and take notice. As the Ordinary Person is poor, her creations are not bound in Persian silk. They're just covered, somehow, with patched cotton, yellow soap, backyard scenery sunshine and bread'n' jam. Naturally the Ordinary Person's efforts are not getting much appreciation from the world in general. Common things, babies! Anyone can have a baby. But a Book—that's different!

So when the Wonderful Woman met the Ordinary Person she sniffed and inquired in a mournful, pale mauve voice why the washing wasn't home yet. Quite right! Quite right! Only I wonder what would happen if they ever turned an inspector of Weights and Measures loose among our souls!

Jerry had to clamp the lid down tight on the Battle Between the States, but in spite of all the clamping rumors of warfare will still seep through. The following one is such a direct arraignment of Oakland that I'm going to print and answer it.

Dear Jerry: I wrote you some time ago and signed my letter Mrs. M. W. My letter was about people in general and California people in particular. Of course you took sides for California which is no more than I expected. Some of the people here, though, who praised California the MOST, will say in the same breath, "I have never been out of the State," etc. This being the case you see how fit they are to judge people as a whole all over the union.

Jerry, I am from Texas. Practically everybody admits that Southern people are the most hospitable people on earth. I am not referring especially to Native Sons and Daughters, I am talking about people that are HERE. I do not know or care where they come from, but 90 per cent of them don't act like civilized humans. They do very well after you are well acquainted with them, at least some of them do, but Jerry, they are very selfish and unless you happen to be their friends and they care for you, they wouldn't turn their hands to help you in any way.

This fact was sure demonstrated a couple of weeks ago when one of those San Jose-Oakland stages ran into the posts on East Fourteenth street, Oakland. I was an eye witness and the following are facts, not "hearsay." People passing in cars utterly refused to stop and render assistance to the wounded and dying. There were three or four very badly hurt and people refused to stop their cars and rush them to the hospital. Finally an officer came and forced some to stop and render assistance.

People couldn't be bothered about such a trivial thing as a big stage full of injured and bleeding people pitched out on the street and sidewalk. NOW YOU, FOR ONE, OUGHT TO BE PROUD OF OAKLAND. As I stated above, I do not know or care where these people came from, but they are HERE and they should have been arrested and locked up for refusing to stop and render aid to dying and injured human beings.

You may say things like this may happen everywhere, it MIGHT but I NEVER HEARD OF ANY SUCH OCCURRENCE TAKING PLACE IN THE SOUTH and I do not believe there is a solitary street in the entire south where such a thing ever has or ever will take place. My mother visited me last winter, from Texas, and I bragged about California to her (never mentioning the people) and after she had been here only a short time, she said, "The State is beautiful, the climate is wonderful, flowers and scenery grand, but MY HEAVENS, THE PEOPLE." I can pick the southern people. Every time I meet a real nice person (much to my husband's disgust, for he is a Californian) I say, "I'll bet she is from the south," and I guess it about 99 times out of 100.

I will never be able to shut the view of those passing indifferent people out of my sight while more than 20 people lay there on the street, helpless and injured, and nobody rendering any assistance.

MRS. M. W.

No, Pal, you mistake me. I didn't take the side of California. I simply took the side of Tolerance. Anyone who has traveled widely comes to realize that humans are humans wherever you find them. Their surface characteristics may differ slightly—but their underlying reactions are essentially the same. I agree heartily with you that the people of the south are most charming to meet and extremely hospitable. The social atmosphere of the south is an inheritance of the slave owning days, when labor was literally cheaper than dirt, and it was possible for kind hearted, cultured people to give full vent to their desire to please. On the other hand, the manners of the typical westerner are apt to be free and easy, even rough. His manners are inherited from very recent frontier days when culture counted not at all, but a man's fundamental grit and worth was the whole thing.

My contention is that it is not fair to judge a mass of people by surface characteristics nor by any one incident. The incident you refer to happened when a small car turned around in the middle of the highway and the stage in turning out to avoid striking the smaller machine, crashed into the posts. Whether people refused to render aid, nobody seem to know.

The South is surely noted for its shooting and tarring and feathering and mutilating. And didn't they recently take a woman from her home and tar and feather her? They don't wait to find out if a man is guilty. He is arrested on suspicion and is burned to the stake—on suspicion. These things happen in the South, yet you would consider me grossly unfair if I judged all southerners by such beastly acts of mobs or individuals. And I would be unfair. But do you not see that you also are unfair to judge without trying to analyze or generalize?

I did not see the accident to which you refer. I have, however, seen many accidents in California, and have seen countless acts of tenderness from stranger to stranger. If they did not do so in this case it was most lamentable and I hope that some of those passers-by see your letter and are properly ashamed of themselves.

Remember also another thing when Californians puzzle you. The South is a settled community for the most part. The steady inhabitants with known histories and ready credentials far outnumber the transients. California is quite a different place. It is largely inhabited by transients and is still very near the period when only a fool trusted a transient or gave him too warm a welcome until he had proved himself. California was the camping ground for many a fine man—but also for untold multitudes of scamps. And the natives learned to walk with a wary eye.

Try to remember how social habits START before you criticize them, Pal. And remember that there's one place where you can truly be at home, and one somebody who warmly welcomes you—and that somebody is Jerry.

Coming Consolation

When we're melting down in Billville 'twill be cheerful to the soul
To know that folks are freezin' where the Arctic billows roll;
That the dim sun will be glancing over glaciers ghostly white.
Where the Polar bear is prancing o'er the snow fields, with delight!

Then we'll bear the heat and burden of the sizzling-whizzing day,
In the thought that folks are freezing on the ice-fields far away!
For even if the summer sends the sunshine through your soul,
There'll be still this consolation: We'll be 'way ahead on coal!

Smiles

Ethel—Has that handsome lifeguard taught you how to swim yet? Clara—Yes, but he doesn't know it.

Flora—Time seems to hang heavily on Dorothy's hands. She never knows just what to do with herself. Dora—That's the worst of having naturally curly hair.

Officer (examining passports)—Where are your proofs that she's your wife? Henpeck—I haven't any; but if you can prove she's not my wife you're a made man.

"I hear that Crimson Gulch's big gaming resort has been closed." "Yes," replied Three-Fingered Sam. "The police got busy at last!" "Twerent the police. Cactus Joe had a winnin' streak."

Lucrezia Bori on Beauty

MASSAGE.

LUCREZIA BORI

When massage is given in the correct way you will find that it is a wonderful aid to beauty. It will tone up your relaxed muscles as well as restore the plumpness that you may regret losing. If you practice it when wrinkles first appear you will discover that you can prevent their insidious development as well as banish those which already distress you.

Of course, if you intend to give your face a course of this treatment you must remember that the skin of your face is very fine, and it will not stand rough treatment. All lines and wrinkles should be gently and delicately patted and smoothed with your finger-tips.

Before attempting to massage your face you should dip your finger-tips in salt and water. Then as you manipulate the delicate muscles of your face you should repeat this process frequently, as the salt is an admirable stimulant for your tired muscles.

If you do not wish to use salt and water you will find warm olive oil is an excellent substitute. Should you prefer it, you will get equally satisfactory results with oil of sweet almonds. When using the latter you should, however, heat your face first with warm cloths before you begin to massage it.

There are various procedures in massage, and although they are not all employed on the face, still it is well to know something about them, for often massage is beneficial to other parts of the body.

The gentle stroking or grazing movement is one which is most frequently applied to the face. When adopting this method you should pass the cushions of your fingers over the muscles which underlie the skin of your face in a series of circular movements. Let your fingers do this work while you hold your thumb firmly in one place.

The patting movement is one that is specially adapted to the face. This must be done by moving your four fingers over your skin as a pianist would move her fingers over the keys of her piano. During this process you should keep your thumb at rest. This type of massage is particularly good for stimulating your circulation, and may be used on any part of your body. If you are striving to reduce superfluous fat you will find that this method is particularly adapted for kneading purposes.

To do this properly you should pick up your skin between your thumb and the other fingers of your hand and follow the direction of your muscles. If you prefer it, you may leave your four fingers at rest and use your thumb to go deeply into your skin.

Pinching is sometimes restorted to, especially for aiding in the reduction of adipose tissue. You should pick up a fold of your skin very firmly with your thumb and two fingers. Then let it go suddenly, just as though you were releasing an arrow from its bow.

If you are attempting to stop some local congestion by massage you should beat your skin with your four fingers together while you keep your thumb at rest.

After you have finished your massage you should wipe your face thoroughly, so that every trace of the oil or other emollient which you use is removed. Then, if your skin is pale and dry, you should give it a good application of a tonic lotion.

Household Hints

ATTRACTIVE LIVING ROOM.

In company with the one-time guest room, the formal parlor has been banished to the land of unnecessary things and has no place on the blue prints of the modern home builder. Building materials are high, room and help scarce so we cannot honestly pretend to grieve over the loss of either room. The former meant a lot of extra work with only a modicum of occasional pleasure. The latter was an uncomfortable possession, too nice for daily and continuous use, and not nice for special use as we often wished.

The telephone has in many cases superceded the old custom of calling. Other parlors take care of funeral and weddings in most instances, so the home parlor has served its day.

In place of the parlor enters the delightful living room or dining and living room combined. This is but a return to former things for in olden times this was quite the order of building, necessities being of first importance. If a parlor was added to the home it was rarely used except on great occasions, so why have one at all?

One delightful combination in a new home, recently finished, is unusual enough to be most interesting, and may furnish ideas adaptable for other home builders.

The front door opens it to a very shallow hall. At each end are settees, under which are closets. One is used for rubbers and the other for umbrellas. Against the wall are clothes closets with hat shelves.

The doors into the main room are sliding doors, running back of the closets, leaded in soft, sunny, yellow cathedral glass. The room runs entirely across the front of the house. Opposite the doors is a wonderful old fireplace, deep enough for large logs. There are wide settles on either side. To the right is an old-fashioned wood closet with a goodly closet above it. To the left is an odd semi-circular bookcase running to the ceiling just in reach of those sitting on the settle.

Peeping around the corner of the shelves into the dining room we find a deep and delightful china closet with linen drawers. There is a service window, with a drop shelf beneath it, opening into the pantry. In the pantry the refrigerator and sink are placed. At each side of the room are deep semi-circular bay windows. The east one contains a highboy and a lowboy, a settee for two in the center, and three chairs disposed about a commodious drop-leaf table. Silken curtains conceal this spot when desired. The opposite bay has a low settee running around it with book-shelves above, the top forming a shelf under the yellow leaded glass windows. In the center there is a round table with a lamp and four chairs that fit under it when in use.

The windows on either side of the front door have window-boxes filled with vines. The porch does not shut out the sunshine, for it is narrow in the front. On the west it is wide enough to allow privacy for the outdoor dining room in summer.

A small back hall has a convenient lavatory, an entrance to the kitchen, and a wide door on to the side porch.

In the center of the big living room there is a long chemin table. The lights of the room are so arranged that several cozy spots are about the room where one may read or sew comfortably.

The attic is reached by a separate stairway of open ironwork leading from the so-called storeroom, a little room whose walls are a system of roomy closets.

The Reforming of Loraine.

By "CURLY LOCKS,"
10 Blue Sky Ave., Flower Land,
Gold Gate.

PART I

Once there lived a duchess, by the name of Duchess Sevigy. They were both of the same character, haughty, proud and overbearing. The Duchess' husband had died. She had a daughter born. Nobody could think of a name of Duchess Sevigy who had a duke suggested Loraine. The Duchess thought that a pretty name, so the baby was named that.

The Duchess had taken into her household an orphan prince who was young and liked Loraine.

Loraine grew up and got to become the nature of her mother. Nobody could hardly do anything with her. At 11 years she was frail and delicate.

One day the prince after visiting America, thought that some American toys would make Loraine stronger. So he bought them and brought them to Loraine. She was upstairs in her room. He knocked and a maid opened the door. Loraine was sitting in a chair looking out of the window.

"Why, old Prince," she said, when she spied the Prince. "Why what have you there——for—me?"

"Here are some American toys for you to play with. Here is a tricycle for you to ride and here is a bicycle, a jumping rope, and swing and—oh yes, here are some rings to exercise on. I will have them put up outside under a tree so the Duchess can't find them."

"Huh, I don't like those things," she said. But he persuaded her to try the tricycle. She did and she liked it. She rode it out of her room and went downstairs. In the hall, as she was passing the living room the Duchess came out.

"Merry," Loraine Sevigy. Go up and put that thing away."

"I won't! I won't!" Loraine screamed. The Duke quickly grabbed the tricycle away; but Loraine stood on guard.

"You're mean. You shan't take this way from me." The Duchess signaled for the Duke to come away. Loraine went upstairs to her room. The Prince was trying to fix something for her. "Goodness! I heard you met the Duchess," he exclaimed when he saw her. But Loraine said nothing. The Prince taught her how to jump rope, but she pulled down a vase and that ended the rope exercise.

"Well," the Prince began. "The rings have been put up. Come and I will show you how to play on those." So they stole out to the rings. A stool had been put at one end for her to reach them on. He taught her how to swing back and forth on them. She liked it, but as her hands were not accustomed to holding tight onto rings she couldn't hold on. The Prince tried all ways to get her to play on them.

"The children in America just swing themselves to the next ring. They could show you how to play on these," the Prince told her.

No matter how much she tried, she could get no fun out of them; so she walked away.

That evening, while the Duke and Duchess were down in the gardens, the Prince and Loraine were talking upstairs. Loraine was sitting by the window. Very soon she exclaimed, pointing down into the grounds, "Look, the Duke and Duchess!" The Prince looked. The Duke and Duchess were walking slowly toward the trees, where the rings and its structure had been put up.

Loraine and the Prince saw them at last spy the plaything. The Duchess threw up her hands, turned to the Duke, and they both went away.

"My! Few things they don't see," Loraine then said.

"Oh yes, now we'll get some scolding," the Prince added. "If you'd keep out in the air and play with those, you could—lift the cabinet," he laughed, as he pointed to a valuable old-fashioned cabinet, a family heirloom. Loraine thought he meant it.

"Oh, well, I can do that now." The Prince laughed. But Loraine walked over to the cabinet. It wasn't very big, though it was heavy. She tried to lift it.

"Oh, Miss Loraine, don't do that," the Prince exclaimed. But Loraine paid no attention to him. After much pulling the cabinet was raised three inches from the ground, but Loraine couldn't hold it steady. It wobbled then CRASH!

The door opened, the Duke and Duchess came in. When the Duchess saw the ruins of the ancient cabinet she turned away. The cabinet that had descended down from a king, that one man had been whipped almost to death for trifling with it, lay in pieces on the floor.

The Prince was awe-stricken. The Duke just gazed at it. After a few minutes everyone came to life. The Duchess feebly got up. "You naughty child, leave this house!"

"I won't! I won't!" Then Loraine burst into tears. "Ay" and I do don't li—ke you, an—d I—I'll leave this house, but you'll ne—ver see me again." The guards then came and caught her by each arm, while Loraine started up her pleadings, but they unheeded them. The Prince muttered to himself over and over again, "That duchess hasn't any heart.

PART II

Out a little ways from the city is a fair valley. A pretty river winds itself among the contented and flourishing farms. Rolling land is on one side of the river. The people are farmers, living happily. Into this land Loraine wandered. She walked up to the nearest farm, and for the first time in her life, begged for food. The people welcomed her. On a table they placed some bread, jelly and milk. Loraine sat down, but then looked at the people and said.

"Is this all you got?—and goodness, I won't eat out of a tin dish and that glass looks dirty. I don't like milk; give me some coffee."

The lady whispered to her husband and walked out of the room. Loraine sat and sat, until she got so hungry she ate everything on the table, but the dish and glass. The lady then gave Loraine her room. It was in the attic.

"I guess you think I'll sleep in this shabby room. Let me sleep with you," Loraine told the lady, who closed the door and went to her room. "I guess they think I'm going to bed."

Loraine opened the door. Everything was in darkness. She wanted to go downstairs. She kept on going through a hall, then her foot slipped, and she went tumbling downstairs head first. It hurt her very much. She thought it would surely wake the people up, but it didn't, so she was obliged to go to her room and go to sleep.

Five weeks had passed, and Loraine was a different girl. She knew how to milk a cow, though at first she was afraid of the cow; she could fish, but the first time she fell in the water; she could sew and mend her own things if she wanted to look neat. She went barefoot and waded in the river. She became a little shepherdess. The people she was staying with, Mr. and Mrs. Lobton, were very good to her.

About this time the Duchess began to think of Loraine. She was always making excuses to get her, until one day she sent some guards to look for her. The guards started out, and searched for weeks. One day they spied the pleasant valley.

"Perhaps she is in there," said one guard.

"Mistress Loraine in there? Oh, no," another answered. But they thought wise to look. Loraine was washing dishes in the river when she saw the guards.

"Mama's guards!" They came up to her, but so surprised that at first they could think of nothing to say.

"Miss Loraine, we—er— have come to take you back to the Duchess," one guard explained.

"Well, I won't go!"

"You must."

"Get away!" Loraine screamed. Mrs. Lobton came out. Loraine sought protection in her.

"Save me from them," Loraine begged.

"Honey," Mrs. Lobton then said, "I'd love to, but I didn't bring you here, and I don't know anything of your people."

"Oh, well, my mother is Duchess Sevigy; now save me."

"What?" Mrs. Lobton then grew restless. "Well—dear, I think you'd—better go," and she left Loraine. Loraine packed up as many things as she had, and left with the guards.

Loraine's farm life did her much good, and from that time on she was an entirely different girl. And the Prince then brought her to America to go to school.

The End.

Holding a Husband

by Adele Garrison

For a day or two I could do nothing but gaze dumbly at them, and let the torn pieces from heap to heap in a futile effort to determine what was missing. I had not yet begun sorting them when Lillian came into the room, breathlessly, as if she had been running.

"I knew you couldn't have begun disturbing them yet," she said. "And I wanted to be here when you did. I don't mind telling you that this room is not significant to me. The contents of the others, while dumped out here, have not been treated in this way."

She picked up a crumpled and torn piece of heavy letter paper as she spoke, and held it out to me with her eyes carefully averted from the writing upon it.

"Would you mind telling me from whom this letter is?" she said. "Also will me just what has been done to it."

It is one of Ducky's letters to me, torn in two." I said then I held it toward her impulsively.

"There is nothing here which you cannot see, Lillian," I said earnestly. "Think of the profane eyes that must have been reading them."

"Don't think of it," she returned bluntly. "It will do you no good. Just look at this."

She had smoothed out the crumpled piece of paper—a part of a letter from which the other part had been torn—and as she held it up I saw that it had been slashed or punched as with a knife or stiletto.

"May I ask you a great favor, Madge?" Lillian asked gravely.

"You know that," I returned.

"Then please do nothing with these things until it is warm, and I have time to help you. I want to go over them all, and I don't want any one of them straightened out until I can be with you to tabulate them. May I not lock the door and leave the room undisturbed? No one else can see it. If the house gets warm and is aired sufficiently by tonight we might sleep here—Marion could stay over at Mrs. Durkee's, and then you and I could sort these things at leisure."

I saw that there was something vital behind the curious request that she had made, and my confidence in her as well as my affection for her made me respond heartily:

"You know that I will do whatever you wish, dear girl."

"Thank you."

She put out her hand, drew me up from the floor, and moved with me toward the door. I locked it with much the feeling of covering a grave.

"Now," said Lillian briskly, and I knew that she meant to keep my mind away from that locked room, "let's see how Edith is getting along with that furnace!"

Edith was not getting along with the furnace drafts at all well. Our noses told us that as we descended the stairs to the main floor, through which came the acrid tang of smoke. Little smoke waves were eddying up through the registers in the floor and walls, and as we came to the basement door we heard Edith coughing and frantically rattling at some part of the furnace mechanism.

"Oh, the poor girl!" I exclaimed. "Let me hurry."

I dashed past Lillian and down the stairs to where Edith was helplessly searching for the right draft to turn. I saw in a second what the matter was. There was a certain draft in the pipe which she had turned in just the opposite direction to the one in which it was meant to go. Without stopping to speak, I reached over her shoulder and turned the draft correctly, opened the furnace door and saw that with the proper draft little tongues of flame were reaching toward the coal, and that the smoke was being drawn up the chimney. Then I put a hand on Edith's arm.

"Let's hurry out of this," I gasped. She held back gamely.

She came with me then unresistingly, and we were met at the top of the stairs with a most reviving rush of cold, fresh air. Lillian, with characteristic presence of mind, had wasted no time following me into the basement, but had flown through the rooms, opening all the windows and doors and creating a suction draft directly through the house. As we came out into the dining room she met us with glasses of water, which we gratefully took from her.

"Where did you get water in this time?" I asked in amazement when I could speak.

"From the faucets in the kitchen. You mean—"

"That whoever was here last night must have turned the water on. Jim was instructed to turn the water off the last thing before he and Katie went away on their vacation, and I am sure he did so, for he is most methodical and reliable."

By BOB SHAND

A return match that was better than the original engagement was the outstanding feature at the auditorium last night when Tommy Simpson staged his weekly hit-party before a select audience. The gents in the return bout, Battling Larson of San Leandro and Henry Borba of Crows Landing did all that was asked of them, and then some, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the customers were quite well satisfied to have the judiciary call it a fifty-fifty proposition. If there was an edge the Larson boy had it, as he stood up to the Crows Landing entry last night and did not back up to the ropes as he did the previous week. The Battler ripped in many a mean punch just when Mister Borba thought he was going to slow up the blonde and when the final echo of Mr. Louis Bernstein's made-over frying pan had died away the athletes were strong and unmarked. They never sent a better trained pair of welters to the post in this city.

That's twice in two weeks the Larson-Borba company has entertained the customers, but the same pair can come right back next Tuesday night and get another swell reception. There are no frills or fancy tricks to the boxing of the welters. They are in there for a purpose, said purpose presumably being to knock the other gent's block off and they try real hard to make good. But when Battling Larson can hold Borba to a pair of draws it is time to quit comparing the Crow's Landing fighter with Bat Ortega as the Battler was a year or so ago.

Floyd Johnson Wins From Sailor Hoag.

Once Floyd Johnson got his trunks to stay in place he fought a swell fight against Al Hoag and copped the decision. In the first round Johnson had the sailor bewildered and Al hung to the top rope with one hand while he made funny wig-wag motions with the other. There were those who thought he was signaling to Vallejo for help, while other opined he was attempting to hypnotize his little playmate. Jack Brereton, the boy manager in Hoag's corner, was just getting ready to cut the rope when Hoag pulled away. There have been a few cast-iron chins in the ring here lately, but the Hoag jaw compares favorably with any of them. Johnson won the last round all by himself, but Hoag was trying all the time. Next time Floyd starts he better bring his nurse or valet or something and stock up on safety pins. Better than that—he might get a pair of trunks that will stay put.

Frank Luscher Badly In Need of Training.

Frank Luscher was in terrible condition last night and had better get into shape before he starts again. Joe Ketchell, the East Oaklander forty times on the chin simply because Luscher could not get out of his own way. Frank fought back gamely but that didn't get him anything, as Ketchell romped off with the verdict.

Tommy O'Leary, the Sacramento entry, did well enough for three rounds against Jack Davis, but in the fourth Jack hung his famous cornucopia left hook on the O'Leary talking apparatus and down went Tommy. He was quite willing to call it a day right there, but he sat up without thinking, which is quite natural for a little four-rounder. When he got to his feet Davis sent a sundae right-hander at him and Tommy and the canvas got acquainted. The son of old man O'Leary was not out or anything like that but when he peeked cautiously to see what was going on and discovered that his head was still on his shoulders he uttered a silent prayer of thanks and rolled over on his back.

Marty Burman came near upsetting the dope when he hung one on Soldier Davis early in the first round. The soldier was groggy, but Marty didn't know how to apply the finisher. They hopped around the rest of the route and split the honors—if there were any honors the way they boxed.

San Francisco Officials Praise Oakland Shows.

Chief of Police Dan O'Brien of San Francisco and Police Commissioner Andy Mahoney attended the scraps and were loud in their praise of the way the boxing game is conducted on this side of the bay. The chief sat in at the ringside with Lieutenant Fred Schroeder while Mahoney sat in a box with Chief Jimmy Drew of Oakland.

"If we can handle them on the other side like you handle them here I will be tickled to death," said O'Brien to Chief Drew after the show. "The policing of the entertainment was the best I ever saw. I stood outside before the crowd got in and saw the thousands of fans stand orderly in line. When it was necessary for an officer to give an order he gave it in a tone of voice that brought immediate action and no resentment. Inside it was the same. The fans got their seats without any trouble and there was no rough language. I was surprised to see the class of women present. It seemed like a society gathering in the boxes. Tommy Simpson deserves a lot of credit for the way he is conducting the sport in Oakland."

Commissioner Mahoney was equally enthusiastic over what he saw and will introduce some innovations when the new Observatory club starts across the bay. The "clean-break" rule enforced here is favored by both O'Brien and Mahoney.

It is rumored that the old quartet will be in charge of the new fight club in San Francisco with Dolph Thomas and Frank Lanlor joining forces with Toby Irwin and Frank Schuler.

Tilden Puts W. Johnston Out Of Tournament

San Francisco Boy Is Eliminated in the National Tennis Play.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

Three Easterners, two Californians and two foreigners start today in the fifth round of the national singles championship in a series of matches that have become almost a formality attending the coronation of Tilden as king.

Gordon Lowe, the ruddy-faced Englishman, who is almost surprised himself to have gone so far in the tournament, will go against the 100-to-1 shot proposition today of trying to beat Tilden in the feature match of the day's card.

James O. Anderson, the tall Australian who became a dark horse yesterday by defeating Williams and causing the biggest upset of the tournament, is drawn against Francis T. Hunter, New York, and he looks to have a fine chance to get into the semi-finals.

The third battle of the day will remove another Californian from the tournament as Robert Kinsey and Willie Davis, both from San Francisco, will face each other.

Baseball Gossip

Dan Arlett started against the Seals yesterday and he was unable to hold the three-run lead which his teammates gave him in the first two frames. Krause relieved Arlett after the latter had pitched four and a fraction innings. Only two hits were made off Harry, and one of them was a single in the ninth inning by Bert Ellison, which won the game for the Seals.

Graham switched his batting order again and O'Doul, a pitcher, was moved to sixth place in the batting order.

The Angels allowed the Seals to gain a full game on them by letting the Vernon Tigers hand them a 1-to-0 whitewashing. Toney Kaeth held the Angels to five hits. Soria did the chucking for the Angels.

The Sacramento Coyotes are not there in the pinch. They dropped another to the Salt Lake Bees yesterday the score being 5 to 2. Paddy Siglin and Don Brown got three hits each, one of Brown's going for a homer.

The Indians won the first game from Portland 11 to 5, but the Beavers came back in the second game and played an eleven-inning 11-toll tie.

Daredevil Race Drivers Sign For Big Meet

Drivers From All Parts of the State Enter Pleasanton Races.

Daredevil auto drivers of the California race tracks from the north and south are registering daily for the five big races on the old mile dirt track at Pleasanton next Sunday. Prizes lining up by the Pleasanton Jockey club and the San Jose Racing club, promoters of the meet are attracting drivers from all sections of the state. Keen rivalry exists between drivers from Southern California and drivers from the north.

Among the entries already received at the headquarters of the club in Pleasanton are "Red" Murray of Sacramento, driving a Stutz, Fred Wallace of San Luis Obisno, driving a Wallace Special; Dave Bello of Santa Maria, driving a Bello Special, and J. D. Jennings of Oakland. The races will begin at 2 o'clock sharp in the afternoon and will consist of the following: Five miles, 10 miles, 15 miles and two at 20 miles, the two latter being the features of the afternoon. There will also be various sorts of contests for stock cars.

The track at Pleasanton is reported to be in the best of condition and will be open for try-outs prior to the races. Large crowds are expected to attend. The 20 miles dirt track record on a mile track will more than likely be broken by "Red" Murray from Sacramento, officials of the race stated today, after seeing the Capital City boy in action.

Mermaids Will Stage Races At Capitola

Best Girl Swimmers in the West Will Be Ready to Toe the Mark.

The Pacific Coast Mile Swimming Championship for women will be held at Capitola-by-the-Sea next Sunday afternoon. The best girl swimmers in the West will be on the mark with representatives from Stockton, San Jose, San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda, and Los Angeles will start.

Two girl swimmers from Los Angeles, Miss Marion Himmelstein, the new sensation of the Los Angeles Athletic club, and Marie Curtis, American marathon champion, formerly of Detroit, are looked upon as the favorites in the event. Both swim the American trawl style.

OAKLAND GIRL IN RACE.

Miss Eleanor O'Brien, champion of Oakland and swimming for the Idora club, will be a starter. This 14-year-old swimmer is looked upon as a "dark horse" to many of the swimming fans.

Marine Eleven Will Begin Football Grind

VALLEJO, Sept. 15.—The Marine football squad will start practice this week, it was announced today, and several practice games have been scheduled with various teams about the government station. It is expected that several such practice games will be played before the season officially opens.

Duck-Pin Champ

BILL CROSS of the Jackson Furniture Company's bowling team set a new coast record for duck-pins at the Auditorium alleys when he scored 212. Cross started with seven pins and then made six straight strikes, something unheard of in a duck-pin game here before.

Alameda to Play First Football Game

The Alameda High School football team will play its first game of the season tomorrow when it meets the Alumni. The first game, always played with the Alumni, serves as a trial workout for the style of attack and the ability and keenness of the individual players. The game is also being played so that the Alumni, many of whom are old college stars, may secure a line on the type of football used by the Alamedans, so that they may assist in coaching the team for the annual battle for the county title with Berkeley High.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 15.—The decision in the Murphy-Sammy bout here last night, when Murphy got the decision, did not meet with the approval of the customers. The results:

C. Torres defeated Joe Medina.
Yg. Sammy defeated Frankie Murphy.
Lyle Williams defeated Yg. Beezer.
Jimmy Shafer defeated Herb Sorrel.
Tommy Leard and Yg. Frenchie, draw.
Yg. Roberts and Jimmy Sparks, draw.

Marines and Giants Will Meet Sunday

VALLEJO, Sept. 15.—Vallejo baseball fans are evincing great interest in the coming game with the Marines and Giants to be held at Beach park. The Vallejo Giants have been displaying a great brand of ball and fans expect to see a fast game between the two aggragations.

Entries for the Annual Dipsea Race Closed

Entries for the seventeenth annual Dipsea race have been closed and all entry blanks turned over to the official handicapper of the P. A. A., it was announced today by Judge T. J. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Dipsea race committee following a meeting of the committee last night at the Olympic Club. Judge Fitzpatrick also announced that final arrangements for policing and handling of the distance grind had already been completed.

J. J. Keating, sheriff of Marin county, has agreed to act as marshal of the course at the end of the race where he will see that the course at the finish is properly policed with assistance of several of his deputies.

The race will start at 10 o'clock sharp at Mill Valley Sunday morning, September 18, when Starter M. M. Maundrell will start the 150 runners off on the long grind over the Dipsea trail. Assisting Maundrell will be Walter Christie, Fred Burden, Dr. W. O. Aten, George Mackay, Frank Foster, Roy M. Ward, mayor of Mill Valley, Harry Gosgriff, George James and William Tinkler. Use of the town hall at Mill Valley has been tendered the Olympic Club and contestants.

Following the race all entrants will be guests of the Olympic Club at a luncheon at the Sea Beach Hotel at Willow Camp. Twenty trophies have been donated by various merchants of the city, in addition to the 25 silver bar Dipsea pins, to be awarded to the first seventy-five runners to cross the finish line.

Mixed Doubles Title Will Be Settled Sunday

State Title At Stake in Match to Be Played Next Sunday.

Miss Anna McCune and Morgan Fotrell will oppose Miss Helen Baker and Wallace Bates next Sunday afternoon at the Berkeley Tennis club at 3 o'clock, for the state mixed doubles championship, it was announced today by S. G. Hansen, chairman of the tournament committee. Lack of time forced a postponement of the mixed doubles match last Sunday.

While Miss Baker and Miss McCune are evenly matched as are Wallace Bates and Morgan Fotrell, the question being asked now by tennis fans is which one of the women will hold up her end of the game when Bates and Fotrell begin their usual smashing back court game. Miss McCune and her sister Lucy forced Miss Baker and Miss Helen Wills, the national junior singles champion, to the limit in three of the fastest sets in the tournament last Sunday, and the match Sunday should provide sensational net entertainment.

Crew Practice At California To Start Soon

Dan McMillan to Captain 1922 Varsity Crew at Berkeley

Prospects for a successful 1922 crew season at the University of California are unusually bright, according to Coach Ben Wallis who today called a sign-up rally in hopes of getting an early start in the whipping of another championship crew into shape. Judging from the material already on hand, chances for a repetition of last year's great crew which rowed into second place in the inter-collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie last spring, are good.

Dan McMillan, football star and crack oarsman, will be on hand to captain the 1922 varsity crew. The big gridiron star pulled at number 6 in the 1921 crew and was in both the Princeton and Poughkeepsie regattas. Brown, who held down number 3 in the shell in the eastern races, as well as Griffin and Williams, who substituted on the Eastern trip, will be back to pull an oar for the Golden Bear again.

It is more than likely, Coach Wallis said that Mehan, who was placed at number 7, will be available. In addition Rinehardt and Clark, who have been under the guidance of Wallis for some time, appear as strong contenders for regular seats in the shell.

Contributions from the Freshmen crew to the varsity shell are Bolling, Peacock, Donahue, Rosenthal and Donnells. Donnells rowed with the Navy eight at Annapolis before coming to the University of California.

Nine boats are available for practice with special oars, manufactured in England being provided for the various shells. The shell sent east is in first class condition despite the long journey. Varsity practice will start immediately, while the freshmen will begin their workouts on the maheines next week.

Ed Wallace, tennis manager of the university announces that no admission will be charged and the public is invited.

In the Big Tent

The New York Americans retained their lead by a late inning rally, defeating Chicago 11 to 8. The Yankees were aided by the wildness of Chicago pitchers. Mensel hit two home runs, bringing his season's total to 22. Strunk was knocked unconscious in the fifth when he was hit on the head by one of W. Collins' pitches. He was obliged to retire from the game, but his condition is not serious.

Only twenty-seven men faced Johnson in a pitching duel with Davis which Washington won in the seventh when Judge singled, Miller and Shanks walked and Picinich was hit by a pitched ball, forcing Judge over with the only run of the game. Scratch hits by Tobin and Ellerbe in the fourth led to a triple play when Bush caught Sisler's liner and pegged to Harris at second, who threw to Judge at first. Tobin was caught off first after being credited with an infield hit in the seventh.

Cleveland took its second straight game from Philadelphia, 8 to 5. The Indians banched the 12 hits off three Athletic pitchers, while Coveleskie held the locals safe. Jamieson and Perkins had four hits each.

ALIBI BOYS SEEKING EXCUSES FOR SLUMP OF SAN FRANCISCO

Seals Get the Umpires Management Wants, While Other Clubs Take Whom They Get

By EDDIE MURPHY

The Oaks started out well by taking the first two games from the San Francisco Seals, but as usual in spite of the one-sidedness of the scores, the locals are supposed to have been lucky, or the Seals were badly crippled. The Seals finally put over a win yesterday, defeating the locals 5 to 4, and it is hinted that they had just a wee bit of luck against them, otherwise the score would have been larger. The Oaks have not had to trust to luck to win their ball games from the Seals. It was all the fault of Umpire Jake Croter that the Oaks won the last series from the Seals. This was the claim of Seal supporters. Jake Croter is not working against the Seals this week, so we wonder who will be blamed should the Oaks again cop the series, which seems likely.

Some day the Oaks are going to win a ball game without someone claiming tough luck for the Seals, and then all the fans in the Eastbay will be ready to fall dead. The Seals may have shown a little better than the Oaks before the Fourth of July, but since that time the Oaks have as much right to claim the honors as the Seals.

Loss of Brubaker and Cooper Stopped Oaks.

When the Oaks beat the Seals in the first two games it was through their fighting efforts and playing better baseball. It is true that Caveney's sore arm is a hard blow to the club, but there is not a club in the league which at some time or another during the season has not had its run of hard luck.

The Oaks were kicking the dust in the faces of the other fellows quite regularly when Ray (Red) Brubaker was forced out of the line-up at Seattle by having his thumb dislocated. Brubaker was not out of the game more than a couple of days when the Oaks were sliding down the ladder. Then Claude Cooper was called to his home in Texas to attend the burial of his brother. There was a well running machine practically torn apart. It was plainly visible that Brubaker and Cooper were needed back in the line-up to make the Oaks the same winning ball club that they were when they were making their grand spurt toward Pennantville. It looks now like it is all over for the Oaks as far as the pennant is concerned, but nevertheless they are battling the Seals, and so far have shown to better advantage than Graham's athletes.

Long Time Since Croter Umpired Against Seals.

Is William H. McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast League, being allowed to appoint the umpires as he sees fit? During the past couple of weeks many Oakland baseball fans have asked if Jake Croter is being kept from umpiring games in which the Seals take part just because he was blamed for awarding a couple of close decisions against the transbay club in the last series between the Oaks and Seals? Immediately after the Oaks won that series from the Seals, Croter was severely criticised, and it was also said that he would never umpire another ball game for the San Francisco Seals. So far he has not umpired in a series with the Seals except to work in the game last Monday afternoon at Recreation Park. From what we hear of the way President McCarthy has arranged the schedule of umpires for the last two weeks, Croter will not umpire a game against the Seals.

Following the series between the Oaks and Seals, Croter did not have a kick made against one of his decisions for nine weeks. Then an argument arose at the Oakland ball park last Thursday when Croter called an Oak safe because the Vernon players jumped the ball. Croter had a run-in with Smith, Hyatt and Essick over the play. There are few umpires who will go nine weeks without having a complaint.

Local Boys Will Soon Return From Canada.

Just a couple of more weeks, and Oakland will be full of ball players who make their homes here, and who make a living at playing professional ball. Joe Devine, manager of the Calgary club of the Western Canadian league, has wired to Ambrose Furrer that he will be home a week from next Saturday at the latest, and that he will bring back a whole flock of young local boys who went up with him. At present the Calgary club is engaged in a nine-game series with the Winnipeg club for the league championship. Calgary having won the first half and Winnipeg the second. The Calgary club would have won the second half championship also had the Saskatoon club been on the job and won only one game from Winnipeg, but instead it dropped eight in a row to the second half winners. So Devine's club finished just four points in the rear of Winnipeg.

So far three games have been played in the championship, Winnipeg winning three. Calgary the second, and the third was a tie.

Milton (Toots) Bankhead, another local boy, and Lee Dempsey, who had a tryout with Seattle returned a few days ago from the Pacific International league, where they played with the Victoria club. Bankhead hit .316 for the season. Many other local boys will return between now and a week from Saturday.

Tie for Leadership In Three 'C' League

Two teams are tied for first place in the Three 'C' League as a result of the Oakley team defeating Concord in 4-4. The Oakley batters hit the shoots of "Chicken" Shafer for thirteen safeties and made most of them count. However, Shafer managed to stall twelve batters to the bench on strikes. Concord and Oakley are the teams tied for first place with seven wins and two defeats, while Brentwood and Antioch are tied for the next position, with Pittsburg fifth and Cowell in the cellar. Next Sunday Antioch will travel to Concord where Al Lasle will umpire.

CALIFORNIA VARSITY SQUAD OUT FOR FIRST PRACTICE TODAY

FOOTBALL SEASON UNDER WAY TODAY; TRAINING STARTS IN COLLEGES ALL OVER COUNTRY

SPLENDID MATERIAL AVAILABLE FOR THE 1921 BRUIN ELEVEN

By DOUG. MONTELL.

This afternoon the California Varsity took the field for the first practice of the year under the leadership of Head Coach Andy Smith. The Bruins have been longing for the feel of the turf of California Field under their feet for the past month since college opened at the Blue and Gold institution and September 15th has been a long time in arriving in the opinion of the thirty odd veterans who will comprise the first two squads of Bruins. The Frosh, under the guidance of Coach Pesky Sprott, are hard at work for they have not been subjected to the same restriction that their older brothers have been in beginning training. The Babes have a wealth of first rate material despite the fact that several excellent prospects have been lost through their withdrawal from college since the beginning of the semester.

The Bruins trotted onto the field this afternoon a heavier lot of huskies than they were last year. Every man on the team looked many pounds heavier than last year, even little Charlie Erb carrying sufficient weight to be regarded as a fullback possibility rather than the undersized quarterback of last season. No danger of Andy Smith making a fullback of Erb with Morrison and Nisbit both back in their working togs looking fit. This was a tough place to make a decision last season and unless Andy makes one of the two over into a halfback he is going to have the same problem on his hands again this year. Lee Cranmer, rated as one of the best guards in the Conference last year, is the only Bruin to report for duty not in condition to start intensive training. Cranmer still shows the effects of an operation performed during the summer and is underweight. Whether he will be able to break into the line-up before the middle of the season rolls around is a hard question, but with an abundance of line material on hand he will be given plenty of opportunity to regain his strength before being called into service.

Some Real Huskies On the Bear Squad.

Practically every man on the line tips the beam at 200 or better. Both Bob Berkey and Brick Muller at end are expected to be fixtures throughout the year and 200 is about the correct figure for both these giants. Dan McMillan at tackle is over that figure and Barnes and Dean, to say nothing of Beam, who has returned to college, are heavy enough to make any man's team. Pal Clark at guard is another of the heavyweight division and Shurr, Goerlitz and Toney all look like second Tarzans. Capt. Latham is huskier than ever and looked to be at least 206 a la nature.

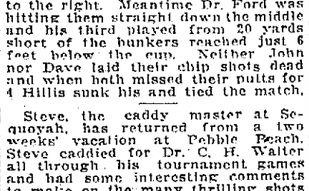
The days have passed when mere weight in the line means anything. That was clearly demonstrated when Harvard produced a whale of a line in the matter of weight against Oregon in 1919 at Pasadena. The lighter Oregonians tore through repeatedly and outdistanced the big men time after time. Under the Smith system of football the entire line is required, at times, to get down the field under punts and last year the tackles and guards were down on the receiver along with the ends. The same speed will be in evidence again this year and any overweight will be taken off in the first two weeks of practice.

Abundance of Ends A Puzzle to Smith.

If ever a squad was overstocked with any one thing the California team has an abundance of ends. Muller, Berkey, Stephens, Engebretson, Hufford, Cline and O'Brien are all first class ends, and it is somewhat of a problem to know what to do with all this material. Muller and Berkey are expected to be the regulars during the year with Stephens carried as the substitute on the first team. It is Andy Smith's policy to train a capable substitute for each position and to carry this man on the first string until some man on the Second Varsity displays enough class to displace him. That would leave Cline and Engebretson, both former Varsity ends, out in the cold, to say nothing of Hufford and O'Brien, the stars of last year's freshman team. It is rumored that Cline is to be made over as an understudy to one of the Varsity backfield men but until something definite is done in this direction nothing can be said. It is practically certain that Engebretson and Hufford will hold down the end jobs on the Second Varsity to start the year with Pearce, of last year's freshman team, made over into a sub. end for this team.

Tomorrow Favored To Start Season At Full.

And so it goes down the line, for with the surplus material of Varsity caliber on hand, Coach Smith is certain to make some useful disposition of the superfluous material. The probable Varsity line up would include Fat Clark at guard in place of Majors and Eells at halfback in place of Sprott. Morrison is favored to start the year at the fullback berth, although there is little to choose between Nisbit and Morrison and both will be first string men all season. Mugs Van Sant is the most formidable rival Eells has to contend with for the halfback position and the blonde haired Mugs will give Eells plenty of competition for the job.



Why is it that the Claremont Golf and Country club turns out so many golf champions? Championship courses generally develop the future champions, but Claremont can not be classed as a championship course, yet a bigger proportion of their members succeed in open events. In the recent state championship at Del Monte and Pebble Beach so many Claremont players distinguished themselves that the winner of one of the principal prizes was entirely overlooked. To win the low net at Del Monte and Pebble Beach meant a contest against over 300 players, of whom at least 250 went into the event with an equal chance and high hopes of winning this cup. Oscar R. Morgan of Claremont, with a 15 handicap, after tieing at 172 with Dr. Waldyer of the California club, won in the play-off over the Del Monte course, giving him the most valuable trophy, next to those won by Dr. Paul Hunter and Fitzgerald Marx. Morgan's score over Del Monte was 87 and he supplemented this with an 85 over Pebble Beach. With his 15 strokes off he had a net score of 72 and 70, total 142.

POSSIBLE EXPLANATION.

A possible explanation of the Claremonters success may be attributed to their professionable methods of instruction. John Black believes in demonstrating shots to his pupils in a natural game. Just as soon as the player gets out of the dubbing class he challenges them to a match over 18 holes. The handicap may be anything from two strokes a hole to three holes up at each nine, but the pupil at the 18th green has learned a few tricks in how to win a match.

Last Sunday at Claremont C. C. Hillis and Dr. C. F. Ford challenged John Black and Dave Trufelli to an 18-hole contest in which the professionals up on each nine. The match finished all even. John and Dave won the first nine, 1 up, and Dr. Ford and Hillis won the second nine, 1 up. Pars in this game were not good enough to have the hole. The professionals started off by winning the first four holes with four 3s in a row, but Hillis, who had been doing most of the fighting alone, finally got Dr. Ford to straighten out his shots and helped him to finish only one down at the 9th.

HILLIS WINS MATCH.

Black and Trufelli again started shooting birdies and had had the amateurs 1 down going to the 16th, where Hillis sunk a long putt for a half in four. Both pros were short at the 17th and a 3 by C. C. Hillis won the hole and evened the match. Long drives from the 18th tee gave John and his young assistant easy shots to the green, but both were just wide to the right. Meantime Dr. Ford was hitting them straight down the middle and his third played from 20 yards short of the bunkers reached just 6 feet below the cup. Neither John nor Dave laid their chip shots dead and when both missed their putts for 4 Hillis sunk his and tied the match.

Steve, the caddy master at Sequoyah, has returned from a two weeks' vacation at Pebble Beach. Steve caddied for Dr. C. H. Walter all through his tournament games and had some interesting comments to make on the many thrilling shots that the rival doctors pulled off in their memorable contest, which finished at the 19th green at Pebble Beach. Dr. Walter's tee shot at the 18th (after Dr. Hunter was 1 up and had played safe to the right) was one of the longest seen at this hole and was played across the beach, the short but dangerous route to the green. This gave the Sequoyah player a win to even up the match. A tiny pebble was all that stopped Dr. Walter's ball from holding out at the 19th in 3. It was dead on the hole, but failed to reach the cup, whereas Dr. Hunter's, after hanging on the lip for a second or two, dropped in and won this memorable contest, which was considered the best of the entire tournament.

The Mount Diablo Golf and Country Club, like others, has been holding several tournament events over the recent holidays. The finals in two flight match play resulted as follows: H. R. Curtiss defeated W. S. Dinwiddie 2 up for the premiar prize in the first flight. Dinwiddie was 5 down and 9 to play, but just failed to catch the winner at the 18th green. In the second flight G. C. Dinwiddie, in a match that fluctuated considerably, finally holed a long putt for a half which gave him a win at the 18th hole. F. K. Jackson, on in two, looked like winning the hole and taking the match to the 18th, but missed an easy putt. In the preliminary medal play Wm. J. Macdonald, who is shooting a very much improved game at present, rounded the course in 85 net with Dr. H. C. Thomas only one stroke behind.

The Prince of Darkness is given credit for great sagacity, but it's a wonder that in paving the nether regions he didn't use something more durable than people's good intentions.

K. U. CLUB WINS.

The K. U. Club of the Class B division of The TRIBUNE League won a hard-fought game from Del Monte Packers No. 6 by the score of 10-8. The game was played on the Hawthorne playgrounds before a large flock of fans. The winners came from behind to clinch the game. Duarte pitched a good game for the K. U. Machado was the best hitter, getting two triples. M. Camara got a couple of clean drives. A couple of errors in the pinch cost the game. Score:

CONFERENCE GAMES ARRANGED FOR THE SEASON ARE MANY

Long Schedule of Gridiron Games Arranged for the 1921 Season

By RALPH HOSLER.

Well, folks, beef on the hoof goes up above par and on exhibition on California Field Saturday, September 24, when the behemoths of the University of California, groomed by Coach Andy Smith, and the prize beef stock of St. Mary's College, developed by Coach "Slip" Madigan, meet in competition on the football field.

The sudden rise in the popularity and value of good beef stock, an annual occurrence, is a matter of public record, that each college and university engaging in the well-known game of American football, prize good intelligent hustling beef and brawn, better than anything else during the football season. If not, why not?

Beginning Saturday, September 24, when the huskies from Berkeley tangle with St. Mary's, the opening gun of the 1921 football season, a game will follow on every ensuing Saturday up until December 3, when the Oregon Aggies mix with the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. Football fans, who would rather watch clean game, with two evenly matched teams, should be supplied with enough football to last them a lifetime, judging from the Pacific coast conference schedule of 1921.

California-Oregon Game, Oct. 22.

One of the best games of the season, and one that is being looked forward to by the Pacific Coast at large, is the University of California-University of Oregon game on California Field, October 22. A second game of much importance, in view of the fact that the institution belittled the success of the Golden Bear last year, and howled derision at crack varsity eleven of 1920, will be that between the University of Southern California and California at California Field on November 5.

Last season, the members of the U. S. C. team howled like wolves when they failed to get a crack at Andy Smith's gang, but they quickly clamped on the mufflers when the northern eleven stepped on the Ohio State Western conference champs 28 to 0. They will have their wish this year—a whack at California, but woe 'em, for Andy Smith has the same crowd this year as he had last, and some more just as good, if not better.

Many Interesting Games Have Been Arranged.

On November 12 the University of Washington, which institution never fails to produce a squad of green resembling Ozark mountaineers, will step on the field against California at California Field November 12. Then a week later, comes the big game, the ambitions of every member of two varsities to participate in and the one big moment for the students of both institutions.

There will be more of a variety of games this season. The navy, the army, the athletic clubs and the smaller colleges, all will have a chance this year to prove their worth. St. Mary's College, the Olympic Club, the Pacific Fleet and the Mare Island Marines all figure prominently in the following 1921 conference schedule:

Oct. 8.—California against Nevada at Berkeley; Stanford against St. Mary's at Palo Alto; Oregon Aggies against Multnomah Club at Corvallis.

Oct. 29.—Stanford against Oregon Aggies at Palo Alto; Washington State against California at Portland.

Nov. 11.—Oregon Aggies against Washington State at Corvallis.

Nov. 24.—Oregon Aggies against Southern California at Los Angeles.

Dec. 26.—Oregon against University of Hawaii at Honolulu.

Jan. 2.—Oregon against Hawaii A. C. at Honolulu.

Stanford Squad Arriving for Gridiron Work

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 15.—The football season got under way here this morning with the arrival of many candidates for the Cardinal varsity squad. Football letter men and others wishing to make the team are arriving on every train, and it is expected that the full quota of gridiron warriors will be on hand by Saturday.

Coach Gene Van Gent and Captain Jack Patrick are spending most of their time today seeing that their men are properly outfitted. The first formal practice session will not be held until tomorrow. As college will not be in session until October 1 the candidates for the football team will be able to give most of their time to football until that date.

Five coaches are on hand to instruct the Cardinal men in the various phases of the gridiron game. J. J. Fitzgerald, who played quarterback on the Harvard varsity last year, will aid Van Gent in directing the backfield. Prof. James B. Canning, a former Chicago player and coach under Stagg, will instruct the linesmen in their duties. "Dink" Templeton, who played in the Cardinal backfield last year, will demonstrate the proper methods of punting. Athletic Director Walter Powell, who coached the 1920 team, will serve in an advisory capacity.

It was an entirely remodeled gymnasium that the football men saw this morning when they returned to college. Carpenters have been at work on the structure for the last two weeks and have made many new improvements, among them enlarging the training quarters where "Dad" Moulton will keep his men in condition.

A full squad of matmen from the Olympic Club will appear in the bouts as well as a flock of grapplers from the University of California, and from Stanford. Entries for the matches may be made with Commissioner Judge T. I. Fitzpatrick, Olympic Club commissioner of wrestling or wrestling instructor John Maurus.

'Bobby' Christensen Defeats Title Holder

Contestants in the ninth annual Alameda city tennis championship matches were treated to a surprise in the second play of the matches when "Bobby" Christiansen, amateur girl tennis player of Alameda, defeated Mrs. Dot Thompson, 1920 title holder, in 3 hard-fought sets, Clovey La Croix last year's men's champion, nosed out George Young in two straight sets, 13-11 and 8-6. The next play will be held Sunday, September 18.

Featherweight Fight Will Be Held Rain Or Shine Saturday

CLEVELAND, Sept. 15.—Rain will not interfere with the twelve-round bout between Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, and Danny Frush, Baltimore challenger, here Saturday, the promoters announced today.

In the event of rain, it is proposed to stretch a tarpaulin over the ring. If necessary, the bout will be held at night. The principals are expected to enter the ring about 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

EASY FOR OAKLAND CUBS.

The Oakland Cubs put over their twelfth victory of the season by defeating the Oakland Colored Tigers in a one-sided game, 15 to 3. Francis, the Cub pitcher, did not allow a hit until the eighth and he fanned fifteen. The Cubs grabbed twenty-one hits for themselves, three going to Francis.

Ortega Finishes His Training for Bout With Mike Gibbons

COLOGAN, Sept. 15.—Battling Ortega, featherweight, finished up a strenuous training program in preparation for his twelve-round mix-up with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul tonight by boxing a total of seventeen rounds with his sparring partners.

Gibbons was to arrive some time today, and was scheduled for a light gymnasium workout this afternoon.

Interest in the match is keen and promoters announced last night that the seat sale had passed the $50,000 mark. Seating capacity at the Stratton Park pavilion has been increased to 40,000.

U. S. Marine Shooters Take Championship

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 15.—The United States Service match of the meet goes to the U. S. Marine Corps team with a total of 5281, according to unofficial reports today. The U. S. Navy had 5229 and the U. S. army 5208.

The individual rapid-firing pistol match finished late yesterday, was won by A. P. Lane, New York civilian with a total of 187 out of a possible 200.

Bud Ridley Defeats Old Charlie Burns

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 15.—Bud Ridley, Seattle featherweight, easily defeated Charlie Burns of Vancouver in their ten-round bout here last night. Ridley had nine out of the ten rounds.

Dr. Calkins Wins National Title in Big Pistol Shoot

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Dr. J. R. Calkins, Springfield, Mass., today won the national rifle association pistol championship, and just missed winning the individual slow-fire pistol match, losing first place in his last string ties.

The individual slow-fire pistol match was won by K. T. Frederick, New York civilian, with a total of 181 out of a possible 200. Dr. Calkins was second with the same score, the time being decided by the longest runs on the last range.

The Truth About Herb Production

By far the greater part of the medicinal herbs of China are produced in Sze Chuan, a province in Western China. Others come from the neighboring provinces of Kwong Tung, Yunnan and Kwangsi. However, the rest of China is not noted for its herb production.
The herbs exported to the United States are shipped from Hongkong to San Francisco.
The Fong Wan Herb Specialist not only conducts a retail business at 548 8th st., Oakland, where he dispenses fresh herbs of all varieties, but he also has an interest in a wholesale herb company in Oakland, known as Man Fook Hung.

Paris "Dope" Handlers Now Make Huge Profits

PARIS, Sept. 15.—France, like most other countries struggling with the aftermath of war, has her own dope problem, which is daily becoming more acute. The dope fiend is no longer confined to night bars and dancing establishments of Montmartre, as in the day of the opium and morphine habits. Those crazes have been replaced by the deadly cocaine, or "coco," as it is generally known, and its victims are to be found among all classes of society.

Paris is the great distributing depot.

The price at which cocaine is retailed varies from 5,000 to 7,500 francs a pound; the wholesale price is stated to be between 700 and 800 francs a pound. Certain distributors who deal with a wealthy clientele actually retail at the rate of 120 per gramme or 80,000 francs a pound.

The majority of the supply comes—it is claimed—from Germany. In addition to the regular agents large quantities are brought in by French soldiers on leave from the Rhine. The risk is worth the game every time, as the penalty is generally a light prison sentence with the benefit of the first offender's act, or else a paltry fine. The latest method of introducing the drug is said to be by aeroplane.

AN ALERT PAGE.

A writer who went on a tour of investigation recently in Montmartre claimed to have ascertained ten different addresses in less than an hour where cocaine in any quantity could be obtained by the mere asking for it. His first informant was the youthful page in kaleidoscopic uniform, whose main task is to do the door-step honors for a well-known night establishment. Without displaying the slightest surprise, the alert page promptly directed him to an adjacent cafe, with the injunction to take a seat at a table nearest the cloak stand. At the same time he volunteered the names of half a dozen other cafes where the drug could be procured.

The first cafe indicated by the page proved to be of the usual type known as brasseries. At the rear of the cafe, forming a group apart, were a curiously mixed crowd, whose furtive glances, haggard expressions and waxlike faces stamped them unmistakably as dope fiends. The majority, both men and women, were obviously withering under the influence of the drug.

"ABOMINABLE THING."

The group displayed no objection to admitting him to their midst. In a short while he had been offered four neatly sealed packets, each one containing a gramme of "coco" at the rate of 15 francs per gramme. With similar ease he was able to obtain further supplies at the other cafes, the only variation being the price, which ranged between 10 and 25 francs the gramme.

One woman vendor, to whom he explained that he had never before used "coco," added a touch of the dramatic to his advances. "Fool that you are," she shrieked in hysterical tones. "Don't you know what this abominable thing is? And you come to me, one of its victims, to help you to kill yourself."

STRAW HATS ARE ONLY CLOTHING OF PATAGONIANS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—In a sheltered bay on the bleak shores of the Straits of Magellan, members of a colony of naked Patagonians are wearing American straw hats with the temperature hovering below the freezing point according to Captain K. A. Ahlin, of the freighter West Nora, in port here with a cargo of coffee and hides from South American ports.

It was when the steamer stopped recently in a bay on the north shore of the Straits of Magellan for favorable weather conditions that a colony of the naked Patagonians came to the ship in dugouts, Captain Ahlin stated. Despite the chill air and snow on the ground, he said, men, women and children hadn't a stitch of apparel on them, but didn't seem to mind the weather. One woman sat in a boat half full of water and pursed two babies in the freezing atmosphere just as if they were comfortably clothed.

Gifts of clothing were thrown to the natives, but these were spurned. All the visitors seemed to want was tobacco.

SOUTH CHEERED BY COTTON AND RICE ADVANCES

Indications the Improvement Permanent; Optimism in Chicago.

By I. V. SHANNON.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15 - The continued advance in the price of cotton, the movement of the new crop and increasing orders for lumber have resulted in steady improvement in business conditions throughout this section and greater cheerfulness is in evidence than has been shown for the last year. The way in which wholesalers and retailers are buying indicates confidence in the ability of present values.

Retail trade in the last month has averaged about 14 per cent less than last year, but has been thirty per cent in advance of the figures for 1919. Bank clearings have increased and investment of savings in building and loan associations are four and a half million dollars above the level of six months ago.

The oyster season has opened. This will give employment to a large number of workers.

Chicago.

By A. D. WELTON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. — There is ample ground for optimism in this section of the country. Comparisons of figures mean little for the purchasing power of the dollar has changed and totals checked against those of other years give no accurate idea of conditions but one of the most cheering symptoms observed here at present is the fact that business managers know they must sell goods instead of having buyers come clamoring to take them off their hands; that they must pile up profits in the face of competition and that they must cease looking to the government for help and look to themselves.

There are still some merchants and producers with goods on their hands, however, who are feeling out the market to see how much they can get rather than to find out the lowest price at which they can sell at a profit.

In Chicago and vicinity the banks report ample credit for the legitimate needs of solvent borrowers. Clothing manufacturers are busy with prices yielding slowly.

Commodity News.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Without apparent effect on financial operations of the Eastbay district, so far as bankers today could discern, Eastbay residents paying income taxes in installments, today completed settlement for the third quarter. It was estimated that about 5000 residens of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and vicinity forwarded remittances to the Oakland internal revenue office or direct to Collector Flynn in San Francisco.

In the district it was estimated that 50,000 would have settled by the hour of office closing tonight. Remittances not in the mail before midnight tonight will be delinquent and subject to penalties tomorrow.

The district this year had about 225,000 taxpayers, of whom 20,827 were in Oakland and vicinity. Something more than a fifth of those filing returns paid by installment today.

Nationally it was estimated that today's payment would bring the quarter's total to $525,000,000, which sum the Treasury was looking forward to using to pull it out of a current deficit hole of some $116,000,000, besides meeting running expenses.

Aside from the income tax payments, collection of approximately $12,000,000 in delinquent and additional sales and miscellaneous taxes by the government as a result of a special drive ending September 3, was announced last night by Commissioner Blair at Washington, D. C.

The drive, in which 1725 field collectors were engaged, he said, covered practically every large city in the country, and special attention was given to the so-called "luxury tax," taxes on soft drinks, theater admissions and transportation

While, from the preliminary report, it is believed such action will be necessary only in isolated cases," Mr. Blair said, "evidences of fraud, discovered in the final checking up of returns, will be followed by prosecution"

The other apartment house will be constructed by Henry Burk at Fifty-third and Grove, and will be a 2-story, 18-room structure.

Ground for the new building of the Oakland Title Insurance and Guaranty company at the southwest corner of Fifteenth and Franklin streets has been broken. Excavation for the four-story structure of reinforced concrete was started this week.

GRAPHIC FIGURES ON RAILWAY SLUMP.

Striking evidence of the manner in which increased revenues failed to meet railway demands in the slump from which all lines are just now recovering is contained in figures on railway freight and passenger charge collections issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

While it is indisputable that the rate increases came at a time when commerce and travel was declining heavily, it appears equally certain from the figures that the advances increased the rapidity of that decline.

Passengers paid 168 railroads $573,-24,211 fares under increased rates for the first six months of 1921, as against $564,856,242 for the same period of 1920, before the increase went into effect, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported.

Fares were paid by 522,165,000 persons as compared with 593,771,000 in 1920.

The average journey in 1921 was 30.64 as against 30.41 miles in 1920. Each traveler paid an average of 1.08 cents a mile this year as against 2.668 in 1920.

Freight revenues of the same roads [illegible] six months of 1921 were [illegible] as against $1,860,918,-[illegible] in 1920. The tonnage however, dropped from 1,626,115,000 in the 1920 period to 779,360,000 for the first six months of 1921. The revenue per ton mile increased from 0.976 cents for the first six months of 1920 to 1.278 cents for the 1921 period, and the average haul for the 1921 period was 187.09 miles per ton as against 186.93 in 1920.

NEWS OF STYLES

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS. Special to THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept 15—Gout fur is to be extensively used for winter coats and cloaks by some furriers, according to importers recently returned from Paris. This fur is not the skin of the common goat, but of fine and silky texture. The favorite shades in which it is dyed are platinum and black. It is used not only for entire garments but as trimming on other furs. One of the latest models is a platinum goat cape which has an inside arrangement by which it can be held from the inside by the arms of the wearer. A beaver sport coat designed by Paquin has a border and cuffs of platinum goat the border fitting close around the hips.

The pajama demand lately has been for severely plain models of fine soft materials with none of the ornamentation which formerly made a man dressed for bed resemble a general in the Costa Rican army. Laundries which mangled these decorations are blamed for the change.

Designers back from Paris say felt hats in black, gray or tan, combined with velvet will be a decided feature of this season's wear. Velvet ribbon is sometimes used on these models, laid softly on the brim edge of the mushroom types. On sailor models very short velvet strips, overlapping over the side pointed brims. Quills of high color are used effectively on dark toned felts. In these, in many instances, are in shaded effects. Fancy pheasant feathers are extensively employed.

Many manufacturers of women's wear and their designers here declare that while the popularity of the knickerbocker suits for sports wear for women undoubtedly will increase, there is little prospect that the wearing of these suits for street or business will become widespread. They point out that the garments of this type are essentially for sports wear and are inappropriate for the street or the office. Some manufacturers, however, are making suits which may be transformed by unfastening a few snaps or buttons into a knickerbocker costume

The modern young woman may boast that there are no strings on her, but she is pretty sure to have fringe made entirely of linen threads on her latest silk lingerie. This fringe is the latest innovation in underthings and forms a finish on not only at the bottoms of combinations and under-slips but acts as a graceful border to the embroidery or lace of the petticoat section. The latest petticoats are many of them slashed up either side and laced together again with ribbon.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO Sept 15—Fresh declines in wheat resulted today from rains in Argentina, further relieving the drought in that country. On the other hand, complaints that unseasonable wet weather in Dakotas was spoiling wheat in the shock, failed to attract much notice. Freezing temperatures in Canada failed also to stimulate buying. Initial quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to 1¾c lower with December $1.3[illegible] and May $1.41@1.41¼, were followed by slight rallies and then by a moderate down turn all around.

Corn went lower with wheat. After opening ⅛@⅜c off to a shade advance, including December 54⅞@55c, the market underwent a general sag.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 15— Additional [illegible] was noted at the opening today, and under fairly heavy liquidation selling by the south and foreign interests, first prices showed losses of from 27 to 47 points. The cables were weak and weather reports more favorable. Advices from the south as to the crop condition and the spot market continued bullish, however, and a demand from the trade and from some of the commission houses promoted a rally of 10 points

LIVERPOOL, Sept 15 -Spot cotton was in good demand. Prices easier Sales, 12,000 bales American middling [illegible] to good middling, 14.92; full middling, 13.69; middling, 13.24; low middling, 12.34; good ordinary, 11.24, ordinary, 10.54. Futures opened barely steady.

LIST WEAKENS UNDER SELLING BY N. Y. SHORTS

Morning Rally Brief, Market Reacting; Money Rate Favorable.

NEW YORK, Sept 15—Shorts were active at the opening of today's stock market. Mexican Petroleum, Shell, Transport and Royal Dutch fell 1 to 1½ points. Baldwin, Pullman, Harvester and Studebaker averaged one point declines. Offsetting features included United Drug, American Linseed, General Asphalt, Central Leather and Sumatra Tobacco, gaining large fractions to 2½ points.

Partial recovery under the leadership of Baldwin followed. A 5 per cent opening rate for all money, despite heavy income tax payments today, also was regarded as favorable. The rebound was not long sustained, steels, equipments, oils, motors and rubbers reacting to 1 to 2 points. Shippings and rails also fell back.

Foreign exchange again was unsettled on lower quotations from London

Call money eased to 4½ per cent at midday, but steels, American Locomotive, Mercantile Marine, preferred, United Fruit and some of the investment rails reflected further pressure. Baldwin extended its early rise however, and Pullman, Sears-Roebuck and sugars strengthened.

PACIFIC FOOD PRICES AND WORLD'S COMMERCE

Tomatoes Hit New Low Level and Other Prices Show a Big Falling Off.

Vegetable prices weakened materially today under slack trading in the Oakland produce market. Tomatoes failed to bring more than $1 a lug, the lowest price in weeks. Fancy peppers which have attracted attention heretofore on delivery for San Jose gardens sold down an average of 25 cents a lug today, while cucumbers, which have been bringing up to 90 cents a lug, were off to 75 cents.

Among market receipts were a car each of lemons, oranges, apples and mixed melons. Boat arrivals were light. The heaviest receipts of grapes have been by Western Pacific recently, although good shipments of wine grapes continue on the Santa Fe. Trucking of grapes has been active. There was a heavy grape carryover today, prices showing material weakening in that division also. Other fruit held about steady.

Roman Beauties and Kings from the Watsonville district were among the new apple offerings, the Romans selling up to $2.50 on 4-tier pack and the Kings bringing about $2

Poultry prices here were sharply affected into declines today by arrival of more eastern fowls. All varieties of hens were off 1 to 3 cents. Young chickens sold down to 31 cents. Local delivery still continue heavy in addition to the eastern arrivals, but dealers report that in some areas of the bay region the ranches are beginning to be cleaned up of roosters. Pullets generally are being held.

Word of the advance by growers of 2 cents a pound on raspberries to canners, calls attention to the fact that the second crop is not panning out as well as had been anticipated. The canneries now are paying 14 cents and raspberries sell locally up to 75 cents a drawer.

Regarding crop conditions for the week ended Wednesday the Weather Bureau says, in its current bulletin:

The weather was especially favorable for the maturing of bean and beet crops. The sugar content of the latter is up to standard and the crop is going to the factories in a number of districts. The bean harvest is at its peak, and threshing is proceeding. This crop has recovered so well from the hot weather in July that in some districts it is heavier than normal

Prune picking and drying is going forward at the usual pace for the season. Grapes are going to the trays in all vine growing regions, and the picking of Muscats is at its height in the San Joaquin, except in the frosted sections, where ripening is somewhat slower. Shipment of Malaga and wine grapes continues

Hop picking has reached its maximum. The crop appears good. Truck has not ripened as well as usual in districts like the upper Sacramento valley, where the weather has been cool. Tomatoes have ripened slowly, but other products like lettuce and beans have benefited.

The southern California citrus industry was favored by another week of moderate temperatures and some fog. Valencia and lemon sizes are said to be large. The new crop of the former is in splendid shape.

FIRE, SALT WATER PLAY HAVOC WITH OIL IN MEXICO

Exclusive to The TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Sept 15—Not salt water alone but fire has played havoc in the great oil district of Amatlan, Mexico. Scarcely had the serious fires in the oil wells of that district been conquered when there was evidence that salt water was permeating some of the wells. It was in mid-July that two very large wells in this Mexican oil district were in flames. A serious situation at once arose because unless these fires could be conquered it was inevitable that oil and equipment of the value of many thousand dollars would be destroyed.

Fighting oil fires is a very difficult endeavor. In the vicinity of New York oil fires have defied energetic work of firemen, sometimes for two or three days. It is one of the traditions of disasters of this kind that one well has been burning for several years and all attempts to put an end to the fire has been abandoned.

LOSS TREMENDOUS.

So fierce was this Mexican oil well fire that from one of the wells blazing oil was ejected three hundred feet in the air and was burning up thirty thousand barrels of oil a day. Another well near by in like manner was burning up thirty-five thousand barrels a day. These are figures contained in a report published by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. All sorts of methods for mastering the fire were proposed. Of these only one was adopted. That involved the digging of a tunnel a hundred and sixty feet long to the wells in order to cut off the pipes under ground and in that way suppress the flame. The experts reasoned that at least thirty days would be necessary for the completion of this work.

But thirty days was altogether too long a time. The fires were suppressed four days later and the tunnel plan abandoned. This was due to the courage and skill of one man. His name, Burr Gillespie, should become tradition worthy of incorporating in the romantic history of oil production. He spurned the tunnel project. He thought that it would be possible for a man if he were drenched in constant and heavy streams of water to approach the wells and even turn off the valves. His plan was spoken of as preposterous and would probably, if he undertook it, cost him his life.

But he was willing to undertake it, and did, and was successful. Drenched as he was with water, he reached one well in the morning of July 14, and the second well in the evening of the same day, and in so doing conquered the fires.

COURAGE DISPLAYED.

Many have been the instances of courage and willingness to encounter exposure in the tropics, in the deserts and even in the Arctic, by those who were engaged in this industry. But is is without record that one man approached a fierce burning oil well soaked from head to foot with constant streams of water and at last turn off the valves and thus suppress the fires.

Aside from the courage and ingenuity associated with this personal triumph the estimate is that the success of Gillespie saved nearly thirty days' loss of oil, the daily loss being sixty-five thousand barrels and also made it necessary the expenditure of a large amount of money would have entailed had the tunneling plan fitted up with.

ALONG the WATERFRONT

The bark Pactolus of the Red Salmon Canning Company was docked at the Fair Terminal yesterday afternoon, where she will unload her cargo of canned salmon brought here from Bristol Bay, Alaska. This is the first time canned salmon has been stored in a warehouse at Oakland. Heretofore these cargoes have been unloaded at San Francisco, and on Mission Rock, but this year so far three vessels from Alaska have unloaded at the Fair Terminal. There will be almost 100,000 cases of salmon stored there this season. Salt salmon in barrels has always been stored in the warehouse of P. M. Nelson at Alameda street wharf, and this season almost 2000 barrels are there being unpacked ready for market.

Another vessel was chartered here today to load grain on the Columbia river for the United Kingdom by the Northern Grain and Warehouse Company. She is the Norwegian steamer Ferriet of 3186 tons register.

Arrivals in this port were light during the past 24 hours, but over thirty vessels passed out of the harbor in the same length of time, bound for all ports of the globe. The dreadnought California passed out on her official trial trip and was given a hearty farewell reception from tugs and other steam vessels in the harbor.

East Oakland harbor is again beginning to look like old times as the Alaska salmon fleet is returning and each day vessels are being towed to their winter quarters in these waters. By the end of the month, an honorable will be on a pleasure in East Oakland harbor. Beside the regular Alaska fleet which winters here every year, there are several steam schooners and sailing vessels which are unable to get any charters at the present time, tied up. It looks as though many of the vessels will be idle all winter as the lumber taxes off shore do not look as though they are going to rise any and the owners are not willing or ready to charter their craft out at a loss. About ten more of the fishing vessels are still out and are expected home toward the best of October.

The little power schooner Manook, which was picked up off Eureka last Friday and towed into that port sailed from there yesterday. She has 315 cases of Scotch whiskey as her cargo, which she is taking to Mexico from Vancouver, B. C. Her machinery became disabled and she was almost on the rocks when assistance arrived and she was towed into Humboldt bay, where repairs were made

LOCATION FOR MOTOR INSPECTOR OFFICER SOUGHT

Charles J. Chenu, superintendent of the State Motor Vehicle Department, accompanied by Steve Neal, chief inspector for the department, spent today in Oakland looking for a location for the branch office of the motor vehicle department which is to be established here.

No definite location has as yet been decided upon, according to Chenu, who looked at more than a dozen proposed locations. He declared that before reaching a decision he wanted to be sure that the location would be a central one, yet just outside the business district in order to avoid congestion. He declared emphatically that the branch office would not be established in the Oakland city hall. In regard to this decision he said:

"I have not seen the offices in the city hall, and I know nothing of their accommodations. There may be plenty of room. But that will not make any difference, for I can say that the branch office will not be established there. A branch office must be within easy reach of motorists. The location must be where any number of automobiles can be accommodated at one time and where it can be easily reached by street car. At the city hall there is already established a zone in which is parked only municipal cars. There is much congestion there now without adding more. If the branch office was established there, there there would be a continual congestion for four blocks and perhaps more surrounding the hall."

Chenu said that wherever the location may be, it will be selected where it will best serve the people.

"There is no use in establishing an office in Oakland," he said, "unless we can give the best of service."

The office will be established in time to take care of the rush during the renewal period, Chenu said. The manager of the office, the rate clerk and the cashiers will be brought down from the main office at Sacramento. The office force will consist of probably eight clerks, who will be employed here.

"In establishing this office we are biding by the request of automobile owners of Oakland," Chenu said. "In so doing, we expect the cooperation of every automobile owner and automobile dealer in this city. By the establishment of the branch office here it is hoped that everyone will deal directly with this office and refrain from doing business with the main office by mail. It is also expected to cut down the work of the San Francisco office 50 per cent."

Intoxicated Driving Charge Being Tried

W. J. Culligan, theatrical man, living at 2400 Dana street, Berkeley, was brought to trial today on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. The case is being heard before a jury in the court of Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church.

The information filed against Culligan charges that on June 21, 1921, he drove an automobile onto the sidewalk on Telegraph avenue in Berkeley. The car knocked down an electrolier, grazed a small tree and brought up with a bump against a large tree that refused to move. Culligan, it is said, descended from his car and viewed the wreck. Asked his name by the policeman who arrested him he was able to answer correctly, but when asked where he lived could only say, "Eleven, eleven-eleven, eleven," whereupon he was taken to jail.

Culligan makes a general denial of the charge. The morning session was spent in securing a jury.

Insurance Agents in Convention in South

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15. — Members of the National Association of Insurance Agents in convention here planned to devote most of their time today to sightseeing. A business session was held in the forenoon and then the delegates and their families made the usual tour of motion picture studios and visited several nearby beaches, where various entertainment features had been arranged.

J. B. Levinson of San Francisco was the principal speaker at the business session, his topic being "Our Responsibilities and Obligations." Unethical re-insurance came in for criticism at the morning session, but the discussions related chiefly to automobile insurance. The losses in this class from fire, theft and accident have become appalling, speakers said, and a better schedule of rates was urged.

Antiquated Postcards of Oakland to Be Banished

This war was started when it was discovered that the "days of '49" were being palmed off on trusting tourists and ignorant easterners as Anno Domini 1921, as far as the illustrations of the postcards were concerned.

Announcement of the crusade is made in the current issue of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce "News," the semi-monthly publication of the organization, which is off the press today. The "News" says:

As you have a pride in Oakland, don't mail to your friends any postcards of your home city that are now on sale in many places here.

This is the urgent request of the Publicity Committee, which has a special sub-committee devising ways and means to force the present antiquated supply off the market by arousing interest in the production and sale of up-to-date postcards. To this end the committee, at a meeting on September 6, appointed as the sub-committee W. B. Armstrong, chairman; Oliver Kehrlein, G. M. Randall, Edwin Stearns and James Warrack.

WHAT COMMITTEE FOUND.

Oakland looking east from the City Hall—This photograph must have been taken about the time Carpentier was negotiating the famous little red school house deal.

Shipping scene—This is a view of the demolished Long Wharf, now a forgotten memory. The ships are there all right, but they are old wooden windjammers.

Broadway on a busy day—Riding up and down the street are prominent citizens astride bicycles. Others are driving at ease in the "old one-hoss shay." At hitching racks are the wagons of the farmers who have come to town to trade a dozen eggs for a yard of calico.

SHOULD BE UP-TO-DATE.

All of these postcards are published in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, New York and even Germany, and it is the intention of the Publicity Committee to try to interest local publishers to the extent of putting out something up-to-date and worthy of Oakland. To this end, it is planned to hold a postcard week, when everybody will be asked to send the new cards to friends in the East.

That there is a demand for postcards which show the real beauty of Oakland is the conclusion arrived at by the sub-committee after interviewing a number of dealers. It is reported that a San Francisco publisher has bought up all the existing old plates with the intention of forcing his product on the market through making a low price.

PROTEST IS IMMEDIATE.

The committee has obtained 150 "horrible examples" of postcards from the various dealers, and these have been sent to leading citizens. The storm of protest has been immediate, letters, phone calls and individuals coming constantly into the Chamber of Commerce offices to demand that something be done. Other organizations also have taken up the war, including the Merchants' Exchange and the Advertising Club.

The special sub-committee in charge of the postcard crusade will meet tomorrow afternoon to map out his campaign.

BERKELEY TO AID PINE TREE MET

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—Mayor Bartlett has issued a statement, urging employers of ex-service men that were members of the 91st American Division overseas to encourage these men to attend the reunion of the division in Los Angeles on September 24-25.

After eulogizing the achievements of the Pine Tree division, and quoting numerous messages of praise sent to the division by French commanders during the fighting in the Argonne, the statement says in part:

"Now the survivors are about to hold their annual reunion. Around the campfire they will renew the comradeships of the battlefield, do honor to their fallen brothers and revive the Spirit of 1918, which is the consummate expression of American citizenship. I recommend and urge that employers encourage members of the Ninety-first in their employ to attend this reunion; that on the 23d, 24th and 25th the residents of Berkeley display the flag and the Pine Tree emblem of this division; and that when the Berkeley delegation leaves for Los Angeles all join in an enthusiastic send-off as a token of the united sentiment of pride and appreciation in which we hold the members of the glorious Ninety-first."

Jury Disagrees On Bad Check Charge

Five hours of deliberation and discussion of the evidence was insufficient to reconcile the jurors on a verdict as to the guilt or innocence of Charles Snow. At the end of that time the jury reported to Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church that it was divided fifty-fifty on a decision and asked to be discharged, which was allowed.

Snow is charged with having passed a fictitious check for $28 on John Conby. John Hollenbeck, charged jointly with him, recently pleaded guilty to the accusation and asked for probation.

ELECTRICITY IS SUBSTANCE IN MOTION, LATEST

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 15. — Today's electrical textbooks may soon be as useless as a 1914 map of Europe if the new theory of the composition of electricity, just announced by Edgar L. Hollingshead of this city, is universally accepted. Hollingshead, who recently perfected the "Odic ray," which he calims will supplant radium, X-ray and the violet ray, disregards all accepted theories when he states that electricity is substance in motion and not simply energy or force, as heretofore held.

Meeting to Discuss Opening of Street

ALAMEDA, Sept. 15.—J. H. Halton, E. S. Babue and George H. Fox were appointed by the Chamber of Commerce directors last night as a committee to attend the special meeting of the city council, Monday, to discuss the opening of Versailles avenue. The meeting is being called because of the great number of protests being received from the residents in the east end of the city.

The midwinter league of the Alameda ball club and the drive for funds to be conducted by the Alameda Boy Scouts were also endorsed. The proposition of J. Gillies for the establishment of a steel plant was not endorsed.

Deaths in Blast To Be Investigated

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. — Investigation of the explosion and fire yesterday at the Point Breeze plant of the Atlantic Refining Company, which resulted in the death of eleven workmen and the injury of a score of others, was expected today by Director Cortelyou of the Department of Public Safety. Several of the injured are in a critical condition. Yesterday's fire is believed by officials of the company to have been caused by a lose connection in one of the tubes leading from a naptha still to a nearby vat.

FORGER SUSPECT ESCAPES FROM BERKELEY POLICE

BERKELEY, Sept. 15.—The police of the state are searching today for Irwin Rendall, alias Albert P. Morton, burglar and bad check suspect, who escaped yesterday afternoon in Sacramento from Detective A. R. Mehrtens of Berkeley police department.

Rendall had been taken to his former home in Sacramento and the scene of previous activities by Mehrtens to clean up on jobs there affecting Berkeley operations. That Rendall had a large sum of money hidden somewhere in Sacramento was the belief of the Berkeley authorities as they say he had told them of forging checks which netted him $2800 in a short time.

Following his custom, Mehrtens had not handcuffed his prisoner, the latter showing an evident willingness to co-operate with the authorities in cleaning up his case. It was while he was stopping for a second to attend to something on his machine that Rendall disappeared, says Mehrtens. So fleet was Rendall that he had vanished from sight in a second's time, according to Mehrtens.

The escape occurred in front of the house where Rendall formerly roomed and where Mehrtens had expected to find additional evidence against his prisoner, the section being one of the closely built-up residential districts of the capital city.

Rendall was captured last Saturday in the First National bank, where he was attempting to put over a check bearing the signatures of Mrs. and Mrs. Herbert Jones. He subsequently confessed to a half dozen burglaries, which, he said, he followed up by passing bad checks bearing signatures of the persons whose homes he had robbed.

Photographic Copy Of Will Is Filed

A photographic copy of the last will of William Langdon, brought from London, Ontario, was filed for probate in the county clerk's office today. The will is accompanied by half a dozen pages of official documents from the judge of the surrogate court, the registrar of the surrogate court, notaries, etc., and bears a fifty-cent "law stamp" similar to the revenue stamps in vogue in the United States.

Langdon, who came to Oakland from London, Ontario, several years prior to his death here on November 9, 1919, made and filed his will in the Canadian city on December 28, 1903. Following his death the will was admitted to probate in the Canadian court, most of his estate being in Canada. Some of Langdon's property, however, is in Oakland, and for this reason it was necessary to file a copy of the will here. The will leaves his whole estate to his widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Langdon, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Lammers, at 2327 Telegraph avenue.

Borden Will Let Ditch Remain Open

The expected war between the city of Oakland and I. L. Borden concerning a small water-course running between Forty-first and Forty-second avenues was nipped in the bud today when both Borden and the city, conceding none of their rights, agreed that the ditch will not be filled up again.

The ditch is on Borden's property. Borden filled it up. A street department gang cleared it. Borden filled it up again. The city cleared it again. Borden was about to take legal action, alleging trespass. City Attorney Leon Gray said the city does not concede that it trespassed. Borden said he did not concede the city's right to enter the property.

All indications pointed to a head-on collision between Oakland and Borden, when the latter said that from a standpoint of public welfare he believed the water-course should be uninterupted, though he conceded none of his rights. Oakland thanked him for his generous action, though it conceded none of its rights.

Terminal Lines To Have Display At Exposition

S. F.-Oakland Railway Exhibit to Be One Feature of Big Industrial Week.

The San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railway Company today arranged with the executive committee of the Associated Manufacturers of the Eastbay cities, which is staging the First Annual Industrial Week and Exposition to be held at Idora Park, October 1 to 9, inclusive, to lease a large amount of space for an interesting exposition exhibit.

Executives of the railway company announced today that patrons of the lines in Oakland, Emeryville, Berkeley, Alameda and other Eastbay cities will be given an opportunity to view one of the most interesting and the largest exhibit that the company has ever arranged for exhibition purposes.

The railroad company has secured one of the largest spaces, and among the features of the exhibit will be a huge map showing the territory served in the Eastbay section; the number of miles of track operated; number of cars used on the various lines; number of cars used during the "peak" hours of the morning and evening. The company will also have an exhibit of photographs showing the progress made during the 50 or more years that the system has been in operation. The exhibit will contain charts showing the number of passengers carried each year; the number of transfers issued and accepted by connecting cars.

The company officials announced further that it will take charge of the decoration of the downtown streets and the principal thoroughfares leading to Idora Park. Thousands of American flags and bunting will be utilized in the street decorating.

The manufacturers' committee was notified yesterday by David E. Martin, acting superintendent of Alameda county schools, that all county school teachers and pupils would join the manufacturers in making the first annual exposition a success. Superintendent Martin has inserted in the school building a request that all pupils enter the essay contest, being held in conjunction with the forthcoming exposition.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 15. — Police Judge E. L. Davin, charged by the last grand jury with wilful misconduct in office, because of alleged partiality in some cases and refusal to accept so-called "still pigeon" evidence in cases, was acquitted of the wilful misconduct charge by a jury in superior court this morning.

LONG WAR OVER POUNDMASTER TO BE SETTLED SOON

S. P. C. A. Directors Call Session to End Dispute; Osborne May Hold Job.

A full report on the "poundmaster war" was received today by Commissioner Frank Colbourn from Inspector Robert P. Tracy, who announces that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will have a directors' meeting next week, at which time the battle may come to a head and be ended.

According to Tracy's report, the directors interviewed were all in favor of keeping W. H. Osborne as poundmaster, but they all admitted the right of Dr. Thomas Carpenter, the executive, to make appointments. The latter has been trying to oust Osborne and put his own candidate in the job.

It is reported, however, that Carpenter has only the right to make temporary assignments, and these are subject to the confirmation of the board. Carpenter's candidate, Proctor, was not confirmed by the board, which, it is asserted, gave Carpenter a turn-down.

"I still maintain the city has no jurisdiction," says Colbourn. "Let them meet and thresh it out. The city has no kick coming so long as the society as a whole performs its work as poundmaster in a satisfactory manner."

Cheating Student Is Punished at U. C.

BERKELEY, Sept. 15. — Drastic action of the Student Affairs Committee, the tribunal of the university for dealing with infractions of the honor spirit, was announced on the campus today. The committee men, who are members of the senior class, voted at their last meeting to indefinitely suspend a senior student for cheating in an examination given at the close of last semester.

The vote of the committee to suspend the man indefinitely, with permission to apply for re-admission at the end of six months, was approved by President David P. Barrows. The man copied information in a final examination in electrical engineering.

MOST POPULAR DEBUTANTE HERE SOUGHT BY TEXAS

Oakland Officials Are Loth to Comply With the Request From Dallas.

Mayor Davie does not know, but he has been handed the task of finding her. The State of Texas wants her to appear in its big Texas Centennial Pageant at Dallas, October 8 where she can appear as a princess at the court of the pageant queen.

The Oakland debutante will get two ladies in waiting, one prince and two knights for her personal entourage. These accessories will be furnished free of charge, though nothing is said about paying her fare or putting up for her court regalia. The prince, knights and so forth are already on the job at Dallas, so they will be no added expense.

The Texas pageant will have 5000 persons to depict the history of that State, including the Oakland debutante, who is supposed to appear amid her sisters from all over the West, each princess having her prince, knights and ladies in waiting.

"The invitation," says Secretary Harold Weber at the mayor's office, "invites Oakland to appoint the 'most popular debutante, daughter of a representative Oakland family,' and also wants the names of 'ten Oakland families likely to participate at Dallas.' Here is a striking job for some Oakland girl, but appointing debutantes is somewhat out of the line of our official duties."
